MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 12.

HORRIBLE CRIMES shock the public.

At Littleton, Col., a man confesses that he kicked his three-year-old boy to death because the child would not, or could not, pronounce the word "breakfast." Colorado justice soon will make sure that this father will never kick another child to death.

Elsewhere, the father of a seven-months-old baby smothered the infant to collect $100 insurance on its life. You wonder that any man should be permitted to insure, for his own benefit, the life of a helpless child.

In England they used to have many cases of "overlaid" babies, infants sleeping with the mother supposed to have been smothered when the mother rolled over it in her sleep. England regulated child life insurance and fewer babies are "overlaid."

GOV. "ALFALFA BILL" MURRAY, who ordered out the National Guard to protect police and their prisoners, says:

"We don't want mobs in Oklahoma."

He is right.

The first mob may break into prison to lynch a criminal, the second into stores, a third into private houses and the fourth into the United States Treasury.

Such crimes seem incredible, but a majority of us are not 2,000 years away from cannibalism, and we are all only 12,000 years from the flints, bows and arrows, of the late Stone Age. Fortunately, we have hundreds of millions of years to go on this earth. Science proves it.

We may stop killing, and even cheating each other, about the year 1,001,933.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC train stops on the western shore of the wide Mississippi, crosses on a ferryboat, turns, runs nine miles along the riverbank, to New Orleans, its eastern terminal.

You need not go to Burmah, to see the dawn "come up like thunder." As you cross the Mississippi River, the sun rises, a violent red ball of fire, most beautiful, lighting the brown waters of the great river that every year washes millions of dollars' worth of soil out in the Gulf of Mexico.

Engineering genius will some day prevent that waste and keep part of those precious waters, impounding them near the source to irrigate western desert lands.

A HOSPITABLE city is New Orleans, and don't forget to visit this year's Mardi Gras celebration.

J. Walker Ross, editor of the New Orleans States, and Meigs O. Frost, crack writer of the States, meet you at the station just after sunrise with breakfast, including New Orleans coffee, ready at the hotel.

Prohibition's end will do a great deal for that fine old hotel, for the great coming Mardi Gras celebration, and all of this old city which knows enough to drink in moderation and appreciate good light wines.

L. K. NICHOLSON'S Times Picayune, in a special editorial, celebrated the revival of the terrapin industry.

But now the giant terrapin pen on Grand Isle, at the edge of Lake Borgne, becomes again the South's busiest terrapin city, and all through the South the terrapin industry revives.

THE LOUISVILLE and Nashville train, on which this is written, on its way from New Orleans through Mobile, Pensacola and beyond to Jacksonville, Fla., travels now along the northern edge of the Gulf of Mexico, across innumerable small bodies of water breaking into the coast line, passing and stopping at interesting old cities, Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, Gulfport, Biloxi, Ocean Springs, Pascagoula, Irvington and big Mobile, Ala.

ALL ALONG the French have left their memories and language Isle a'Pitre, Isle of Caprice, Petit Bois Island, Dauphin Island. From New Orleans, along the Gulf, down the Florida west coast around and up the Florida and Georgia east coast, this nation possesses a super-Riviera, two thousand miles long. You could lose those little fashionable north shores of the Mediterranean placed anywhere here, along the Gulf of Mexico.

Add the fifteen hundred mile stretch of coast from San Diego north along the Pacific Ocean to Seattle and you have something to talk about when you meet a man from Nice or Monte Carlo.

THIS GULF COAST is the winter home of at least nine millions of wild geese and ten times as many wild ducks.

A train acquaintance says:

"You must be a pretty poor shot if you can't get more wild geese and ducks than you need around here."

Patriotic Texans say the real place for wild geese and ducks is Eagle Lake, Texas. P. A. Guthrie, of the Southern Pacific, tells about old Fritz's ox, that would deeply interest enthusiastic duck shooters.

Old Fritz, the German farmer, rented his trained ox for $5 a day. With gun and cartridges, you led Fritz's ox by a short rope fastened to his halter, hiding yourself and gun behind the ox. As he walked along the edge of the lake, great flocks of wild blue geese and wild ducks

LINDBERGHS ARRIVE AT TRINIDAD

BULLETIN.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, defying the dangers of pathless junglelands and wild mountains, winged straight as an arrow toward Trinidad today on 946-mile hop from Manaos, Brazil.

A wireless from their plane received here at 12:30 p. m. (Pittsburgh time), reported:

"Passed mouth of Orinoco River. Rain squalls. Otherwise eight-tenths overcast and unlimited visibility."

Hastening home for Christmas after an epochal survey journey, they left Manaos far up the Amazon, at 4:48 a. m. (Pittsburgh time.) Up the rivers Negro and Branco they sped, with jungles, prairies and world-famed cataracts flashing by them.

Their course, as flashed to the Pan-American Airways, for which Col. Lindbergh is technical adviser, lay over the formidable Sierra Pacaraima Range, forming part of the Brazil-Venezuela border. At 11 a. m. (Pittsburgh time) Mrs. Lindbergh informed Pan-American:

"Flying through low clouds. All O. K."

SWARTZ, MULLS INDICTED

Murder indictments were returned today by the grand jury in two shootings and two fatal fights.

Irwin R. (Iggie) Swartz was indicted for the shooting of Andrew Garavini, downtown hacker, in a fight over Garavini's wife, who formerly was morried to Swartz, in front of the William Penn Hotel, November 9. Swartz is free on $5,000 bond set by Judge Elder W. Marshall.

Roy A. Mull, 47; his wife, Grace, 46, and their son, Elmer, 19, of 816 East Ohio street, were indicted for the murder of Margaret Schwickrath, the 23-year-old "mysetry girl," whose body was taken from a storm sewer in Allegheny River boulevard near Verona, October 30.

Indictments also were returned against George Hoskins, alias "Grand Pap," for the death of Percy Robinson, Negro, 31, of 133 Elem street, who died after being hit on the head with a brick, and John Olik for the death of Lawrence Szczap, 50, of 2 Pine street, Carnegie, stabbde during a fight October 29.

ICY STREETS BRING DEATH TO THREE

Woman, Man and Boy Killed; Mercury at 7 Sets Record

A man, a woman and a boy were dead today, killed in three widely-separated accidents, but all attributed to icy streets as the mercury fell to degrees, a record for the season and date.

The dead: Hubert J. Kline, 63, of 528 Hastings street; Mrs. Frances E. Merz, 24, of 7921 Graff avenue, Swissvale; Theodore Mientklwietz, 17, of 707 Park street, McKeesport.

Kline was killed when struck by an automobile at Penn and Denniston avenues. He was taken to West Penn Hospital by C. C. Bondell, of Squirrel Hill avenue, said to have been the driver of the car which struck him.

AUTO SKIDS, HITS TROLLEY

Mrs. Merz, a clerk for the Bell Telephone Company, was killed while on her way to work this morning when an auto driven by her husband skidded in rounding a curve in Fifth avenue near St. James place and collided head on with an outbound Hamilton avenue street car.

Her husband, William J. Merz, 28, suffered a possible skull fracture and was said to be in a serious condition in Homeopathic hospital. The automobile was reported demolished in the collision.

The accident occurred near the home of Thomas Fitzgerald, 5216 Fifth avenue, general manager and vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. He called a taxi and took the victims to the hospital.

The Mientklwietz boy died in the McKeesport Hospital soon after his sled struck a storm sewer at Fifth avenue and White street, McKeesport, last night.

ARNOLD COASTER HURT

Robert McAleer, 11, of 5002 Ridge avenue, Arnold, is in Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, with injuries suffered when his sled ran into an automobile on Richmond avenue hill, Arnold, last night, police reported. The automobile was driven by H. A. Redman, 836 Third avenue, New Kensington, according to police.

While the official low temperature early today was 7 the mercury fell to 1 above zero in Mt. Lebanon. Other temperatures reported were: Aliquippa, 3; Mt. Washington, 4; East Liberty, 12; North Side, 6.

The cold broke all records for this date, Observer W. S. Brotzman reported, the previous minimum being 12 in 1912. The low mark of the season up to today was 9 on November 16.

Pittsburgh was the coldest spot in the eastern half of the country, the weather map showed. A slow warming up is in prospect, the weather man predicted.

WEIR DAUGHTER GOES TO RENO

Preparatory to filing suit for divorce, Mrs. Dorothy Weir Breck, daughter of E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corporation, has established a residence in Reno, according to an Associated Press dispatch from the Nevada divorce colony.

Mrs. Breck would be eligible to file her suit against George D. Breck, Jr., a broker, of the Park Mansions, on January 8, it was announced. With Mrs. Breck is her mother, Mrs. E. T. Weir.

Mr. Breck is manager of the brokerage firm of Abbott, Hoppin & Co., and was founder and president of the Breck Fuel Company until 1929.

NRA SEEKING COURT BAN ON WEIR

Labor Board Would Restrain Steel Firm From Holding Vote

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—The National Labor Board will seek an order in Federal Court to enforce its rules for the election of employe representatives at the Weirton Steel Company Mills, an official of the board said tol day. The official said an injunction restraining the company from interference with the board's .plans would be asked.

Weirton Steel Company officials said today that only candidates named in yesterday's company union "primary" will be on the ballot when its employes vote, Friday, for representatives in collective bargaining.

Thus the company left the next move to the National Labor Board, which has implied it will prosecute under the National Recovery Act if such a course is pursued.

From Washington came a report that attorneys for the Labor Board will seek action in Federal Court, if necessary, to restrain interference with the board's plan for the election. The board was scheduled to meet today to consider latest developments in the situation.

The board was reported to have ordered its representatives in the field to proceed with the government plan for the vote.

Weirton Steel officials said the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers lost their last chance for representation at the polls when they failed to nominate candidates in accordance with the company union rules.

COMPANY'S CLAIM

The officials said 80 per cent of their employes at Clarksburg and Weirton, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., voted yesterday, and cited this as evidence that the Amalgamated was repudiated.

E. T. Weir, chairman of Weirton Steel, notified Senator Robert F. Wagner, Labor Board chairman, yesterday that the company's dealings with the federal body were at an end, and that it would proceed with the election of labor representatives in collective bargaining in accordance with rules adopted by its company union.

Chairman Wagner was represented as being so determined

Bank Robbed, Thug's Wife to Get Coat

BAY CITY, Mich., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Four men, all armed, robbed a National Bank of Bay City branch of an estimated $15,000 a few minutes after it opened for business this morning. One of the robbers remarked to a woman bank employe:

"My wife needs a new fur coat and she's going to get it."

Ousted as NRA Head

FORMER GOV. JOHN S. FISHER . . . . "I BEG TO CORRECT—"

Mr. Fisher, asked to resign as NRA committee chairman in Pittsburgh, who replied to Gen. Johnson: "I beg to correct your opinion with respect to my views about its (NRA) "ideas, ideals and purposes." With them I am in full accord." This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

EX-GOVERNOR TOLD BY CZAR TO QUIT

Chamber of Commerce President Defends Recovery Stand

Former Gov. John S. Fisher today had been ousted as chairman of the Pittsburgh NRA committee by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, on the ground that he was "out of sympathy with the ideas, ideals, purposes and processes of the NRA."

Fisher's resignation was sent to Gen. Johnson yesterday, four days after receipt of a terse message from the NRA chieftain asking that he relinquish his place as head of the committee.

The demand for the former Governor's resignation came after Mr. Fisher had been quoted in newspapers as having assailed certain features of NRA in an address a month ago.

FISHER EXPLAINS

In forwarding his resignation, Fisher emphasized that he was in full accord with the "ideas, ideals and purposes" of the NRA but not with all of its "processes."

In concluding Fisher asked this question:

"As I am president of the Chamber of Commerce, may I inquire whether it is your expectation that it shall continue to do the work and bear the expense as it has done in the past?"

Gen. Johnson's letter to Fisher follows:

"From your recent published utterances, it is quite evident that you are entirely out of sympathy with the ideas, ideals, purposes and processes of the NRA. Under the circumstances I think you will agree with me that you resign your position as chairman of the Pittsburgh NRA committee to which you were appointed."

DEFENDS STAND

In reply, Fisher wrote in part:

"You failed to submit any of the 'published utterances' to which you refer as the basis for your opinion that I am 'out of sympathy with the ideas, ideals, purposes and processes of the

PINCHOT SCORES GEN. MARTIN

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot loosed another broadside today against Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, and warned the Legislature's action in voting to adjourn without enactment of social legislation is equivalent to defying the popular will.

The attack brought only a trenchant reply from the Republican State Chairman that he had no time to pay attention to the "political tirade."

The Governor's expressions were carried in a letter to Martin, whom he charged with "blind leadership" that will bring Democratic victory in Pennsylvania next year. He also accused Martin of blocking confirmation of five Public Service Commissioners. He said:

"I am given to understand that you are the chief obstacle to action at this session in the interest of the workers, the farmers, the rate-payers, the home owners and the plain people generally.

"In particular, I am told that you are preventing, for political reasons, the confirmation of my five appointees to the Public Service Commission.

"If these things are true, then the best helper the Democrats have in their fight to control the state is the chairman of the Republican State Committee."

Pinchot Dubs Self 'Cook, Bottlewasher'

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot has applied for membership in the State Employes' Association, listing his occupation as "chief cook and bottle washer." The organization is being formed for the protection of state employes.

MOVE TO SLASH GARBAGE BOND

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Senator William D. Mansfield today introduced a bill clearing the way for Pittsburgh City Council to make a garbage contract for a five or 10-year period without compelling a bidder to put up a bond covering the entire period.

Bond for a long-term contract would be fixed at only half the estimated contract cost for one year.

It has been held by city legal authorities that a successful bidder should post bond for half the estimated cost for the full term—bond of possibly $7,000,000.

McNair Leaps From Dry to Wet Stand In 24 Hours and Thinks Nothing of It

Bible Class Told He'd Like to See Liquorless City

There are two sides to every question, and Mayor-elect William N. McNair is going to be on both, he implied today in announcing he will talk "wet" tonight in contrast to his "dry" talk last night before the Men's Bible Class of the Bethany Lutheran Church.

Here's what he told the Bible class:

"I'll go right along with a plan to have a referendum as soon as possible on making Pittsburgh dry."

Tonight he will tell members of the Croatian Citizens' Club at a banquet in his honor in Croatian Hall:

"You can have all the booze you want, if you don't tax it."

Clarifying his stand, McNair said:

"Well, it's like this: I talked dry last night; I might as well talk wet tonight."

But what he's really trying to put across is the importance of the single tax and economic rent idea. He told the Bible class:

"If you want to start a campaign to make Pittsburgh dry for moral reasons, all right, but

Club to Hear: 'Drink All the Booze You Want'

I'm interested in it so we can get these economic rents.

"But I don't have much hope of making Pittsburgh dry—I'll tell you that."

McNair took the opportunity in his dry talk of letting Councilman-elect William A. Magee know "he can't tell me what to do, nor anyone else." McNair went further with:

"And I won't run this town like it was run in his adminis-

Coyne Acts to Prevent Wabash Bridge Loan

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Senator James J. Coyne has prepared an amendment to the Allegheny County "authority" bill which would prevent the appointees of the County Commissioners from purchasing the Wabash Bridge and Tunnel with money borrowed from the federal government. The amendment provides that borrowings be used only for "new" work.

One project named in the bill creating the Authority is the purchase and repair of the Wabash Bridge and Tunnel as a South Hills traffic artery.

When the purchase first was proposed, at the close of the Armstrong-Babcock administration, it was reported that some intermediaries were to receive a fee running into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The project died with the defeat of organization commissioner candidates in 1931. The new commissioners balked at the price asked by the railroad.

A public hearing on the bill authorizing establishment of the "authority" was scheduled for late today before the House Judiciary-General Committee.

The bill has passed the Senate. Under its provisions, the proposed Brown's Bridge over the Monongahela River at Homestead could be constructetd with federal public works funds, the loan to be repaid from tolls collected at the bridge.

FRANCE DEFAULTS U. S. DEBT PAYMENT THIRD TIME

PARIS CABINET SCORNS BILL OF AMERICA

Firm Stand by Nation Against Plans of Hitler Approved

PARIS, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—A third default on the French debt to the United States was confirmed by the cabinet today.

At the same time a firm stand toward Chancellor Hitler of Germany was approved.

The government considers itself bound by the chamber's refusal to pay the United States a year ago and, since the situation has not changed in the meanwhile, Joseph Paul-Boncour, minister of foreign affairs, was instructed to reply to that effect to Washington's bill.

GERMAN PLEAS REFUSED

The debt statement was presented to the French government by Andre Lefevre de Laboulays, French ambassador to Washington.

The cabinet approved Paul-Boncour's vigorous declaration that France would neither consent to a Germany army of 300,000 unless the Nazi storm troops were included in the tabulation nor grant concessions in the Saar Basin, which Germany wants returned to her flag from the aegis of the League of Nations.

AWAIT BRITISH STAND

The attitude toward Germany will be formulated in detail at the next cabinet session after the British say how far they will support France and France's allies in the matter.

Likewise the cabinet awaits the end of a series of conferences which are being carried on with representatives of the Little Entente—Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia—on the German question. Incidentally, these conversations were expected in diplomatic quarters to bring Bulgaria into harmony with the Little Entente.

Debt Payments Due U. S. Aggregate 153 Millions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—The war debt payment due the United States from France December 15 amounts to $22,200,926, of which $2,354,438 is principal and $19,855,487 interest.

The French payment is second only in amount to that owed this month by Great Britain, amounting to $117,670,765.

London has announced its intention of making a token payment in dollars of $7,500,000.

France never has made a token payment. Last June her default amounted to $40,738,000 and the previous December $19,261,000.

Debt payments due the United States December 15 from all foreign debtors aggregate $153,024,327, of which $106,405,636 is interest and $46,618,691 principal.

NAZI REICHSTAG ELECTS HEADS

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—The German Reichstag met today for the shortest session in its history—seven and one-half minutes.

The new parliament was practically a Nazi body; women and Jews were completely absent. The absence of Chancellor Adolf Hitler, who was in Wilhelmshaven, was equally notable.

Crowds of spectators were disappointed by their inability to see Hitler.

When the session opened the legislators immediately re-elected Goering as president and elected as vice presidents Hans Kerrl, Prussian minister of justice; Thomas Esser, president of the Bavarian Diet, and Emil George Von Strauss, director of the Deutsche Bank and formerly a Populist party member of the Reichstag. Von Strauss' election was a concession to non-Nazis. He was instrumental in making a contact between Hitler and big business concerns during the months preceding Hitler's seizure of power.

SENATOR BACKS SECURITIES ACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Notice was given today by Chairman Fletcher of the Senate Banking Committee that if any change is made in the new securities control act, it will be to strengthen it rather than to bring about any modification.

This declaration was regarded as going far to stamp out any prospect of modification of the new Roosevelt law providing strict supervision over new security issues at the coming session of Congress.

Senator Fletcher proposed as one amendment that the liability clause be strengthened to eliminate the "loopholes" whereby those issuing may be exempted from civil damages if they prove they acted in "good faith." Fletcher said:

"There is a distinct need for this law. It has not slowed up the purchase or the issuance of sound securities. Of course, there are a lot of energetic brokers anxious to exploit the public and they want the law modified but I don't think it will be modified. I don't think they can get away with it."

TRADE GAINING, FIGURES SHOW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Two government departments have seen tangible indications of upward economic trends in industry.

The Commerce Department said today the recession in industrial production "which has been in progress since July may have come to an end during November."

Secretary of Labor Perkins told a radio audience last night that approximately $2,000,000,000 were added to pay envelopes between April and October 15.

The conclusion of Commerce Department, in its survey of current business, was founded on weekly business indicators.

Miss Perkins commented on "definite evidence of significant achievement" toward taking men and women off relief rolls, and putting them on jobs "from which they will draw pay envelopes regularly with a decent living wage in them."

WOMEN ACQUIT MAN IN THEFT

A jury of 12 women, in a sealed verdict opened today in Criminal Court, acquitted Maurice Kaminsky, 35, of McKeesport. He was charged with robbing elderly Joseph Urban and Mrs. Urban, of Versailles Township, of $7,000 cash and $4,000 in diamonds.

Mrs. Urban identified Kaminsky, who operated a laundry route, as one of two men who bound and gagged her and forced her to open a safe in which the couple's life savings had been placed after they had withdrawn it from a bank. Kaminsky was found guilty of the robbery last spring, but was granted a new trial.

Theodore Roosevelt's Widow at Reception

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt came in from Sagamore Hill yesterday for one of her rare appearances in public—a reception at Roosevelt House, the East Twentieth street birthplace of her famous husband.

The widow of the President greeted 500 members of the Women's Roosevelt Memorial Association, standing in the reception line beside her son and daughter-in-law, Col. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.

Users May Order Liquor for Import

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—United States citizens may order liquor from foreign distilleries for their personal consumption, but they must pay both the tariff and inetrnal revenue taxes.

The tariff is $5 a gallon and the internal revenue tax is $1.10.

tration. It was a wide-open town then, so why should I take orders from him?"

Without explaining the connection between booze and garbage, McNair told his interviewer today that he is inclined to favor a garbage and sewage disposal plant, but observed:

"But then the Flinn family has to make its money somewhere."

McNair cut his garbage and liquor discussion short to attend a city Council budget session at which he asked Councilman William J. Soost to serve as judge of Pennsylvania Dutch dishes to be served at a dinner to be given in McNair's honor by friends from his home town of Middletown.

McFarland to Go, McNair Says; Safety Post Up in Air

Having eliminated John D. Pennington, former prohibition administrator here, as a possibility for Director of Public Safety, because he isn't a Pittsburgher, McNair today said:

"I don't know. Nobody but the church people have made any suggestions, so we may have to name Pennington yet."

For his director of health there didn't seem a lot of dissension over Joseph F. Guffey's nomination of Dr. Irvin D. Metzger for the post now held by Dr. William W. McFarland.

'O. K' WITH WIFE

McNair said:

"Guffey tells me he's a homeopathic doctor, so I guess that'll satisfy my wife."

Metzger's a past president of the American Institute of Homeopathy and of the medical examining board.

Dr. McFarland, the present director, is definitely "out"—take it from McNair. McFarland's a Republican and that's enough to disqualify him, the Mayor-elect says.

KEEPING HIS PROMISE!

Appeals of many, including the Leech Farm Committee of the Health Colony Club, that McNair spare the hatchet in McFarland's instance, are met by the remark that:

"I promised to throw every Republican out of City Hall, didn't I? Well, that's one campaign promise I'm going to keep, so far as Dr. McFarland goes."

Meanwhile, McNair announced that Thomas C. McMahon, city assessor, will talk before the Henry George Club Friday noon on the graded tax law that McNair's trying to extend to the county and school district.

And that cinches McMahon's job for another four years—favoring the graded tax bills now in the assembly was the one condition of McMahon's reappointment, McNair said recently. McMahon's a single-taxes, like the Mayor-elect and many of his friends and advisers.

U. S. MAY REVISE TREATY TO AID CUBAN PEACE

Plan Would End Right Of Intervention to Halt Warfare

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—A plan under which the United States might offer to abrogate the Platt amendment in order to help smooth unrest in Cuba was reported authoritatively today at the State Department to have been discussed.

It was reported in unofficial quarters in Washington today that Ambassador Welles in Havana already has made some overtures toward abrogating the amendment, which authorizes American intervention in Cuba under certain circumstances.

Welles' conversation was said to have taken place in connection with conferences designed to bring opposing factions in the island together, which were reported to have broken down last night.

DEMAND ISLAND PEACE

In other official quarters, however, it was stated today that the State Department probably would not object to proposals to modify the Platt amendment if it would serve to provide the basis for a new deal in Cuba.

Unless Cuban groups get together in their conciliation efforts, however, it was intimated that the present would be an inauspicious time to initiate any treaty revision.

President Roosevelt, on November 24 at Warm Springs, Ga., issued a statement in which he expressed a desire to modify the treaty of 1901, which includes the intervention stipulation.

WELLES TO LEAVE

HAVANA, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Ambassador Sumner Welles, of the United States, announced today he would leave Cuba by airplane at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow for Miami and would continue to Washington to resume his duties in the State Department.

Ambassador Wellessaid Jefferson Cafferty, President Roosevelt's personal representative to Cuba, would come to Havana "within three or four days."

Cafferty will service in Cuba as personal representative of the President, rather than as Ambassador, since the United States has not recognized the present government of President Ramon Grau San Martin.

94 DEAD, SPAIN QUELLS REVOLT

MADRID, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Authorities throughout Spain announced today that the anarchist uprisings in which 94 have been slain and hundreds wounded in four days of violence had been put down.

Further, they said a threatened general revolutionary strike had failed. It was believed the government now will find it unnecessary to declare a state of martial law.

Breaking out last Friday in a series of bombings and riotous demonstrations, the revolt spread quickly through Central and Northeastern Spain.

Violence reached its peak yesterday in bitter clashes between government troops and roving bands of extremists, but there were only a few scattered minor disorders during the night.

WYNEKOOP FREE TO AID MOTHER

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Earle Wynekoop was free today to look for clues by which he hopes to vindicate his 62-year-old mother, Dr. Alice Wynekoop, accused as the slayer of Earle's young wife, Rheta.

Released from County Jail yesterday after the state had dismissed a charge that he was an accessory to Rheta's death, young Wynekoop said:

"I will do everything I can to vindicate my mother. She isn't going to face this alone."

Dr. Wynekoop who is ill at County Jail, is scheduled to go on trial January 4.

Anderson to Retire On Pension Jan. 1

James B. Anderson, of Crafton, former Pittsburgh postmaster, will be placed on a pension January 1 under the postal employes' 30-year retirement plan, it was announced today.

Anderson, for 32 years in the postal service, began as a messenger boy and last July finished six years as postmaster when William M. Turner was appointed by President Roosevelt to his post. He was then appointed cashier in the money order department. In politics Aanderson is a Republican.

Repeal Starts Rush For Revenue Stamps

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Shipments of internal revenue stamps jumped upward $20,000,000 in the week prohibition was repealed.

Internal Revenue Bureau officials said shipments have averaged around $11,000,000 a week but that last week they went over $30,000,000.

WALLACE, PEEK OUTLINE FARM PROGRESS

Travel to Chicago on Same Train, But Do Not Meet

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace presented today a report of his stewardship as champion of the farmers' rights and asked members of the American Farm Bureau Federation to bide with the Roosevelt administration's program for recovery.

Wallace sat on the speakers' platform at the farm bureau convention with George N. Peek, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, who has been appointed to another post outside the department after disagreement with some of the Wallace policies.

The Secretary of Agriculture arrived after Peek had finished speaking, and Peek remained to listen to his address.

The farmer should look upon the agricultural recovery plan, Wallace said, with a broad viewpoint, rather than with a gaze confined to local problems on questions affecting any single crop or phase in the wide range covered by the AAA.

Both he and Peek urged that farmers not be dissatisfied over slowness in the program, and both declared already much more good than appeared on the surface had been done.

In only one respect did their remarks differ: concerning the possibility of increasing agricultural income by exports, Peek's new position is with a department which will seek to increase such exports.

Wallace and Peek came to Chicago on the same train—but separate cars.

They arrived from Washington on the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio, Secretary Wallace in car 54, Peek in car 51. The train crew said they were not seen together, although Wallace's secretary conferred last night with Peek.

Secretary Wallace jumped off the train and strode into a circle of camermen. He stopped for pictures, telling newsmen Peek was "back there." Peek did not stop, walking directly to a taxicab.

FACTOR KIDNAP TRIAL DELAYED

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—A new phenomenon—gangsters without lawyers—appeared today when Roger Touhy and three of his henchmen were arraigned before Judge Miller on charges of kidnaping John Factor and obtained a week's time to get themselves an attorney.

Judge Miller then set the hearing for a week from today.

The sudden disappearance of Helen Terry, cafe entertainer and a key witness for the state in the forthcoming trial, at first gave rise to reports that she might have been whisked away by Touhy sympathizers.

Assistant Prosecutor Wilbert Crowley said that all of the important state witnesses were under guard to prevent attempts at intimidation. He intimated that the entertainer, who is expected to identify Factor's kidnapers, had moved to secret quarters. Another woman witness is being guarded by six policemen.

Miss Terry, it was disclosed, was in the kidnapers' cottage while Factor was being tortured into arranging for his release on the payment of $70,000 ransom. She has agreed to testify for the state.

COWBOY KILLER UNDER GUARD

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—An individual cell, closely guarded, has replaced the open range for Jack Wisdom, 26-year-old cowboy said by Assistant County Attorney Eli Eubanks to have signed a statement that he abducted and slew Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pritchard. The cell is in the Kansas State Reformatory, where Wisdom is held for safe keeping.

In his statement Wisdom said he killed the couple November 23, the first day of their disappearance, on a highway in Sumner County, south of Wichita, after he had met the Pritchards in a Wichita cafe and the merchant had demanded immediate settlement of a worthless check for $21.40 Wisdom had given him.

The bodies were found in Oklahoma, Mrs. Pritchard's Sunday and her husband's Monday. Wisdom was arrested Sunday near Jay, in the Eastern Oklahoma hills.

Greensburg Election Case Ruling Reserved

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 12.—Judge C. E. Whitten today reserved decision in the election contest procedings instituted by Dr. R. A. Wolf, New Kensington new deal candidate for burgess, against Daniel Burns, Republican, following a motion by Burns' attorneys to dismiss the proceedings.

The case originally began after the November election when Burns defeated Wolf.

WITNESS TELLS OF 'COACHING'

Attorney H. Lee Ratner, 124 South Highland avenue, is on trial before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, on a charge of subornation of perjury. The case grew out of the trial last December in Federal Court of Harry Reitzell, convicted and sentenced to three years in the Lewisburg Penitentiary on a Mann Act charge.

Agnes Ferich, referred to as the "platinum blonde," who was a government witness a the trial against Reitzell, testified yesterday that Ratner, counsel for Reitzell, instructed her to say that she did not know Reitzell. Miss Ferich also testified that Ratner coached her as to how to answer questions on the witness stand, she to be advised by signals in the manner by which the attorney held his hands.

She said she had been given directions to say: "I do not remember" and "I refuse to answer for fear it might incriminate me."

Miss Ferich was brought here from the Federal Reformatory for Women, at Alderson, W. Va., where she is serving a term for perjury.

LAWYER FIGHTS DISBARMENT

Attorney Joseph B. Weddell, against whom charges were recently filed by the Allegheny County Bar Association, asking he be disbarred for misconduct, has on file today an answer denying the allegations.

Weddell asks the court to dismiss the petition at the cost of the petitioners and that the rule granted on him to show cause why he should be disbarred, be dismissed and that he be exonorated.

Attorney Weddell takes particular issue with the Bar Association in stating that he was notified by the Bar Association Offense Committee in April, 1932, that charges of fraud and misconduct in office were made against him at that time. He said he received no notice until June, 1932.

'New World' Chorus Makes Einstein Weep

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert Einstein, German scientist, attended a recital of the Westminster Choir arranged for his special benefit today, wept a few tears of pleasure at the fourth movement of the "New Symphony," and departed alone, expressing profuse thanks.

CRIME RECORD LAID TO VOTE DEFENDANT

U. S. Surprise Witness Accuses Member of Third Ward Board

The government sprang a surprise in the fifth vote fraud trial in Federal Court today by producing a witness who testified one of the six defendants had a criminal record.

Closing addresses were being made by counsel this afternoon, preparatory to giving the case to the jury.

Frank J. Cosgrove, a detective, of Paterson, N. J., called in rebuttal, testified that "George Sands" whom he identified from the witness stand as Davey Slutsky, a clerk of the election board, Sixth District, Third Ward, had pleaded guilty to embezzlement in Paterson, June 19, 1930, and had been placed on probation.

DEFENSE PLEAS FAIL

Detective Cosgrove further testified that he had first seen "Sands" or Slutsky in a penitentiary in Philadelphia. Under cross examination yesterday Slutsky had denied ever having been arrested.

Defense Counsel Sebastian Pugliese objected to the testimony and asked that a juror be withdrawn and the trial discontinued. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker refused.

The government also called last-minute witnesses in an effort to break down the alibi set up by another defendant, Constable Harry Kart.

Myrtle Aiken and Leo Logue testified they had been arrested on election day, 1932, by Kart, the former about 1 p. m. and Logue at 2 p. m. Kart had placed the time at late in the afternoon. Kart also had said he was accompanied by his brother-in-law, Albert Glick, in serving the warrants. Logue denied this.

TELLS OF RECOUNT

The defense called Dr. F. C. Ferrante, of the County Bureau of Elections, who testified he had supervised the recount of ballots last March 15 in the Muldowney-Felix Congressional contest. He said there were 35 straight Democratic ballots. N. D. Zimmerman, government investigator, had placed the number at 53.

In addition to Slutsky and Kart the defendants are Anthony Sibilia, judge; Jack Frankel and Henry Silverstein, inspectors; Harry Kalson, clerk, and Constable Harry Kart. All are charged with conspiracy to falsify returns at the general election last year.

All the defendants took the stand yesterday and made a general denial of all charges. Character witnesses also testified for the defense.

NEW TRIALS SOUGHT

Both Sibilia and Kalson repudiated what purported to be their testimony before the federal grand jury. Kalson, a law student at the University of Pittsburgh, said his testimony before the grand jury should "be taken with a grain of salt" as he was confused by four or five persons "shooting" questions at him.

Counsel yesterday filed motions for new trials for Albert Diulius, Albert Levine, William Kennedy and Joseph Ridge, convicted in the fourth fraud trial last week.

Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed announced the second trial of the election board of the Nineteenth District, Fourth Ward, scheduled for tomorrow, had been postponed indefinitely. The jury which first tried the case disagreed after 2 hours' deliberation.

WASHINGTON CO. VOTE PROBE ON

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 12.—Nine ballots cast in the First Precinct, Eighth Ward, of this city, definitely were marked by more than one person, M. A. Nernberg, Pittsburgh handwriting expert, testified in court here today as the first of 10 Washington County election contests entered its second day of hearing.

Testifying before Judges James I. Brownson and Howard W. Hughes, Nernberg said that each one of the nine ballots selected for examination bore both a cross for the straight Democratic tickets and other crosses opposite the names of two Republican candidates.

On each of the exhibits, he told the court, crosses were placed opposite the names of C. L. V. Acheson, Republican candidate for Common Pleas judge, and of Fred W. Brady, Republican candidate for Sheriff, while the ballots also bore crosses in the Democratic "straight ticket" square.

Hunt Oil Operator Believed Kidnaped

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 12.—Hunters today were searching the woods for Clark Witherup, 50, Kennerdell oil operator, believed to have been kidnaped and robbed. A son, Walter, 19, told police his father boarded an auto near Clintonville, apparently to aid the driver in getting out of the woods.

Russ Far Eastern Plan Held Warning to Tokio

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service.

MOSCOW, Dec. 12.—With newspapers stressing the "aggravated situation in the Pacific," the Soviet government today promulgated a highly significant decree containing and unmistakable reminder to Japan that the U. S. S. R. intends to develop its Far Eastern areas to a point where they will be not only self-supporting but impregnable.

The decree has the following announced aims:

1—Encouragement of emigration from European Russia to remote and at present thinly-populated sections of Siberia.

2—Lightening the burdens of labor of those workers and others far removed from the cultural centers of the U. S. S. R.

3—Making settlers happy by removing causes of discontent and encouraging them to acquire material wealth.

4—Encouraging self-sufficiency to alleviate the burdens now retarding transport, presumably making it available for military purposes.

5—Keeping members of the Red army contented by substantial wage increases.

Effective on January 1, the decree contains five sections, each of which is significant in the light of Soviet Russia's avowed policy to guarantee peace by preparing for war. They are as follows:

"First, for ten years all collective farms and for five years all individual peasants in the Far Eastern regions are relieved of the responsibility of delivering any grain or rice to the government.

"Second, for ten years, certain districts are relieved of the obligation of delivering to the state meat, potatoes, sunflower seed, wool, milk, butter, hemp and certain vegetables.

"Third, for ten years the obligation of all other districts in the Far Eastern region are reduced by 50 per cent.

"Fourth, fish supplied to the state must be increased by 20 per cent.

Mickey Mouse to Go Into Art Galleries

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. — (AP.)—Laugh all you please at Mickey Mouse, but keep it in mind please — you'll be laughing at a high brow.

For Mickey is getting places other than the talking screen. The latest place of abode will be none other than the galleries of the Art Institute of Chicago.

Director Robert B. Harshe made the announcement, fixing December 14 as the date for the first showings of 100 originals by Walt Disney, originator of Mickey Mouse.

'IT WAS HIS LIFE OR MINE,' WIDOW CRIES ON STAND

TELLS OF MATE TAKING PISTOL TO BED

Declares Slain Man Had Threatened To 'Finish Her'

Mrs. Joan Rohrberg, 42, on trial for murder, today on the witness stand told of shooting to death her husband Joseph, 48, crying:

"It was his life or mine."

The shooting occurred October 7 in their home, 72 Transvaal avenue, Ross Township, as the climax, the wife related, of years of discord, and after he had threatened to "finish her."

After their marriage in a village near Berlin, Germany, the wife testified she learned from her husband that both he and his father had been in an insane asylum. He would have outbursts of fury, she said, and continually fought with her. She testified:

"If I looked him straight in the eye when he was in one of his fits he would stop and hang his head. But if I didn't look at him he would rave."

The night of the shooting, Mrs. Rohrberg told the jury, her husband had taken a revolver to bed, and had leaped up as if to strike her. She grabbed the gun and shot him four feet away, she said.

Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff asked:

"You were at the door. Why didn't you go out without shooting?"

The accused woman replied:

"He scared me so I lost all control."

NEEDY ARTISTS TO GET RELIEF WORK HERE

Jobs for 80 Seen in U. S. Aid Plan Backed By Mrs. Roosevelt

A government art project, backed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and supervised by the Treasury Department, to give needy artists in the Tri-State district "bread and butter," was begun here today.

Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts at Carnegie Museum, today was named as chairman of the project in this district after the Civil Works Administration had approved the plan. He has picked a committee of seven men to assist him.

Some 80 artists to be employed by the committee will be mural painters, sculptors and craftsmen. They will decorate federal and other publicly-owned buildings supported wholly or in part by tax funds.

NEED FOR SPEED STRESSED

The plan was worked out, Saint-Gaudens said, at a meeting he attended last Friday in Washington and which brought together various American artists and government officials. He said:

"The need of haste was particularly impressed on us—the need of bread and butter today. We are to put needy artists to work at once with as little red tape as possible."

Mrs. Roosevelt attended the meeting, which was held at the home of Edward Bruce, painter. In an Associated Press dispatch she was quoted:

"I think this plan has tremendous possibilities for awakening the interest of the people as a whole in art and for developing artistic qualities which have not come to light in the past and for recognizing artists who already have made names among their fellow artists, but who have had little recognition from the public at large. The art of a country is a sign of its virility and strength."

PROGRAM NATION-WIDE

The program will be under the general supervision of L. W. Robert, Jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. The amount of money to be involved could not be learned.

Throughout the country about 2,500 artists will be given employment through the direction of 14 regional committees. They will also be put to work in making pictorial records of national activities under the recovery program, Saint-Gaudens said.

The project will last until February 15.

The committee includes: Albert Daschbach, of the General Outdoor Advertising Company; Walter Hovey, of the Department of Fine Arts, University of Pittsburgh; Edward B. Lee, architect; John L. Porter, secretary and treasurer of the 100 Friends of Pittsburgh Art; Wilfred A. Readio, of the College of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology; Elmer A. Stephan, of the Board of Public Education, and Christian J. Walter, president of the Associate Artists.

The committee will meet today in Saint-Gaudens' office to plan the project.

7 IN FIRE, WATER FACE DEATH WITH SONGS

Bridge Pier Workers Rescued From Flame-Filled River Tomb

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Seven bridge workers faced death with songs before rescuers succeeded late yesterday in saving them from a smoke-filled diving caisson 102 feet below the surface of the Missouri River.

Certain that death awaited them, the "sandhogs" joined in singing as they lay face down in mud and water to escape the choking fumes from a fire below an air lock in one of the tubes leading to the surface.

Rescue beat death by only 10 minutes. The smoke had descended to within a foot of the bottom of the chamber, and had filled all three entrance and exit tubes.

Of the things which took place in the hour and a half the smoke kept descending, the singing stood out most vividly in the recollections of Ben Bradley, for 12 years a "sand hog." He recalled:

"Nobody said a word about dying. Nobody looked as if he thought he was going to die. But you got the feeling anyway. What is that, what do you call it? Telepathy! Yes. But not a guy chirped. Everybody just sung and coughed and coughed and sung and coughed some more."

He couldn't recall the specific songs they sang, or who had proposed the idea.

Rescuers worked frantically under the direction of I. E. Hayes, construction superintendent. The problem was how to extinguish the fire below the safety door withotu releasing the compressed air which kept the muck from engulfing the men below.

A stream of water under high pressure finally extinguished the flames, and the men were brought up through an air lock chamber in the usual manner.

The men, all of whom made their way to the surface unassisted, were: J. J. Murphy, foreman; Jack Wright, Elmer and Ben Bradley, John Lacey, Jack Smith and Robert O'Dell, all of Kansas City.

ARCHDUKE OTTO EYES U. S. GIRLS

Universal Service.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Archduke Otto, pretender to the thrones of Hungry and Austria, is credited with a desire to seek a bride in England and America.

This is the report current today in circles close to the beautiful Princess Sixte de Bourbon Parma, whose ill husband is the Archduke's uncle.

In the United States, it is said, Otto would have as his guide the former Gladys Vanderbilt, now Countess Szechenyi, of Hungary. But the initiated are pointing out that the countess' mother, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, would be no help in the search. She is said to be prejudiced against foreigners.

Former Empress Zita, Otto's mother, is anxious for her handsome son to meet Anglo-Saxons sympathetic toward Hungary, but—no marry? Ah, No!

However, when told the story, the former Queen of Spain is supposed to have remarked:

"Has anyone forgotten the Duke of Abruzzi's visit to America, or my son's marriage to a Cuban commoner?"

KILLS BROTHER IN GUN MISHAP

FREEPORT, Pa., Dec. 12.—A 15-year-old boy is dead in his home near here today from a gun shot wound in the head received when a loaded shot gun was accidentally discharged while in the hands of his 10-year-old brother.

The father, R. L. Shearer, returing from hunting late yesterday, left the loaded gun in a room in the home.

Later the two boys, Richard, 10, and Lewis, 15, entered the room and as Richard was examining the weapon it was discharged, the charge striking Lewis in the head.

The wounded boy was taken to the Allegheny Valley Hospital, in Tarentum, where he died a short time later.

Police Hold Youth As 'Thrill' Slayer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Detective Capt. Fred Parsons says 18-year-old Henry Boyington, of Livingston, Mont., has voluntarily admitted at least 15 recent strong-arm robberies, including one that resulted fatally to the victim. Parsons said the youth told him:

"I get a big kick out of seeing them squirm when I hit them."

The man fatally clubbed died yesterday in a hospital. He has not been identified.

New Flood Perils Pacific Northwest

SEATTLE, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—A new flood today threatened a section of the Pacific Northwest, already swept by swollen streams which have caused damage estimated in the millions of dollars. Deaths of nine persons in Washington, Oregon and Idaho were blamed on lowland floods and mountain blizzards.

The new flood threat came in Northwestern Washington as the Skagit and Snohomish Rivers were swollen by torrents pouring down from the mountains.

NEW ROMANCE DENIED BY RUDY

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.—Reiterating his denial of a new romance in his life and with the declaration that he had no immediate intention of seeking a divorce from Fay Webb Vallee, Rudy Vallee, crooner and orchestra leader, was here today to fill a film engagement at the Fox studios.

Vallee said he had the highest praise "both professionally and personally" for Alice Faye, blues singer.

He said:

"But as for a romance with Miss Faye I'll have to admit that such a thing is untrue. I have the highest regard for Miss Faye and consider her a most charming and talented person. She is under personal contract to me."

He was silent on queries of a possible reconciliation with his estranged wife, who is at the home of her father, Police Chief C. E. Webb, of Santa Monica.

Vallee said:

LAWYER KEILLY DISBARRED

David S. Keilly, a member of the Pittsburgh bar since 1908, was disbarred from practice today by order of Judge George V. Moore in Common Pleas Court.

Keilly, found guilty by the court on charges that he employed runners to bring him personal injury and property damage cases, was also found by the court to have misappropriated funds belonging to some clients and to have illegally withheld sums from others.

When his prosecution began last October 27 his counsel presented a letter to the court from Keilly in which he wrote that he was on his way to California. His present whereabouts are unknown.

BANDITS SNATCH WOMAN'S PURSE

Confronted by two bandits who threatened to shoot her if she did not surrender her purse, Miss Clarissa Painter, of 5917 Walnut street, was robbed of the bag near her home last night.

Miss Painter, a department store clerk, was returning home from work when the men, one holding his hand in his pocket, ordered her to hand over her purse. When Miss Painter did not comply, one threatened to shoot her while the other snatched her purse.

It contained $2.50 in cash and eyeglasses valued at $10.

The purses of Mrs. Muriel Greenberg, of 3155 Ewart drive, and Miss Estelle Branch, of 5439 Hill Crest avenue, also were stolen. Mrs. Greenberg was accosted in Herron avenue and robbed of a $20 purse and $4 in currency. Miss Branch reported that she had lost $20 to a man who grabbed her purse as she walked in Dallas avenue.

A $7 purse and 15 cents in change was stolen from Dorothy Ball, of 710 Herron avenue, as she neared her home late last night, she reported to police.

KING'S 'NEPHEW' DENIES PLOT

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Clarence Guy Gordon Haddon, who claims to be the illegitimate son of the late Duke of Clarence, brother of King George V, was committed for trial at the next session of historic Old Bailey Court after he had pleaded not guilty today to "demanding money from the King with menaces."

He was remanded to jail after a hearing December 4 on a charge of attempting to extort money from the King.

Haddon reserved his defense when it was announced today that he must stand trial. He declared:

"I never had any criminal intention."

The 43-year-old joboless engineer wrote a letter to the King last June in which he said he was forced to wash his own dirty linen in a back room "and that of the royal family in public for a living."

Kin of Gen. Wallace Injured in Crash

MT. KISCO, N. Y., Dec. 12.—(INS.)—Suffering from severe head injuries, Mrs. Lew Wallace, of Rye, wife of the grandson of Gen. Lew Wallace, Civil War soldier and author, today was in a serious condition. She was injured when an automobile in which she was riding collided with another near Chappaqua.

Her husband and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. Durno Chambers, were cut and bruised. Wallace suffered a fractured jaw and leg.

Retail Clerks Must Pay Cost of Code

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Every employe of a retail establishment will contribute 25 cents a year under new regulations prescribed by NRA for financing the retail code authority.

Local authorities may make additional assessments, but no worker is to give more than $1 annually toward expenses of code authorities, national and local.

Retailers will be given new NRA insignia as rapidly as they execute assessment forms and pay their assessments. The insignia will carry the Blue Eagle, the words, "We Do Our Part," and the name of the division of the trade in which the individual retailer is engaged.

CLEANERS DEFY NRA PRICE CODE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—NRA set the machinery of federal enforcement at work today on nearly a hundred merchants, mostly little ones, who refuse to keep step with coded industry.

In the early hours of this morning it ended a public session at which dry cleaners from all over the country who had not raised their prices to the levels set by their code were given one more chance to do so voluntarily.

Some told NRA to bring on its Federal Trade Commission prosecutors, others pleaded that higher prices would ruin them.

Officials showed clearly their recognition that this was a critical passage for NRA. The court-like session followed upon hours of protests against schedules set by the code authority, ranging from 65 to 95 cents. Many objectors were small individualists, but the bulk were linked in an association of cash and carry cleaners who wanted to keep a 40-cent price.

FIRE HITS AL'S FISH MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Al Smith's alma mater caught fire yesterday and "Minnie the Moocher" died a heroine.

The "school" is Fulton Fish Market—venerable, smelly, famous—where Smith says he was graduated with the F. F. M. degree. Minnie was the house cat and a mother.

Two sections of the market were destroyed by flames that started in a loft filled with fish baskets. It was page one news here, because Smith worked there as a young man when red herrings were fish to him and not political expressions.

Aged Woman Burned Lighting Fire in Home

Burned when her clothing ignited as she was attempting to light a fire in a stove early today, Mrs. Frances Breigel, 83, of 2034 Lowrie street, was in Allegheny General Hospital in a critical condition.

Castle Shannon Recount Ordered

Judge Ralph H. Smith has ordered a recount of the ballots cast in the First District of Castle Shannon at the last general election, on petition of Attorney Walter W. Riehl.

RAIL RATES CUT FOR HOLIDAYS

Lowest Christmas holiday fares ever offered were announced today by the Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and the Baltimore and Ohio railroads.

Tickets will be sold for round-trips at a fare and one-ninth, beginning December 14 and continuing through to January 1, and will be valid for returning until January 15.

These tickets, according to official announcements, will be honored in sleeping cars, parlor cars and coaches. Round-trip sleeping car tickets will be sold on the basis of one and one-half times the normal one-way rate.

In addition, the roads are offering excursion tickets to Florida and other winter resorts at new low rates. They are divided into three classes: Season limit tickets at 80 per cent of double the normal one-way fare; 30-day limit at about 70 per cent of double the one-way fare, and 15-day tickets at about 55 per cent of double the one-way fare.

SIX CHILDREN SAVED IN FIRE

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Dec. 12.—Four adults and six children were forced into near zero weather when fire destroyed their home at 949 South Walnut street, Ambridge, early today.

Lewis Scrompolla and his wife, Mary, were rescued by firemen from the porch roof, where they had gone in their night clothing when trapped on the second floor of the two and a half story frame dwelling.

The Scrompolla children, Tony, 7; Catherine, 3, and Francis, 2, were taken to safety by Jacob Zaworsky and his wife, Mary. The Zaworskys also rescued their own children, Olga, 3; Ferena, 9, and Tony, 14.

The fire, believed to have been caused by an overheated stove, caused $3,000 damage, according to Fire Chief Charles Egan, of Ambridge.

Former Rankin Mill Superintendent Dies

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Funeral services for Miney J. Hurley, 72, retired steel man who died Sunday, will be held tomorrow. He was superintendent of the rod mill of the American Steel and Wire Company at Rankin, Pa., and later had charge of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company plant at Ensley, Ala., retiring 20 years ago.

Homestead School Robbers Hunted

Homestead police today sought a gang of boys they blame with breaking into the Third Ward School, damaging teachers' desks to the tune of $25 or $30, and stealing scissors, papers, pens and pencils. They suspect young boys, think they sought teachers' small change but found none.

CALLS HUSBAND 'BUM' IN SUIT

Mrs. Grace Smythe Savage, daughter and sister of United States Army officers, today asked Judge Ralph H. Smith in Common Pleas Court to grant her a divorce from Capt. Frederic A. Savage, formerly of the United States Engineers' Corps.

Mrs. Savage, now residing with her daughter, Mrs. Martha Sthumer, 461 Marietta avenue, Mt. Lebanon, said that her husband, to whom she was married in 1926, deserted her in 1931 and that the last time she heard from him was a few months later from Oakland, Cal. Previously, she testified, she had gone with him to Panama and later to San Francisco and Washington. Judge Smith asked her:

"Was he a soldier of fortune?"

"Yes. He was just a bum."

"How much service did he have in the Army?"

"He served in Mexico and then in France."

When he left her on April 4, 1931, Mrs. Savage testified, he told her that he didn't have the money to take care of her.

Aged Woman Flees Mt. Washington Fire

Mrs. Charles Greenwood, 77, was assisted from her home at Rutledge and Edith streets, Mt. Washington, last night when fire caused by thawing frozen water pipes did $100 damage to the house, according to firemen.

Mrs. Greenwood was helped to the street by her son, William, of 114 Augusta street.

Fred Astaire, Claire Luce Dance for Queen Mary

LONDON, Dec. 12. — (AP.) — Queen Mary, who is considered an excellent judge of dancing, has passed judgment on two American dancers—and they met with her approval.

The pair, Fred Astaire and Clair Luce, entertained yesterday in a command performance at the Drury Lane Theater.

Throughout the dance, the queen was one of the most interested spectators. She watched the movements of the American musical comedy team through her lorgnette, commenting enthusiastically to companions in the royal box.

The show in which the dancers were presented was arranged for the benefit of the King's Pension Fund for Actors and Actresses. It was a bright spot in pre-holiday festivities.

Driver Pays for Pig Killed by Auto, Freed

William G. Costin, Jr., of 5126 Westminster place, socially-prominent son of one of Pittsburgh's industrial leaders, bought a pig in Traffic Court today.

It was the pig he killed December 8 when he drove his car into a drove of swine belonging to the Fried & Reineman Packing Company in East Ohio street near the Herr's Island stock yards.

To Magistrate J. Scott Morgan today Costin explained he saw two of the three herders waving red lights at him but did not see the pigs until he struck one. He brought his car to a stop, he said, and leaning out, saw the pig beside the car.

PITT CATHEDRAL NOT TO ACCEPT U. S. LOAN

Federal funds to complete the Cathedral of Learning are not acceptable, Chancellor John G. Bowman has indicated.

Speaking before Presbyterian ministers in the First Presbyterian Church yesterday Chancellor Bowman voiced his opposition to the plan by which the government would give 30 per cent of the cost to finish the edifice. He said:

"We could borrow the necessary amount from the government which would take a mortgage on the property and charge us four per cent interest. The government could also sell the buildings if payments were not met."

He said that there is no debt on the Cathedral now and expressed a desire "to go on as we are without borrowing money from anybody, until the time comes when we can go to the people and ask them to finish the job."

The Chancellor said it would require three million dollars to complete the building and one million six hundred thousand dollars to make it livable.

Chancellor Bowman's attitude was disappointing to Congressman Henry Ellenbogen, who was instrumental in obtaining the offer of federal aid. He said:

"Instead of being a monument to the greatness of the city, the Cathedral becomes a monument to the impotence of the city."

LEASE SOUGHT FOR NEW EXPO

City Council has been asked to grant a 50-year lease on the old Exposition property at the Point to the Greater Pittsburgh Exposition Society, which has announced plans to revive the exposition on a large scale.

An ordinance has been introduced authorizing the Mayor and the director of the Department of Public Works to lease the property to the new society January 1, rent and tax-free.

The city would receive revenue in excess of operating costs, interest and amortization.

The society would be authorized to construct a new building, costing at least $3,000,000. Its plans would be subject to approval by the Mayor and would be designed not to conflict with wharf improvement plans.

The society would finance construction and equipment of the new biulding. The society reserves the right to withdraw from the agreement if its plans are not successful by 1936.

Judge Called 'Clown' By Pen Riot Prober

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—(INS.)—A third investigation into conditions at the Eastern State Penitentiary here where several riots have occurred was authorized at Harrisburg today as the acrimonious interchange of words between Judge Harry S. McDevitt and Dr. Louis N. Robinson continued.

Dr. Robinson, who was named by Gov. Gifford Pinchot to head a commission of three to conduct an investigation at the prison, in his latest blast called Judge McDevitt a "clown."

Girl Who Balked Plot In 1912 Gets Million

VICHY, France, Dec. 12.—(INS.)—Mlle. Rose Danton Durand, who in 1912 saved Samuel Slater, wealthy Worcester, Mass., manufacturer, from a man and woman who later served jail terms for attempting extortion, got her reward today when she learned Massachusetts courts had upheld Slater's will leaving her $1,037,000. Slater's widow had contested the document.

BUDDY EBSEN AND FRIENDS.... HIS WIFE'S IN NEW YORK

Walter's Secretary Wife of Follies 'Hoofer'

"Buddy's" in town this week as one of the main features of the Ziegfeld Follies. He's the lad who does more tricks with his dancing feet than Thurston can do with a deck of cards.

He and Miss Cambridge, who once lived in Pittsburgh, "took the altar route" in New York City last July 4, "so the whole country could celebrate the wedding."

Mrs. Ebsen is still secretary to Winchell, while her husband tours the East with the Follies.

COUNTY HEADS DENIED AUDIT

County Commissioners C. C. McGovern and C. M. Barr couldn't reach first base today in their efforts to obtain from Controller Robert G. Woodside an audit of the Controller's office performed, at a reported cost of at least $50,000 taxpayers' money in 1928, by Ernst & Ernst.

Barr said the accountants have refused a copy of the audit and Woodside, after McGovern had insisted a half-dozen times on a yes-or-no answer, promised only to write the Commissioners a letter about the matter.

Whereupon McGovern, who previously has described the audit as "a whitewash" of the Controller's office, threatened:

"We're going to get that record if we have to go to court for it."

Conemaugh Division Veterans to Meet

The annual dinner and entertainment of the Veterans' Association of the Conemaugh division of the Pennsylvania Railroad will be held next Saturday evening starting at 6 in the Moose Temple, New Kensington. An elaborate program has been arranged by the committee headed by A. R. Hibbs. The annual business meeting will follow the entertainment.

They included Robert Goshorn, Wheeling, W. Va.

SHUBERT LAUDS 'FOLLIES' AS REAL HIT

Satisfied that Miss Billie Burke, widow of the late Flo Ziegfeld in her revival of the Ziegfeld "Follies," has a real hit, Lee Shubert, Broadway producer, was on his way back to New York City today to prepare for the opening of the "Follies" in his Winter Garden Theater. He attended the opening of the show in the Nixon here last night.

Mr. Shubert said:

"I'm certain that Miss Burke has a real hit in the 'Follies' and it makes me as happy as it does every one connected with the theater. It means a perpetuation of the Ziegfeld name, and that's the important thing."

Concerning the theater business generally, Mr. Shubert said:

"The season started off great but things have quieted down since. However, after the first of the year we are hoping for definite stabilization in our line with other lines."

NEW AUTO RACE INJURY STIRS INDIGNATION

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—Protests rose in resounding volume in Los Angeles today against what amounts to "licensed murder and suicide" on automobile racetracks where drivers suffer death or serious injury to appease thrill-loving crowds.

The accident Sunday at Ascot Speedway, one of the most prominent dirt tracks in the country, in which Art Boyce, youthful speed car pilot, was dangerously hurt, crystalized sentiment against the horrible hazards of the roaring road.

While Boyce was under treatment at the White Memorial Hospital, where he is suffering from a fractured pelvis, dirt burns and cuts and bruises, a well defined movement got under way to bring an end to death and misery on the racetracks.

Ten drivers, pounding their cars to terrific speeds, have met death at Ascot since 1930 and scores of others have been injured, many maimed for life, all to provide thrills for crowds watching for spectacular crashes.

To end this appalling situation, the movement was started to force racing promoters to provide protection for the drivers and their dependents. Protection by remodeling dangerous tracks, eliminating "death curves" and by posting bond to provide for those left behind when a driver is killed.

The law prevents murder and suicide and there should be some way of applying the law to automobile races, it was declared. The first definite plan suggested was a law which would make promoters of races liable to the extent of $100,000 for anyone killed or permanently disabled in a race.

Six drivers have been instantly killed or fatally injured at the Ascot track this year.

ITALIAN TRIED IN 'KHAKI' DEATH

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—With Arthur Garfield Hays as his attorney and Norman Thomas the chairman of his defense committee, a young Italian anti-Fascist, Athos Terzani, was on trial in Queens today, accused of a murder at a rally of the Khaki Shirts of America, an organization with Fascist leanings.

Guarded by police, Art J. Smith, the commander of the Khaki Shirts, attended the opening session yesterday, at which a jury was selected and testimony begun.

Smith, whose Philadelphia headquarters were raided recently on the eve of a "march" to Washington, said he had been threatened with death if he testified against Terzani.

Girl Injured Leaping From Cab in Strike

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—A young woman, seriously injured in a leap from a taxicab, is the latest victim of the strike of cab drivers employed by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company.

She is Miss Peggy Van Kirk, 21. Police said she leaped from the speeding vehicle when it was bombarded with stones early today.

would let you come close, kill as many as you chose.

At Eagle Lake, wild ducks and geese are so numerous that rice farmers, on whose fields they feed, will supply you with guns and ammunition, free, that you may help drive ducks and geese away. This is truth. Mr. Guthrie guarantees it.

AT OCEAN SPRINGS, across the water from Biloxi, where good oysters are found, John Seymour, "10 years old, 11 next June 5th," sells big sandwiches stuffed with fried oysters, wrapped in oilskin paper. This boy is a salesman:

"Go on buy it, if you don't want it, give it to your porter, he'll eat it. I'm saving up to buy a bicycle. It certainly is good, my mother made it."

That argument is unanswerable, and the porter did eat it.

WHILE THE boy was selling his oyster sandwich, a very old lady, desperately ill, was being lifted through the window of the Pullman car to a waiting stretcher.

A young man and woman, perhaps her son and daughter, had taken turns holding her hand all the way from New Orleans. Her thin hair was white, her face ghastly pale.

The little boy hurries over to see her, says:

'She lives here, I reckon, she's glad to get home to die. It must be awful lonesome to have to die some place else."

Prophet Builds Ark For 'Second Deluge'

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—William Greenwood, bearded prophet of West Seattle, is all set for a deluge, his "second ark" having been moored for years in West Bay. But he refused to be impressed by the present inundations. He said:

"It's nothing more than a sign, and I won't cast off the lines of this here ark until I get the vision that the deluge is here. It's apt to come any time now. But this here flood doesn't amount to anything."

MAE MURRAY'S MANSION SOLD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—The rose-colored beach mansion of Mae Murray, film actress and former wife of Prince David Mdivani, was auctioned off on the steps of the hall of justice yesterday by a sheriff's deputy for $11,000. It cost $100,000.

The palatial Playa Del Rey home was bid in by attorneys for Mrs. Elizabeth Wood Stack, socially prominent widow of J. Langford Stack, polo player.

Four other pieces of property, including an apartment house in Pasadena, were bid in at $1 each also by Mrs. Stack's attorneys. The auction was held to satisfy a $56,000 judgment recently obtained against Miss Murray by Mrs. Stack.

Opera Star's Coat Stolen at Concert

DETROIT, Dec. 12.—(INS.)—While Mario Olszewska, Metropolitan opera star, was staging a concert at Masonic Temple some shivering music-lover stole her one and only $1,500 fur coat.

The coat was taken from the dressing room of the temple auditorium. She was forced to borrow a friend's coat to get back to her hotel, the mercury being near zero.

Crucible Worker Killed By Beam

John Milanovich, 41, of 2525 Sarah street, died last night in West Penn Hospital from injuries suffered Saturday when a beam fell on him at the Crescent plant of the Crucible Steel Company, in Fifty-first street, according to the Coroner's report.

THUGS HOLD UP 2 STREET CARS

Operators of two street cars, one of whom was beaten, were victims of bandits early today, according to police reports.

Fred Geist, operator of a shuttle line to Homeville, was beaten by three men when he resisted their attempts to hold him up near the end of his route about midnight.

Geist was slugged when he pushed aside a gun one of the bandits placed in his side. The thieves fled with Geist's money changer containing $14.

A short time later two men held up Herman Pash, operator of a Troy Hill car, and escaped with $16.50 and an unestimated amount of street car tokens. Pash told police the two men boarded the car at Nichols street and rode to Lowrie street, where they robbed him.

Flames Kill Woman, Follower of Dowie

ZION, Ill., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Deaconess Mariantonette Huber, an eccentric woman of 78, who was a follower of the late Alexander Dowie, founder of the Zion religious colony, was burned to death shortly after midnight today in her home.

Deaconess Huber was a bitter foe of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, who succeeded Dowie as business and religious dictator of Zion.

WEIRTON FIRM STANDS PAT ON MILL VOTE

that the Labor Board conduct the election that he is considering asking the Attorney General to prosecute the steel concern as a violator of the Recovery Act in the event there is interference with the Labor Board plans.

Amalgamated officials said their followers did not vote yesterday and that many ballots cast contained nothing more than statements deriding the election.

PAY DAY AT MILLS

Yesterday was pay day at the mills and ballot were cast as wages were collected.

The "outside" union sought nomination of candidates by petition. The company union conducted a vote by secret ballot. The Labor Board upheld the petition plan.

Representatives of the Labor Board still were here today, presumably awaiting instructions from Washington before continuing to the steel mills where they were to supervise the election.

Senator Wagner has insisted that a company has nothing to say about whether its employes shall hold an election, nor how it should be held.

Referring to a pact between the board and the company, which was the basis of a settlement of the recent strike at the mills, Wagner said:

"The board is going to carry out the agreement. We are determined to have such a fair election as is guaranteed by the National Recovery Act, in which each employe has the right to select a representative to deal with his employer for purposes of collective bargaining."

The Amalgamated officials said the controversy rests entirely in the hands of the government. While Weir said "all indications are that the forces of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America were definitely repudiated," officials of that union charged "coercion" in yesterday's vote.

COERCION CHARGED

"The ranks of the Amalgamated Association are still 100 per cent, despite coercion attempted in the voting Monday. The company claims 75 per cent of the employes voted. I would welcome a neutral board to count the vote. Less than one-fifth of 1 per cent voted in the tin mill at Weirton and a small proportion in other departments."

Jack Reese, president of the Steubenville local, said many of the ballots cast were blank while others contained derisive comments on the election. He said:

"The Labor Board will conduct the election in the mills Friday regardless of what E. T. Weir says. Foremen and superintendents of the company were at the polling places as early as 5 a. m. Monday attempting to force the men to vote. These officials told the men it did not matter what names they wrote on the ballot, but compelled them to drop a ballot into the box."

The Labor Board, meanwhile, announced new regulations for the election Friday. These provide that all employes, except those in supervisory positions, on the payroll the last half of November who have been with the company 60 days or longer, and all employes on the payroll for the first half of September are eligible to vote. The representatives will serve for one year, beginning January 1.

COAL MEN ASK OIL PRICE RAISE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—The first formal demand by one industry that another modify its practices was made today in a request by the National Coal Association that the Oil Code Authority raise fuel oil prices so as not to compete unfairly with bituminous coal.

This action was regarded by some as a possible forerunner of similar efforts under which each industry might seek relief not only from the competitive practices within the industry but also as among industries, as for instance, between rayon and cotton, or steel and aluminum.

Heretofore it has been impossible for one industry to deal efficiently, or at all, with another due to the dispersion of its organization. But with the integration of each industry under a code special authorities are available which may be approached on competitive problems with some hope of successful negotiation.

Another Strike Called by Ryan In Frick Mines

Some 50 members of the United Mine Workers followed the fiery insurgent leader out of the Colonial No. 4 Mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, at Grindstone, after the so-called "company union," the Miners Independent Brotherhood, had refused to allow Ryan on the tipple as a checkweighman.

Ryan led his followers to Pizzano Hall where a meeting got under way. There was a possibility the strike would spread.

The Brotherhood, meeting last week, voted to eliminate the job of checkweighman. But the United Mine Workers retaliated by voting to retain his services, for which they themselves pay.

A dozen State Police and 30 or more company and deputy sheriffs were on hand today when Ryan was refused permission to go on the job. There was no fighting.

William Hynes, president of U. M. W. A. No. 4, disputed the right of the rival union to bar Ryan. As to the possibility of a spread of the strike, he said:

"We can't tell where this will stop. I'm going over to the meeting today to see how things are going."

Hynes refused to say what his advice to the men would be, but added that his union preferred to keep the men at work during the negotiations with the Frick Company and the National Labor Board.

FISHER FIRED AS NRA HEAD

NRA.' I beg to correct your opinion with respect to my views about its 'ideas, ideals and purposes.' With them I am in full accord. As to the 'processes' employed, I must confess that I have not regarded them as faultless. However, I have refrained from anything savoring of criticism as to manner and methods. I do not want imputed to me sentiments which I do not entertain and, on the other hand, I want to assume full responsibility for any expressions I have made under a sense of deep conviction.

"As originally given to the public, the N.R.A. made no provision for financing the load of rising costs which it necessarily placed upon the producer and consumer. This omission was evidently noted by the Federal administrator, for three distinctive steps have been taken or proposed looking to relief.

"First, was an intensive purchasing campaign to speed up circulation of what money remained in the hands of the public after the banking disaster. It is helpful but insufficient.

"Secondly, a more promising effort has been put forth to release the vast reservoirs of credits frozen up in the closed and restricted banks. Its full benefits have not yet been realized.

"Thirdly, rumors coming from Washington indicate that there is under consideration a violent change in our monetary system. Report has it that there may be a devaluation of the gold dollar, free coinage of silver, and possibly the issue of unredeemable paper money.

VIOLATION OF FAITH

"All of these expedients have been tried many times by our own and other countries with disastrous consequences. The least dangerous is the reduction in the gold content of the dollar. Even this measure will violate the considerations of every contractual obligation outstanding in the United States and will seriously affect wage and salary earners. I stand with William Green, president, and Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, in resisting any movement to impair the high standard of our monetary unit."

La Follette Favors More Works Cash

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—United States Senator Robert M. La Follette was on record today as favoring an appropriation of an additional $10,000,000,000 for civil works.

The Wisconsin Senator declared himself in favor of the enlarged expenditures in an address at Daniel Webster School last night under the auspices of the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

70 More Projects Add 4,000 CWA Jobs Here

CWA jobs in the county were increased to more than 10,000 today when 70 project approvals, adding more than 4,000 to the employed list, were received from Harrisburg. Word was expected from the state administrator this afternoon which will sanction street improvements in Pittsburgh and will employ 1,744 men.

Workers will be added to the payroll at the discretion of the community promoting the work, according to Harold F. Bucher, employment director. He said that he has doubled his office force and can now provide 2,300 employes within 48 hours.

Still trying to get money for work in Pittsburgh, James L. Stuart, county CWA head, wired State Administrator Eric H. Biddel yesterday, appealing for a loan.

Stating that labor would be the main expense in sealing abandoned mines in Pittsburgh, Edward G. Lang, Director of Public Works, introduced a resolution in City Council yesterday authorizing the CWA to proceed with the work.

The attitude of the new city administration toward CWA work in Pittsburgh still remains vague. Mayor-elect William N. McNair, asked if he intends to carry on where his predecessors leave off answered:

"Where are we going to get the money?"

Among four CWA projects sanctioned yesterday by the McKeesport City Council was one financed by a gift of $2,500 from Miss Emlie Renziehausen. The money will be spent in building a lake in Renziehausen Park named for the donor's brother.

Drivers Exonerated In 2 Auto Deaths

Ernest Kocher, Jr., of 1183 Ridge avenue, Braddock, was exonerated today by a Coroner's jury in the death of George Horgas, 44, of 135 Fourth street, Rankin. Horgas, an employe of Edgar Thomson Steel Works, was struck and killed near the plant in North Braddock by an automobile driven by Kocher. The accident was described as unavoidable.

Paul H. Cunningham, of 109 Watsonia boulevard, was exonerated in the death of William K. Dormyer, 60, a craneman, of 1317 Boyle street. Cunningham's car struck Dormyer.

GROCERY RETAILERS SEE PROFITS UNDER NEW FOOD CODES

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Prosperity for the nation's 300,000 retail grocery stores, as a result of the new NRA food codes, was predicted today by C. H. Janssen, secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers, in a letter to members of his organization. He added:

"The New Deal, as applied to the grocery business, will mean elimination of those conditions which in the past have defeated constructive and honest competitive effort."

The three food codes—wholesale, retail and manufacturing—are ready for President Roosevelt's approval, but press of presidential business has made it impossible for him actually to receive them.

Copies of the food codes, made available to Universal Service last night, confined original reports that all drastic Tugwell bill provisions and right of the Secretary of Agriculture to inspect private books of concerns had been eliminated. These features had been insisted on by AAA and kept the codes there five months before President Roosevelt finally transferred them to NRA, where they were approved in 12 hours.

In place of the Tugwell provisions, originally covering half a dozen typed pages, the new codes use but three short paragraphs to cover advertising and food purity.

Other features of the codes are:

1—No goods to be sold below cost, with a committee making general survey to determine what percentage for overhead must be added to cost prices. Actual clearance sales, at less than cost, of lines to be discontinued.

2—Prison-made goods not to be handled unless produced in compliance with the food code; this provision not effective for 90 days pending inquiry as to producing conditions in prisons.

3—No fixing of prices by NRA or any other agency.

4—Self rule guaranteed through permitting the grocers to set up their own code authorities.

5—Company scrip not to be accepted except in exceptional cases, such as bank closings, which force scrip issuance.

6—National code authority to be set up with state and local code authorities under it.

Chancellor Named To Hear Schwab Suit

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 12.—(INS.)—Vice Chancellor Vivian Lewis, of Paterson, was designated today to hear a suit brought against Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board; Eugene G. Grace, president, and the Bethlehem Steel Company for the return of alleged illegal bonuses amounting to more than $5,000,000.

The designation was made by Chancellor Luther A. Campbell at the request of Samuel Doan, of Paterson, representing the Standard Investment Company, holder of 150 shares of preferred stock.

MOVIES CHEER HOSPITAL'S INMATES

(Editor's Note: The Tuberculosis League Hospital is largely supported by the annual sale of Christmas seals.)

Because the Tuberculosis League Hospital on Bedford avenue is continually adding to the pleasures it can give its patients, the American Federation of Labor is richer by one member, Miss Alice E. Stewart, general superintendent of the hospital, revealed today.

When the league's hospital authorities learned that they were to acquire a modern motion picture apparatus, they had to find someone to operate it.

So one of its former patients was given a complete course in motion picture operation in a trade school, and, since that became his regular job, he had to join the Operators' Union. The League took care of that, too, and now Joan Crawford, Greta Garbo and the three little pigs are frequent visitors to the hospital. Miss Stewart said:

"Anything we can do here to make the days pass more agreeably is of advantage both to the patient and to the hospital. By quickening the patients' interest in his surroundings and encouraging him to participate in pleasant activity, the return to health is made more quickly.

"His morale and spirit are stiffened, and the apathy and despair he showed when he first entered the hospital are changed to an eagerness to get back into normal life and activity.

"For the hospital, every vacated bed means that we can admit another patient. There is a long list of tubercular patients who are awaiting admittance to the hospital, and the list is growing every day."

The league hospital has a capacity of 150 beds, and last year treated 393 patients. In addition to its hospital, the league also conducts a permanent educational and preventive campaign in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

Declaring an abrupt drop in the sale of Christmas Seals, which began two weeks ago, has been recorded, Miss Stewart predicted almost insurmountable difficulties for the league during the next 12 months unless Pittsburgh responds generously to the appeal.

Yesterday's returns totaled only one-third of those for the same date last year, she said, pointing out that the mail sale of seals, going to 102,000 Pittsburghers, is the mainstay of educational and preventive work in Allegheny County.

A PREVIEW AT THE TUBERCULOSIS: "WHAT'S TONIGHT?"

'SPANS TESTED OFTEN'--LANG

All city bridges are inspected at least once in every three weeks, and where there is any question about potential strains on any, there is a rigid inspection every week, Edward G. Lang, director of the city Department of Public Works, said today in a letter to the Sun-Telegraph.

The policy of inspecting city bridges, Director Lang said, was started immediately after his appointment to head the department in 1926. He added:

"We feel the work of this division has been eminently satisfactory and has eliminated almost absolutely any danger of the failure of structures, thereby eliminating the hazard that weakened bridges offer continually."

HOLDS SOCIETY FOR CRIME

Crime always has been more prevalent were punishment is most severe, Z. M. Allison, writer and lecturer, declared in an address at a luncheon of the Hungry Club. He urged more hospitals and colleges for the treatment and education of criminals. Citing crime conditions in Mexico, he said:

"Mexico has three theories about crime with which Americans may disagree. The first is that punishment is wrong; second, that man is not a free agent, and that society is at fault in every crime."

Following these theories the government sends the criminal to a hospital or to a school to reform him, he concluded.

MOTOR COMPANY MARKS BIRTH

Observance here of the General Motors silver anniversary with 65 key cities throughout the country was opened with a movietone address by Alfred F. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, last night in Memorial Hall.

A special program of sound pictures was presented to show the development of the automotive industry during the last 25 years. It was the first time in recent years that the dealers in products of all General Motors divisions jointly attended a meeting.

The program included a moving picture, "Along the Fairways," which presented a bird's-eye view of the Century of Progress Exposition, including the General Motors building exhibits. Other films were "What Is a New Car?" and "Touring in Private," the latter showing the testing of automobiles at the General Motors proving grounds at Milford, Mich.

Two other films were "The Auto Fashion Plate," showing the art and color section of the Fisher Body Corporation, and "Men and Motors," depicting the importance of workmen in a typical automobile plant.

Dr. Buck to Talk On City's History

"Pittsburgh's Place in the History of the Nation" was to be the subject of an address by Dr. Solon J. Buck, of the University of Pittsburgh, at a lecture in the college of fine arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology, this afternoon. He is director of the Western Pennsylvania Historical Survey and professor of history at Pitt.

DRUGGIST HURT IN STORE FIRE

J. W. Hyde, Jr., today was recovering from minor burns suffered late yesterday when he ran into the cellar of his drug store at North and Grant avenues, Millvale, to battle a blaze which followed an explosion.

The show windows were blown into the street, and the fire which followed resisted the efforts of four fire companies for three hours. The blast was traced to an overheated furnace.

The fire was confined to the cellar. The other floors of the three-story brick building are occupied by Hyde, the drug store proprietor, and his wife.

Son Succeeds Father As Duquesne Sleuth

John H. Graw today became constable of the First Ward, Duquesne. He was appointed by Judge Sylvester J. Snee to take the post made vacant by the death of his father, Harry Graw.

Wife Files Answer To Divorce Petition

Clara A. Wolff, Ariston avenue, Overbrook, has filed an answer to the divorce suit of her husband, Otto G. Wolff, of 1029 Reedsdale street, naming another woman.

Mrs. Wolff said the only reason her husband left her was because of his infatuation for the "other woman." She said he was a former county employe.

Mrs. Eastham New Relief Supervisor

Mrs. Virginia Lee Eastham has been named supervisor of family welfare and relief by the board of trustees and the women's auxiliary board of the Association of the Improvement of the Poor.

Mrs. Eastham has had experience as a teacher, social service worker, supervisor and executive of the Red Cross in Kentucky, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

TURTLE CREEK WIFE SUES FOR ALIMONY

Nancy C. Meley had on file today a petition asking alimony from Dr. Edward J. Meley, of 600 Penn avenue, Turtle Creek, who in 1929 filed a divorce suit charging cruel and barbarous treatment.

She avers her husband is worth $100,000, in giving reasons why she should receive financial aid in employing counsel and obtaining witnesses to contest his action.

Judge W. Heber Dithrich has handed down a decree refusing a divorce to Helen Peake, of 3640 Massachusetts avenue, from Eugene H. Peake, of Meredith street, but without prejudice to the libellant.

The court said she should have sued for annullment on the grounds of a prior existing marriage, rather than to seek a divorce by charging desertion.

Divorces were granted to Rosa Williams from Walter Williams, Edward H. Woody from Alice Woody, Mary J. Warnock from Hugh A. Warnock, Martha Simon from Howard Simon, Margaret C. Bottom from Walter V. Bottom, Howard R. Fullerton from Jean P. Fullerton, Edward J. Gimple from Molly Gimple, Isabella J. McPeake from H. J. McPeake, Herman Eidinger from Anna I. Eidinger, and by Pauline M. McMunn from Oliver J. McMunn.

CHURCH GROUP 50 YRS. OLD

Observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the Women's Missionary Society of Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church, will be marked by a program by daughters and granddaughters of the founders tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the church.

500 STUDENTS WORKING WAY AT PITT

Since the University of Pittsburgh employment bureau opened at the beginning of the present semester, records have shown a steady increase in student part-time employment and earnings, according to J. C. Barton, head of the bureau. Barton has more than 400 students registered.

In October, 292 students earned $2,000; in November, 248 earned $2,500, and December figures probably will reach a new high with more than 500 employed and earning more than $4,000, Barton estimates.

DIVIDED INTO CLASSES

For convenience, Barton divides his "gang" into two classes, those who want "white collar" jobs, and others who will take any kind of work to earn an honest penny.

Many of the students are working on commission, selling everything from bottle cap openers to automobiles. Others are "sleepers"—fellows who "buy" a room and bed by sleeping in undertaking parlors at night to answer late 'phone calls.

LIST OF JOBS

Barton lists the following partial list of the part-time jobs for which Pitt students have been hired during the last three months:

Tutors, janitors, elevator operators, confidential messengers, bus boys, furnace boys, watchmen, ushers in movies, room clerks for hotels, librarians, registrars for schools, soda clerks, truck drivers, sign painters, community house workers, opera supers, milk salesmen, butchers, window washers, hospital orderlies, blind helpers, car simonizers, shoe salesmen, package sorters, cashiers, samplers and players in orchestras.

In addition to their jobs, all of the students carry a full schedule of classes. To make sure that they have time to study, Barton explains, he divides each job so that no student works more than three eight-hour shifts a week.

PRIVATE POLICE HEARING URGED

A public hearing next week on proposed legislation to repeal the Industrial Police Act was urged by Judge M. A. Musmanno in a letter to Representative Albert P. Way, yesterday. He pointed out that although Gov. Pinchot's fiat had abolished the coal and iron police, the system may be revived under laws still on the statute books. The letter read in part:

"You have in your committee, House Bill No. 43 which has to do with the repeal of the Industrial Police Act. I am certain that the people of Pennsylvania are as much concerned about the private police situation as they were in the 1929 and 1931 sessions, when my measures on the subject brought about several committee hearings and state-wide discussion. There may not be so much surface agitation because of the fact that, by gubernatorial decree, there are at present no commissioned industrial police, but the law which permits their creation is still on the statute-books and may be invoked at any time."

"There can be no question that the subject is of sufficient importance to warrant a public hearing. People may not constantly publicly discuss police and fire protection, but they are certainly always concerned about it. Bill No. 43, has to do with the private police, and, given the history of the turmoil that has accompanied that subject, it is entitled, by its very nature, to serious consideration at the hands of the Legislators."

VOTE MACHINE TEST CALLED

County Commissioners are not through repairing the vote machines.

A letter yesterday from Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish requested the Commissioners to have two of the county's 1,100 machines ready for a state test January 1. The test is to determine whether the machines can be used in the next election.

Since the last demonstration showed the supposedly corrected machines were still vulnerable to repeat voting, the Commissioners are said to have taken no action beyond discharging mechanics.

Smethport Theater Trial Postponed

SMETHPORT, Pa., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—The trial of seven officers of the Bradford Theater Stock Company, charged with selling fraudulent stock in a new theater project, has been postponed until the next term of court.

The prosecution yesterday asked for the delay, saying several important witnesses were unable to appear. Those indicted include D. J. Seiznick and S. S. Robbins, of Pittsburgh; J. Mandel, C. S. Callas, Meyer Harrison, J. H. Hosey and Harry Freed. They are named in seven counts.

Junior Patrol

When we looked out of our window yesterday morning, fellows, the ground was white with snow.

And everything was different somehow. All the houses seemed to have bigger roofs, the trees were covered with a strange fluffy white foliage, and the paved streets looked like country roads again, full of ruts and automobile tracks.

Ralph Waldo Emerson, a great American poet, once wrote a poem called "The First Snowstorm." He saw that the drifting snow seems to change the appearance of everything, building towers and minarets, filling up the hollows and crowning fence posts with little caps. He called it the "architecture" of the snow! How about writing us a letter, fellows, and telling us what you think of the snow, and how it looks.

Now here's our first letter today from Mrs. N. E. Herbold, of 611 Bellevue Terrace, Bellevue. She is the sponsor of the new Terrace Garden Junior Patrol of Bellevue, and she writes:

"Enclosed find five pledges for new members. There are now 10 members in this group and they call themselves the Bellevue Terrace Junior Patrol. Will you please send the captain, Wilbur Herbold, his armband?

"These boys gave a movie show charging one cent admission and made $1.60. On December 15 they are going to have a small program in the Quaill School P. T. A. meeting where they will present to said organization two baskets of canned goods and toys for two poor families at Christmas.

"Willard Herbold, twin brother of Wilbur, lost his button on the way to school. Is there anyway he can get another one? With lots of best wishes for all members and loads of success."

Isn't that a swell letter, fellows? Sounds like the new Junior Patrol of Terrace Gardens is going to be a success in a big way right from the start. We are hoping to hear from you again soon with more good news.

Fellows, please don't forget to help others. Toys and things for poor people at Christmas are greatly needed now. If you don't know any children who will need toys in your neighborhood, send them to the Toy Mission.

PA. DISTILLERS AGREE TO PAY FLOOR TAX

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—State officials have smoked a peace pipe with distillers and brought a peaceful ending to Pennsylvania's latest "whisky rebellion."

In exchange for acquiscence by the state administration to an extension of time in which to pay the $2-a-gallon floor tax on liquor distilled before repeal became effective last Tuesday, the distillers have agreed to drop court suits which threatened a large portion of the revenue which the state anticipated from the pre-repeal liquor.

The compromise is expected to bring $12,000,000 into the state treasury from whisky alone by the end of next year.

Other millions are expected from gin, alcohol, wine and other alcoholic beverages, although withdrawals before the tax was clamped upon the distilleries may cause the total to fall far short of the hoped-for $25,000,000.

PURCHASE ARRANGED

To provide the distillers with the means to pay the state the $12,000,000 floor tax, the Liquor Control Board has promised to buy from them a quantity of whisky equal to the gallonage subject to the floor tax. The liquor the state buys will not necessarily be the same from which it collects the $2 a gallon tax, for the tax applies to some recent distillations which will be ageing for several years after tax has been paid.

The fact that the state really will be paying at least part of the floor tax to itself by this sale agreement will not mean that the price of this liquor in state stores will be unreasonably high, Attorney General William A. Schnader maintains. He promised the consumers can buy this liquor at "substantially" lower figures than the prices now prevailing.

To carry the state officials' part of the compact into effect, amendments to the floor tax law were introduced in the Senate last night by Senator Harry B. Scott, Center.

AGREEMENT CITED

The agreement which prompted the compromise was revealed by Attorney General Schnader in a statement in behalf of himself and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board.

Mr. Schnader said:

"Arrangements have been concluded under which the distilleries will pay the $2 per gallon floor tax.

"The Legislature will be asked to amend Act No. 1 (which imposes the $2 tax) to permit the Department of Revenue to grant extensions of time for the payment of the tax.

"The Liquor Control Board has agreed to purchase from the Pennsylvania distillers upon whose whisky the floor tax was imposed, the same number of gallons of whisky as were taxed. The price to the consumer will be substantially less than the prices now prevailing.

"The injunction suits which have been brought at Pittsburgh will be discontinued.

"This settlement assures payment into the general fund prior to the end of next year of approximately $12,000,000 of floor tax on whisky alone."

PLUG LOOPHOLE

The state administration acted also to plug a loophole which might have meant double profits to the distillers, who whisked their whisky across the state line before the $2 tax became effective.

The permanent liquor tax, $2 a gallon until January 1 on imported liquor, and $1 after that date—as passed last week would have applied only to liquors made outside the state. Distillers who shipped their product across the state line, thus would have been able to bring it back into the state without paying the tax. An amendment to that law, proposed in another bill by Scott, imposes the $2 tax on spirits "brought into" Pennsylvania, thus levying on the beverages which were hurried out of the state to escape the tax.

Provision also was made to make Pennsylvania eligible to share in the split-up if the federal government collects all liquor taxes and rebates to states in proportion to the amounts produced there.

The House, meanwhile, took a step to force down the current prices of liquor.

It adopted a resolution by Representative Fred C. Gartner, of Philadelphia, creating a joint legislative committee to investigate "the exact cost of the manufacture and importation" of liquor and "the price at which such beverages should be sold" including the tax, "in order to make unprofitable the trade of those unlawfully engaged in the sale of liquor." The Senate has not yet received the resolution.

Two House bills to finance the state liquor control board were passed finally by the Senate today. One appropriates $2,000,000 from the general fund to man the board and equip state liquor stores. The other allows the board to use as much money as necessary from the state stores profits to maintain offices here and operate liquor stores throughout the state.

HEARING POSTPONED

Indication that the distilleries plan to drop their injunction action against the commonwealth was furnished in Pittsburgh's Federal Court this afternoon when counsel on both sides agreed to postpone a hearing scheduled for Thursday until January 4.

Genevieve Tobin Given Bodyguard

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.—(INS.)—The district attorney's office today assigned a bodyguard to Genevieve Tobin, film actress, who reported her automobile had been followed by another car on several nights while she was returning home from the movie studio.

U. S. Seeks Low Rum Tax to Drive Out Bootleggers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—A liquor tax "somewhere between $2 and $3 a gallon" and low enough to squeeze out the bootlegger was advocated to a joint congressional committee today by Joseph H. Choate, Jr., chairman of the federal alcohol control administration.

He was followed by Edward G. Lowry, Jr., chairman of President Roosevelt's interdepartmental committee, who expressed the opinion that a blended whisky of rather low quality might eventually be sold for $1.50 a quart under a $2.60 a gallon federal tax. The committee has recommended a levy of this amount.

President Roosevelt was represented as being more interested in driving the bootlegger out of business than in boosting the amount of liquor revenues.

Lowry explained the committee's recommendation for a $2.60 tax was based on its accompanying suggestion that the federal government take over the entire field of gallonage taxation, and divide the revenues with the states.

He said if this suggestion was not followed and the gallonage tax field was also left open to the states the federal tax should not be more than $2 or $2.20 a gallon.

He estimated revenues from a $2 tax would be $170,000,000 and from a $3 tax $218,000,000.

Questioned by Representative McCormack (Dem.), of Massachussetts, Lowry agreed there was some doubt in his own mind as to the possibility of selling whisky for $1.50 a quart with a tax of $2.60 a gallon.

McCormack asked if it wouldn't be better to fix the tax rate at $1.75 in order to assure elimination of the bootlegger.

Lowry agreed the committee had kept the tax as high as it could in order to raise as much revenue as possible and still permit the legal liquor industry to outsell the bootlegger and that it might have "steered too close to the line."

DELAY ON RUM SUPPLY SEEN

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Four years will be required to build American whisky reserves to pre-war normal, Dr. James M. Doran, director of the Distilled Spirits Institute, said.

With 150 distilling plants now operating at a capacity of about 100 million gallons a year, about 40 new distilleries are under construction. Within a year it was expected the distilleries would have an output of about 200 million gallons a year so that the process of building up the reserve stocks could be started.

Doran said that prior to prohibition from 250 million to 300 million gallons were in the aging process at all times. When stocks are built up to that level the country will be assured a continuous supply of properly aged liquor at fairly reasonable prices.

Consumption in the first year of repeal will amount to about 100 million gallons, in Doran's opinion.

The Federal Alcohol Control Administration said the average cost of the 40 plants under construction would be from $300,000 to $400,000 each.

2 DISTILLERIES RESUME WORK

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 12.—Operations were resumed today at the Broadford Distillery of A. Overholt & Co., as well as the Large plant of Large Distilling Company, after an idleness since November 22, enforced in protest of the $2 state floor liquor tax.

Resumption was ordered when an agreement was reached between the distilleries and the State Liquor Board whereby the latter will buy up all of the whisky and pay the tax.

Overholt resumed with 188 employes and plans to increase the bottling force by 37. Three hundred are working at Large, 200 being engaged in making repairs.

ITALY SECOND AMONG WINE PRODUCERS

By A. ALBERT

Maitre D'Hotel, Hotel William Penn

(This is the seventh of a series that will specify the proper wine to serve on every occasion; deal with the question of temperature, etc., and list the proper type of serving glass.)

Italy ranks second among the chief wine producing countries of the world. France holds the leadership and Spain is third in annual output.

From Piedmont (Piemonte) come such splendid wines as Barbera Spumante and Nebiolo Spumante, the Italian sparkling burgundies. Martini Vermouth, without which the American cocktail would not exist, also is a product of Piedmont.

From Tuscany, the birthplace of Dante, comes the famous Chianti of Baron Ricasoli, proprietor of the original and only Chianti of Italy. Other wines grown in the vicinity are also named Chianti and while they are splendid imitations, they cannot equal the baron's Chianti, from champion grapes. Marsala, the Sicilian sherry, is grown in the province of Trapani on the west coast of Sicily. The picturesque Island of Capri provides the dry wine known as the chablis of Italy.

The famous wines of California have been made possible by the great consumption of the ever-growing Italo-American population in the United States. The American wine industry is largely in the hands of expert Italian wine makers who, although seeking to reproduce in California the characteristic wines of France, always make a product resembling the noted wines of Italy.

Except for the asti spumante, which is served exactly as the French champagne, the Italian wines are served much like the clarets of Bordeaux. Vermouth and marsala are served like Spanish sherry.

Italians prefer not to mix too many wines at the table. Except at a very formal dinner or feast of the Italian nobility, the Italian will limit wines to an aperitif, vermouth and bitter, or masala, with the appetizer. A good strong red, dry wine will be served with the roast and a generous portion of Italian cognac poured into black coffee.

American wines will be discussed in the concluding article tomorrow.

Cleveland Council Lifts Liquor Ban

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—By unanimous vote with the rules suspended, the City Council last night repealed the city's ordinance against sale of liquor.

WETS ON TRIAL, 'PUSSYFOOT' DECLARES

(Editor's Note—In the following article, written exclusively for International News Service by William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, world-famous advocate of prohibition, he frankly discusses the new era which is opening up as a result of the legalization of liquor in the United States.

By WILLIAM E. JOHNSON,

Noted Prohibition Crusader.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Dec. 12.—The liquor traffic is on trial.

Whether or not national prohibition comes back depends entirely on the wets. If they really make good by devising any system of liquor control that will substantially eliminate the evils of drink, then prohibition never will return. It will be as dead as the mummy of Rameses II.

On the other hand, if the wets fail in this, then prohibition like a ghost will return to stare them in the face. As long as the evils of the drink traffic continues, just so long will good men and women struggle against it.

CHARGES LAWLESSNESS

It is the wets themselves that have always had a monopoly of violating liquor laws, either prohibition or regularity.

As long as the wets keep up this game, just so surely will they fan into a flame the embers of hostility against their traffic. They will simply cut their own throats.

It was the lawlessness of the wets themselves that drove America into the enactment of national prohibition. And it was the lawlessness of the wets that stampeded a harassed people into the repeal of the same system.

WILL WELCOME BENEFITS

Because of the world-wide depression and chronic liquor lawlessness, the backwash of the World War, national prohibition did not have a Chinaman's chance. But for all that, the cause of temperance has been thereby advanced for it has focused the spotlight of the world upon the inherent lawlessness of the traffic even when licensed or nominally regulated.

There is revenue to be had, of course, but taxation of the liquor is merely a means of shunting off on the unfortunate victims of drink the burden that should be carried by reputable business. Our great government can surely manage to pay its operating expenses out of clean, honest money and not squeeze it out of the sufferings and misery of women and children.

Brewery Board Elects Young Woman Broker

The young woman broker was elected to the board of the Brackenridge Brewing Company at a special meeting of stockholders. Her father, Attorney Howard Zacharias, is a member of the same board.

Miss Zacharias smiled when asked about her new activity, but made no comment. Recently she bought a membership in the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, but the sale was canceled when the question of admitting a woman to membership in the exchange became an issue.

The wife of John C. Bair and Miss Zacharias with her husband for years conducted the annual intercollegiate ball. Once in 1931, Robert C. Gordon unsuccessfully tried to prevent them from holding the affair, contending he was entitled to a share of the profits.

SLEUTHS HALT RUM SALES

Pittsburgh's hotelmen, restaurateurs and club operators who sell whisky had a new respect today for the state liquor laws.

This was traceable to the activities of a squad of agents of the Department of Revenue who are hunting out violations in Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania.

The agents refused to disclose how many places violating the law were uncovered. In one downtown eatery the proprietr suddenly halted the sale of whisky, explaining "license trouble."

5,305 TO TAKE RUM STORE TEST HERE

With secrecy and caution which would do justice to the Secret Service, 5,305 applicants for jobs in the state liquor stores in Allegheny County which open January 2, will assemble in five Pittsburgh High Schools at 8:30 a. m. Saturday to take the civil service examinations.

The schools—Schenley, Peabody, Taylor Allderdice, Fifth Avenue, South High—will be guarded by State Police, and the applicants will be known by numbers, their names secret. Their number cards, which will admit them to the school not later than 9 a. m., are being mailed today from Harrisburg.

If you're applying for a typist's position, there's burdening news for you—you're expected to bring your own typewriter!

State Police will bring the examination papers under seal from Harrisburg Friday night. Saturday, in the classrooms, each applicant will be handed his paper by the school teachers in charge.

The applicant will himself break the red seal, take the examination and attach a white seal to the finished paper. None will be permitted to leave the classrooms until all are finished.

For a finishing touch, all applicants will be finger-printed.

Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of Pittsburgh Public Schools, in charge of the examinations, said today more applicants had applied for the truck-driving jobs than for any other.

Syria Temple Will Initiate New Nobles

Newly-chosen members of Syria Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will cross the hot sands at an initiation ceremonial tonight with Potentate John G. Daub presiding. A number of past potentates from visiting temples will participate.

Preceding the ceremonial will be the traditional feast, a business meeting, motion pictures and a concert by the Syria brass band.

Grocers Re-elect Wolff President

Re-election of Charles Wolf as president of the Retail Grocers' Association was announced at the annual meeting last night. HOUSE FORCES SOCIAL, LABOR BILLS ACTION

By ROBERT F. GORMAN
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Propelled by the recorded vote of both houses to adjourn sine die on December 21, Pennsylvania's General Assembly ground away today at more than a score of social and labor bills as the drive to get measures on Gov. Gifford Pinchot's desk got underway in full force.

The decision to adjourn at noon on December 21 came when organized labor successfully exerted pressure and forced a House committee holding bills it favored to report them to the floor for a vote.

Advocates of these measures voiced vigorous opposition to adjournment, but their cause was lost by a 115-to-83 vote in the House and a 32-to-12 margain in the Senate.

Workmen scored another victory by discharging the committee on railroad and railways from further consideration of the full crew bill. A move to discharge the same committee from holding the Bernhard bill limiting the length of trains failed by a vote of 101 to 93.

Labor groups viewed the early adjournment date as a deliberate attempt to throttle their legislation. Evidence was given, however, especially by the Philadelphia Senate bloc, that any attempt to go home without passing documents on social and labor subjects would compel them to move for changing the adjournment date.

Mrs. Pinchot at Hearing On Social Legislation

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Foes and friends of social welfare legislation presented their cases today at a public hearing of the Senate Judiciary General and Appropriations Committee.

John A. Phillips, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, said "we regard this hearing pretty much as a gesture," due to the Legislature's decision to adjourn December 21.

The hearing was begun in the Senate caucus room, where the crowd filled every inch of standing room, but later meeting was moved to the Senate chamber.

Mrs. Cornelia Brice Pinchot, wife of the Governor, active in behalf of welfare and social legislation, attended.

Gertrude Schermerhorn, of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, advocated passage of a bill to set up a scale of minimum wages and maximum hours for women and minors in industry.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Fitzgerald, Erie, has been passed by the House and now is in the Senate Judiciary General Committee.

2 BONUS BILLS UP FOR CHANGE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—(INS.)—Two Myers bills setting up machinery for the payment of a soldiers' bonus as authorized by adoption of a constitutional amendment at the November election were back in the legislative fires today.

The bills were recalled from Gov. Pinchot's desk for minor amendments acceptable to all factions.

The Senate today passed finally a third bill making an appropriation to defray the expenses involved in issuing $50,000,000 in bonds for payment of the bonus.

Because the provision permitting bonus payments to widows, if not remarried, or children of any deceased veteran is unconstitutional, it will be stricken from the documents.

FAIL TO UPHOLD M'CLELLAND

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Two members of the State Athletic Commission have been confirmed for full terms by the State Senate.

They are the chairman, Harry T. Farrell, Wilkes-Barre, for two years from last July 10, and Robert J. Nelson, Reading, for two years from last May 6.

No action was taken upon the nomination of the third Boxing Commissioner, Dr. William David McClelland, Pittsburgh, recently named by Gov. Pinchot in place of Havey J. Boyle, Pittsburgh.

The Senate also confirmed Kennett A. Reid, Connellsville, as member of the State Board of Fish Commissioners for six years from last May 6.

Coal Tar Booster Measure Approved

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Senator Andrew Sordoni, Luzerne, last night introduced and gained immediate Senate approval of a resolution requesting the State Highway Department to make greater use of coal tar in the construction and maintenance of bituminous surface roads.

The resolution pointed out that the coal tar industry provides considerable employment in Pennsylvania and urged that the state encourage the industry by using the product wherever possible.

Confirms Nomination Of Mrs. Liveright

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—(INS.)—The Senate today confirmed the nomination of Mrs Alice F. Liveright as Secretary of Welfare in Gov. Gifford Pinchot's cabinet by a vote of 48 to 0.

G. O. P. Regulars To Fight Ouster Of Three Judges

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Regular Republicans of the House, in caucus this morning, decided to oppose resolutions for the impeachment of Justices John W. Kephart and William I. Schaffer, of the Supreme Court, and Judge Thomas J. Baldridge, of the Superior Court.

Representativve John J. Kane, of Pittsburgh, last night offered an impeachment resolution because the three jurists appeared on one of the J. P. Morgan preferred stock lists. However, the resolution was not in proper form and was withdrawn. Today Kane said it would be reintroduced when it could be put in the appropriate legal language.

The caucus this morning also decided to oppose any effort to remove Eugene F. White as chief clerk of the House. White, a Republican, was one of the Delaware County politicians convicted, with Senator John J. McClure, of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. He has been on leave of absence without pay since the special session convened.

Representative James L. Quinn, Allegheny, offered a resolution for the discharge of White as clerk, but, like the Kane resolution, it was defective. Quinn said he would have it rewritten some time during the day.

SENATE ACTING ON BANK BILLS

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Legislation to bring private banks under jurisdiction of the state banking code unless they comply with national banking law provisions and to permit banks to set up branch offices made its appearance on the Senate calendar today.

The Homsher bill bringing all private banks under the state bank act provision was up for second reading. It would be modified by the Sordoni bill exempting from state supervision private banks reporting to the federal government, which also was to receive second reading.

Senator Andrew J. Sordoni, Luzerne, also sponsored a bill, up for second reading, authorizing establishment of branch banks by institutions under state jurisdiction.

KANE SLUM BAN AID VOTED

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Designed to wipe out slum districts of the commonwealth's larger cities, the Kane bill providing for the construction and supervision of safe and sanitary dwellings and apartments was passed finally in the House today.

The bill would create a state board of housing in the Department of Property and Supplies for the purpose of approving, assisting, supervising and regulating housing activities.

A move will be made in the House late today to reconsider the Kane housing bill which met defeat today. Kane indicated that several members who voted "no" on the measure were ready to change their position and support the bill.

DISTRICT'S RUM TRADE REVIVED

The "big business" of liquor already is putting the Pittsburgh district back in the liquor manufacturing limelight, with $5,590,000 worth of plant construction work already under way, according to L. Seth Schnitman, chief statistician for the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

The once famous Pittsburgh liquor district includes Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

As reported by an Associated Press dispatch, Schnitman said:

"It is interesting to note that the old territory so famous for its product in pre-prohibition days is being revived by the legalization of hard liquors, and it is in this area that the construction of new distilleries and the rehabilitation of old ones is concentrated."

VOTE REFORM MEASURES IN SENATE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—The tax qualification for voting, which was stricken from the state constitution by an amendment approved by the electorate last month, would be removed from the state election laws by a bill before the Senate for second reading today.

Introduced last night by Senator William D. Mansfield, Allegheny, it was reported for action at once by the Senate Elections Committee. In boroughs and townships, where personal registration is not required, it directs the registry assessors to register the voters instead of assessing them.

While the Mansfield bill means abolition of the poll tax, a bill offered by Senator James S. Boyd, Montgomery, permits first-class townships also to abolish the occupation tax, which, in many sections, has served as a poll tax. It makes levy of the occupation tax optional instead of mandatory.

A bill to forbid the employment of paid watchers at polls also is before the Senate for second reading. It is sponsored by Senator Frank J. Harris, Allegheny.

WAIT 2 MONTHS FOR RUM FEES

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Municipalities will get their first revenue from liquor licenses early in February.

Answering numerous inquiries, the Liquor Control Board said today that the McClure control act provides that payments shall be made quarterly, on the first days of February, May, August and November.

All fees for hotel, restaurant, club and importers' licenses and sacramental wine dealers' permits are to be returned to the municipalities in which the licensed establishments are located.

The money will go directly to the municipal treasuries, except in the case of second-class townships, where the board is required to make the payments to the school districts co-extensive with the townships.

The board issued its first public service liquor permit today. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company received permits to sell intoxicants in 85 dining cars.

The number of licenses issued rose to 2,392—1,324 to restaurants, 555 to hotels, 424 to clubs, three to importers, one to a sacramental wine dealer and 85 to railroad dining cars.

BILL BATTLES 'LOAN SHARKS'

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Legislation to wipe out deficiency judgments in real estate foreclosures where forced sales do not bring enough to pay the principal was before the Senate today.

Another measure would prevent foreclosures by "loan sharks" on mortgages dated prior to 1932 if interest and taxes on the property are paid. This act would remain in effect only until January 1, 1935.

Senator George L. Reed, Dauphin, introduced a bill authorizing Common Pleas Courts to stay all evictions for 18 months.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

More than the usual number of local features fill spots on the WJAS schedule tonight.

The brilliant array starts with Tommy and Cliff Purks with an early evening program, followed by Add Brickell at 6:15.

To round out the bill, we find Paul Gannon at 6:45; Wermes' Sax Sextet at 7:30 and Eddie Peyton's band at 11:30.

Ripley Finds, Then Loses A Hero

By AIRCASTER

I listened, as perhaps you did, to the Ripley dramatization Saturday night, which told the story of a man named Westport, falsely accused of embezzlement, imprisoned and then thrown upon a callous world, only to find, when the Titanic sank, the man who really was guilty and who died in the innocent man's arms.

Westport was vindicated and the story ended happily.

At the climax, Robert Ripley announced that he would like to hear from Westport, if the latter were listening.

He was. He called the NBC, to respond to an invitation to appear on the next program.

But in the excitement, nobody remembered to get Westport's address or telephone number.

FADEOUTS

The lowdown is that the Baron Munchausen will very probably go to work on a new program January 3, replacing Bert Lahr, for Lahr's present sponsor.

The George Olsen-Lahr show, as it now stands, is slated to fade within the fortnight.

* * *

It will probably cause the eavesdroppers to keel over for joy or grief, as the case might, or might not be, to learn that the effervescent Elmer Everett Yess, the go-getting salesman on the WABC program, folded up his tent Saturday, and took a powder, and that he will be heard no more, although the sponsor will adopt some other kind of show within a month.

* * *

COMPETITORS

Ha! Waring and Cantor will be opposing each other February 4 and after.

So pity the poor, uncertain listener, or is anyone uncertain?

George Jessell's time is changed again. He goes back to 8 p. m. at WJAS on Saturdays.

Three pals, failing with invitations, had little Jack Little shanghied by police the other night for a bridge game, and nobody reported the arrest which was really recorded. . .

And you simply must be told of the shy gal who rushed into Leo Reisman after a broadcast, demanding an autograph, and getting it, said: "Thank you, Johnny Marvin! . . .

"Why did they put VITAMIN A in SMITH BROTHERS Cough Syrup?"
"Doctors have found that it leads to faster COLD and COUGH recovery and fewer re-infections"

Since last winter an astounding advance has been made in the treatment of coughs, colds.
The way has been found to use Primary VITAMIN A . . . the "Anti-Infective" vitamin. It is the weapon that Nature herself uses to fight coughs and colds.
Smith Brothers Cough Syrup now contains this Primary Vitamin A.
Now Smith Brothers Cough Syrup not only gives you fast, pleasant cough relief. Its Primary Vitamin A aids Nature in DRIVING the cough and cold out of the system faster. And it raises your resistance against re-infection.
The only cough syrup giving you the priceless benefits of Vitamin A is SMITH BROTHERS'.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

It only takes a bit of snow to inspire many of the globe trotters to write me about the birds. Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Wilkins, Mrs. Wentworth, Mr. Phillips, with the interest of our feathered friends at heart, ask me to once more remind the trotters to take care of the birds during the winter. They (globe trotters and birds) seem more alarmed this time because of the bitterness of the weather.

With all the hammering away we've done on the subject, it's a safe bet that none of them (the birds) will suffer for want of food. Remember to sweep away the snow and put out bread crumbs and water.

We have some letters asking for streets to be roped off for sled-riding children. Every time I intended to take the letters over to the City-County Building the snow and ice would melt away and I was afraid I'd seem foolish making a request for streets to be set aside. This time it might be different. Let me know your wishes and I will attempt to translate them into action.

Mrs. M. K. tells that her long time idle son who is married and living with her while his wife is living with her parents recently received a job with the state. He gives his entire earnings to his wife. When mother asked if he could spare something for the home he answers, "Sorry, the governor went broke."

(Thanks, too, for the order.)

* * *

Mrs. Wilson must be giving the Globe Trotter the chuckle. Today she wrote how much she enjoyed his broadcast. Go ahead, I can take it.

Thanks for your letter Mrs. Sheridan. Received yours, too, Alfred Hawkins. Lawrence County officials are in charge. I would hestitate a long time before deciding to "bum" around the country. That's usually an unfortunate procedure.

Don't forget the necessity to spread CHEER. It's just about as important as money. Sometimes it does more than money for people. There's the Toy Mission, the Christmas seals, the Christmas baskets, the kind word, and many other ways that you know of to accomplish it.

W. L., Mellon Street—Reducing the principal while the interest is mounting up isn't the easiest or simplest thing to do. The situation you outline might seem unfair but it is in no way unusual. I know it's a headache.

Dr. Carver to Talk Of Money Program

Dr. George Carver, noted for his research in the multiple uses of the peanut, sweet potato, and other native products, addressed an open forum meeting of the Pitt Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. yesterday at Hotel Schenley.

Tomorrow, at 12:30 p. m., Dr. George McCabe, assistant professor of economics at Pitt, will speak to students in Alumni Hall on the conservative viewpoint of the President's monetary system.

College Glee Clubs Start Tours Friday

"HONEYSUCKLE" Is a Gorgeous Doll

Dear Little Girls:

"Honeysuckle" is 18 inches tall, just the right size the average little girl would like to cuddle up to. The word beautiful doesn't really describe her. She's more than beautiful—she's GORGEOUS.

"Honeysuckle" has flexible rubber arms and hands and rubber legs that can be washed just the same as you would wash your baby brother's or sister's. And WHAT A SMILE! And behind that smile are the most lovable, most roguish eyes you ever looked into. They open and close and she rolls them from side to side like a real flirt. By pressing her legs or by moving her body forward or back, she says "Ma-ma" in the sweetest voice you ever heard. She's dressed like a little queen in dainty organdy and lace, with bonnet and shoes to match.

Oh, we forgot to mention her cute dimples, and just as this was written "Honeysuckle" looked up and seemed to say, "Yes, you forgot to tell them about my rubber panties."

"Honeysuckle" is really the DOLL OF ALL DOLLS, and she is going to be so easy to get for Christmas. Shall I save a "Honeysuckle" for you?

ANTIQUE KIRMAN CARPET

One only like this in the world. It is in our

Oriental Gallery Collection

This carpet was woven in the Southeasternmost Province of Persia, namely Kirman, long noted for its finely woven rugs of Floral type.

Marco Polo tells us that the Kirman Rugs of the Thirteenth Century "are decorated with birds, beasts, and other ornamental devices, and the work is executed with so much taste and skill as to be an object of admiration."

This Kirman Carpet has a dark blue medallion, in the center of which is an orange sunburst. The medallion is surrounded by a field of ivory with rose spandrels, the whole framed with two rose bands, between which is an ivory border with the Pine Cone design in green. It probably dates from late in the Seventeenth Century.

Size 9 ft. x 15 ft.

They are saying, already . . . That if you drink . . . two drinks of that . . . "medicinal" likker—you will need medicine! Of course, not . . . many at the Hollywood . . . the other night "got it" . . . But there . . . was Arthur Tracey . . . succeeding Vallee . . . while the front . . . pages said he was . . . wanted for beating his wife . . . so badly . . . she was in a hospital . . . And his first . . . song sung . . . very tenderly, but phony, was called . . . "Love Is the Sweetest Thing." Haw!

Several readers . . . wonder why nobody . . . has thanked . . . President Roosevelt out . . . loud for killing . . . Prohibition . . . The Yacht Club . . . Boys at . . . the Embassy turned down . . . a London offer for . . . a month at £700 per week . . . Seems a shame . . . that those who hand . . . out those . . . licenses for corner . . . newsstands are playing favorites . . . too many war vets are being forgotten . . . because they do not . . . happen to be . . . blind . . . Seems to me that Park . . . Avenue has more charm than Broadway . . . Since laughing soup . . . is legal . . . Top hats, ermines, and "class" all over . . . the boulevards on that fashionable alley . . . Poor old Broadway . . . It reeks of cheapness—and you . . . mustn't say it looks . . . like Coney Island—because Coney Island has . . . threatened to sue for . . . slander the next . . . time anybody makes . . . that crack . . . You have no idea how DeMaupassantish that amusement page ad is . . . On "All Good Americans"—until you hear Hope Williams bellow it in the last act . . . Very funny, however . . . "And don't forget," she yells, "to soandso Mrs. Cruikshank for me!" . . . The play, which made most of the critics laugh loud, drew so-so notices from them . . . True, it . . . is nothing much . . . But what there is . . . of it . . . is very funny . . . Any comedy that makes you laugh lustily more than three times . . . rates cheers, not jeers.

Among other Broadway sectors . . . men, who . . . have amounted to . . . something are Mack Appleton . . . and David Levy . . . Mack, who started . . . his career as . . . a druggist's apprentice 21 years . . . ago for the James people . . . now is owner . . . of the shop . . . on the same site . . . Most of the . . . theatrical makeup peddled . . . to showfolk is sold by him . . . Mr. Levy, who slaved . . . so many . . . years for Nat Lewis, the . . . haberdasher . . . is now one of . . . his partners . . . Dave began as . . . an errand boy for Nat Lewis and now looka! . . . Since the first report here . . . of New York's new . . . newspaper, which . . . is being organized now . . . the phone switchboard . . . here has . . . been too busy. . . All those newspapermen . . . who have . . . been out of . . . jobs since the World . . . crashed . . . have been phoning . . . asking for the new gazette's address . . . It is located . . . at 388 Lafayette street . . . Arthur James, one of the better . . . editors, is in charge . . . And he wishes . . . that he . . . could oblige them all . . . So will you lads, who need jobs . . . Call at that address—and not at mine like the . . . very nice people . . . you are?

I am . . . now at this . . . very moment . . . getting very weary . . . of remembering . . . to punctuate . . . this stuff with periods, so the devil with it.

Eva Tanguay has written me a complaint because it was not long ago told here that among her friends, who gave her aid when she needed it was Mae West. . . . Miss Tanguay is bitter about the legend. She asserts that in Hollywood the papers keep saying Miss West gave her a home and big money and these reports have stopped others from continuing succor. . . . Would I say for her that Miss West gave only a hat, coat, stockings and $35? . . . And that her real benefactress is Sophie Tucker, who helps her and doesn't make it a publicity stunt? . . . It is unfair to say that Miss West made it a publicity stunt and I won't. . . . For Miss West was not the source of my line. . . . It came from intimates of Miss Tanguay.

Among other adventures I reluctantly submit to is one of those thorough physical examinations. . . . The doctor gave me the entire works—and to my amazement found that there was nothing the matter with my health—except a nice cold in the chest plus laryngitis. . . . So at the Embassy I was telling it all to Monte Brice, who feigned being interested. . . . "And what do you think?" I added. "They put the floroscope on me and I could see my heart beat!"

"Yeh?" said Brice, "how did that piece of marble look?"

Expense View Amazes

Ian Keith, in an picture again, "Queen Christina," after nearly two years on the stage, tells an anecdote that illustrates why many stage actors like Hollywood.

"I've been in five plays in the last year," he says, "four of them rank failures.

"In one scene of the last the heroine pours water into a vase containing flowers. Our flowers were cheap artificial ones from the 15-cent store, but during dress rehearsal, when I suggested that she actually pour the water instead of making the gesture, the prop man intervened—said we couldn't because the flowers would have to be replaced before opening night!

"Then I came to Hollywood, after that, and it's amazing!"

Amazing, he says, because arrangements were made over long-distance telephone to New York; because he traveled to Hollywood by air at the studio's expense, a rush call having canceled train reservations as he was needed immediately; amazing finally because after he flew to Hollywood there really seemed to be no rush about getting to work. After a time he had costume fittings, several days of rehearsals, eventually his first day's shooting.

Keith, who dismissed his picture career as merely "summer work," does not take his amazing Hollywood seriously, nor on the other hand does he belittle its value to him personally.

The screen being, in his opinion, a technician's art, and a director's, with the actor rating far down the list in contributing importance, it does not appeal to him as does the stage.

Ziegfeld's Ghost in Nixon Would Have Enjoyed New 'Follies'

By GEORGE SEIBEL

If the inquisitive and envious ghost of Florenz Ziegfeld had strayed into the Nixon Theater last night, he would have felt a melancholy satisfaction in watching the latest edition of the "Follies," and would have said, "They didn't need me." For Billie Burke and Bobbie Connolly have staged the most gorgeous and hilarious frolic of many seasons. There are more ideas in it, more color, more touch and go, than anyone would have thought possible after these years of depression and blues.

And where was the depression? The audience filled every cranny of the house and stood double deep along the ramp of the balcony. No, the ghost of Florenz was not there. He could not have squeezed in.

The central figure of the glamorous show, of course, turned out to be the irrepressible Fannie Brice. This lady of the beestung mouth and the filigree humor had the audience roaring most of the time—but especially during her travesty of the Fan Dance and her "Soul Saving Sadie" caricature of Aimee Semple McPherson. Fannie is so funny that her vulgarity becomes classic like Petronius Arbiter. You'd better not take your New England grandmother. Or maybe it'll be all the same—she won't know what it's all about.

Mr. Seibel

There are 18 authors of the sketches, skits and song numbers in the list—to name them all would be tedious. Practically every one of the scenes is good, except the noisy and dull "All Quiet in Havana," and practically every song has charm or wit except the agonizing "I See Him Over There," inflicted on Miss Beaton.

NUDITY IS BANISHED

There is practically no nudity in this edition of the "Follies," not even to embellish Fannie Brice's "Sunshine Sally," a satire on nudism. That does not mean that there is not an abundance of feminine anatomy on display, but it is artistically set off by some of the most beautiful costumes assembled for a production of this kind. Aside from one dress in the stupid Havana skit, so daring as to be absurd, everything was in good taste, lavish and luxurious, radiant and unsoiled, while some of the effects, like those sequins covered with cellophane (so it looked), were really overwhelming.

From a musical angle, this show is worthy of praise. "The Last Round Up," unfrayed by the radio, is sung by Don Ross with truly exquisite dramatic vocalization. And there is a song which Everett Marshall renders most stirringly, "To the Beat of the Heart," which ought to be sung to the Geneva Conference as a clarion call to stop the war game.

There is another singer, Jane Frohman, who has a voice and a charming personality revealed in "Moon About Town" and with Everett Marshall in "What Is There to Say?" Vivian Janis, Judith Barron and Jack Pepper are among the other singers who have appealing numbers and do justice to them.

I'TS A DANCING REVEL

Most striking of all the features of this show is its dancing. It is a terpsichorean revel—with Patricia Bowman doing some ballet work that is "vraiment magnifique." This little lady even put her audience on tiptoes. And besides her there were Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, who have discovered there is character in legs, and get delightful grotesqueries out of their frequent opportunities.

Scenically there are some striking effects. Everett Marshall's song, "Water Under the Bridge," is a triumph of poetic and romantic designing and lighting. The modernistic richness of the setting for the finale and the shifting views of a New York bus-ride were among the inspired visions of Albert Johnson.

Is this revue up-to-date? Willie and Eugene Howard in a screamingly funny reviewing stand parody, even had Herron and Coyne in their parade.

And a soap-box scene in which the workers are called to rise in revolt is just about as hilarious or more so. But the loudest laugh of the evening was the graduation anthem of the barbers' college, with the ballad of the "Big Bad Wolf" rendered like Handel's "Hallelujah" chorus.

Which still leaves Lord Oliver Wakefield unaccounted for. This odd humorist with his broad subtleties puzzled the audience a little at first—but when it discovered he was funny there was laughter in bucketfuls.

Billie Burke and Bobby Connolly deserve a whole garden of encomiums for the intelligent and lavish way this Ziegfeld show has been put together and put on. If Florenz was there last night, his ectoplasm must have quivered with delight. He could have done no better himself.

Dancing Tops In Variety

Dancing, including oriental, hula-hula, shimmy, tap and ballroom, predominates "Satan's Daughters," the current attraction in the Variety. Seven featured female dancers are seen in the two acts and 36 scenes. They are headed by Ada Lenard, who dances "a la orient." There also are four comedians, with Eddie Kaplin the chief comic. Two of the fun skits are "Stranger" and "A Two Word Drama." The principal musical scenes are "In a Little Garden," featuring Mae Belle; "By a Waterfall," featuring Dona Davis, and "Girl of Our Dreams," by Miss Leonard. Bee Kellar remains from last week. Worth Sisters and Byron are specialty dancers. Other principals are Ruby Shipman, Ethel Lee, Evelyn Brooks, Kirk Brown, Lew Walker, Harry Le Van, Johnny Barry, Palmer Cote, Paul Niles and Arthur Harrison.

Gabrilowitsch to Play And Conduct

When the Detroit Orchestra comes to Syria Mosque tomorrow Ossip M. Gabrilowitsch will appear as conductor and piano soloist in the evening concert. He will play the Brahms No. 1 concerto for piano and orchestra, for the first time in Pittsburgh. Other works of the evening program will be Choral and Fugue by Zomachson, and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade" Symphonic Suite. A popular-priced matinee concert will be given in Carnegie Music Hall at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Henry Harris, pianist, will be guest artist. The orchestra will feature Grieg's "Peer Gynt" music and the Sibelius tone poem, "Finlandia." Edith Rhetts Tilton will give brief introductory remarks.

Invitation Preview For Cantor Film

Eddie Cantor, in "Roman Scandals," his fourth annual screen musical comedy for Samuel Goldwyn, will be shown to the trade and to the press in every city of the country at special invitational showings today. The local preview will be in the Loew's Penn at midnight. Exhibitors and newspapermen have been asked to see the private screening. George Kaufman and Robert Sherwood wrote the original "Roman Scandals," which was adapted to the screen by William Anthony McGuire. With Cantor in the picture are Ruth Etting, Gloria Stuart, David Manners, Veree Teasdale and Edward Arnold.

Civic Group to Play 'The Circle'

The Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse production of W. Somerset Maugham's "The Circle," opening in the Hotel Schenley Theater Friday evening, December 15, will be acted by Jean Dahl, Fern Ball, Wilmer Swartley, George Hildebrand, Emanuel Breakstone, Mary Hamilton, Alfred E. Smith and Malcolm McAlpine. Herman Liveright is directing. The play also will be given Saturday afternoon and evening.

Newcomer

Design Cutters

Fredric March, Miriam Hopkins and Gary Cooper play the Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne and Noel Coward roles in the screen version of Mr. Coward's comedy, "Design for Living."

Plays and Players

:: By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Although the new Ziegfeld "Follies" has been presented in several cities, including Boston, Philadelphia and Washington, the big company spent yesterday rehearsing as an assurance that it would be right for Pittsburgh. The players rehearsed, under the direction of Bobby Connelly, in the Hotel William Penn ballroom, while the orchestra was put through its paces in the Nixon pit. Lee Shubert, who is producing the show for Billie Burke, came from New York to see how it looks. Miss Burke did not arrive from Hollywood yesterday. She had been expected to be here some time this week.

Walter Hampden, who will be seen in the Nixon week after next—Christmas week—in classic repertory, would look like a general if he put on all the medals awarded to him, only perhaps they have no ribbons to hold them in place on a coat. They have been awarded for his work on the stage. One, gold, from the American Academy of Arts and Letters, is the first given for purity of diction on the stage. The National Institute also gave him a gold one for distinguished public service in the presentation of the classics. His presentation of "Cyrane De Bergerac" was considered a service in the cause of French literature, and the Alliance Francaise of America gave him a silver one for that. He also has the honorary degrees of master of arts from Williams College, and doctor of letters, the latter from both Brown and Syracuse University.

* * *

No Montana theater would open its doors to Katharine Cornell. Newspaper comment caused the Helena Players, of Helena, to offer an auditorium, but it came too late, and the company will cross the state without playing a single city.

Paul Specht Orchestra At Eddie Peyton's

Paul Specht and his broadcasting orchestra, which played at the inaugural ball in Washington, will make music tonight only for dancing at Eddie Peyton's night club on the Steubenville pike, near Crafton. Eddie also is presenting a new floor show, featuring Portia Lee, fan dancer; Jimmy Daly, comic; Tickles and Tickles, Negro tap dancers, and Sally Sarraf, singer.

Anti-Marriage Agreement Spurned by Powell

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.—An extraordinary argument of cold business versus romance is being thrashed out between Warner Brothers and Dick Powell, young singing star who has been the year's big hit with the feminine fans.

The studio wants Dick to sign an agreement that he will not marry before January 1, 1935. They don't mind him going to parties with Mary Brian, Gwen Heller or Jean Muir, but they don't want him to give up bachelorhood until another year at least. By that time, they figure he will be well established that marriage won't affect his fan appeal.

To all of which Dick says "nonsense."

"I haven't any idea of getting married now," he asserts, "but if I meet the right girl, no studio is going to stop me."

Only a short while ago, on his birthday, Dick Powell received proposals from more than 40 feminine fans, all of whom thought they might be the right girl.

Both Jack Gilbert and Director Leo McCarey are absent-minded and the other day, in the barbershop, they were swapping stories while Jack was being shaved. Every time the star would tell how absent-minded he had been, McCarey would top him. This went on until Jack was shaved and Leo was in the chair.

As the barber was lathering the director's face, Gilbert stood thinking hard. Suddenly, McCarey let out a roar of laughter.

"It's no use!" He cried. "I can top you again. I came in here for a haircut!"

Yesterday was Douglas Fairbanks Jr's. birthday and, to let you in on a secret, Joan Crawford went shopping to buy him a present.

Odd, about Mary Pickford filing suit for divorce on the day that young Doug arrived here by plane. Wonder if he brought a last minute message from his father?

And to let you in on another secret, Eleanor Hunt and Dr. Frank Nolan, who filed a wedding intention in Los Angeles and then flew to Nevada to take the vows, will be remarried here (probably this week) in a Catholic Church.

One of the unsung comedies of last week was the raid which Sergt. Sidney Sweet, of the Los Angeles vice squad, made on the nudists, who were making a personal appearance in a Hollywood theater. The inhabitants of "Elysia" apparently disported au naturel behind a transparent curtain. But when officers rushed backstage to investigate, they found the performers clad in tights.

They'll tell you that Ricardo Cortez received some very funny gifts at the pre-wedding shower Gene Markey staged for him Sunday night . . . It was too much when Warners summoned Alice White to Hollywood on the second day of her honeymoon, and then asked her to take off her wedding ring for a scene in a picture. Alice flatly refused, but compromised on have them fake a stone on it. The gossips are wondering what happened when Red Golden, one of the best-known assistant directors in Hollywood, stopped off in Wichita Falls on his way back from the "Viva Villa" location in Mexico. Some say Red got married to an oil heiress who flies her own plane to and from Hollywood . . . Elinor Fair, former wife of William Boyd, is playing a lady-in-waiting to Marlene Dietrich in "Catherine the Great" . . . Hal Leroy, the Broadway dancer who plays the title role in "Harold Teen" for Warners, is a flier with 320 hours to his credit . . . Skeets Gallagher has just received, collect, from Honolulu, a box containing a huge rock. Jack Oakie sent it, of course.

Did you know: That Raquel Torres is German on her father's side and that her real name is Wilhelmina von Osterman?

Spencer Tracy and Claire Trevor are featured in "The Mad Game," screen feature to follow the picture now showing in the Fulton. Tracy, head of a beer mob, sent to Atlanta, is paroled to help run down kidnapers.

* * *

Charles Laughton, Carole Lombard, Charles Bickford and Kent Taylor have the principal roles in "White Woman," opening Friday in the Penn. Miss Lombard, married to Laughton, falls in love with Taylor.

* * *

* * *

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Thief

DOLLY should have picked a millionaire for a mate. For she was a gal who needed dough, and plenty of it. She was a lulu at the spending game, and she was never really content unless she was buying something. It didn't matter what it was, so long as the money roiled out.

A Rockefeller was what Dolly really needed when she hit the marrying age. Or, at the very least, an Astor or a Vanderbilt. And whom did she finally land? You're right again. A poor sucker named Bill Martin who, in all probability, would never hit $75 a week if he lived to be 90.

Not that Bill was a bad guy. Far from it. A teller in a small bank that had gone along peacefully through the years. Bill was trusted and respected by his employers and friends. He never bet on the ponies, always removed his hat when there were ladies in an elevator, took quinine at the first sign of a cold, lived very simply, saved his money and never kicked his mother.

In other words, Bill Martin was a pretty normal guy. When it came to marriage, he should have chosen a little lady who would save her pennies, have her children, and die a week or so after her husband. Dolly wasn't that woman by several million miles.

So they were married, for worse or for worse . . .

I don't want you to think that these two didn't love each other. They most assuredly did—in the beginning. Their romance went along smoothly enough for two years, and one child. Which isn't bad in this age of morning marriages and evening divorces.

It was shortly after the arrival of the kiddie that Dolly began to go haywire. Bill was earning the same short money, and the hospital expenses had been plenty tough. But Dolly didn't want to know about those things. All she knew was that she wanted a larger apartment and a maid.

"We've got to have something decent now, dear," she told her mate, as they are laughingly called. "You don't want our baby growing up in the wrong atmosphere, do you? We simply must move to a finer neighborhood."

"You're right, darling," he returned. "Perfectly right. The only thing that worries me is the money. You know my salary, and——"

Talking to Dolly about money? Silly man.

"Oh, Bill, you can manage. You know you can. Let's not say any more about it. I'll start apartment-hunting tomorrow."

That's all there was to it then—and that's all there was to it from then on. As time rolled on, Dolly fell into a life that would have exhausted the income of ten Bill Martins.

She had bridge parties. She took the girls to luncheon in the better speakeasies. She dragged Bill to the theaters, and balcony seats would have been just too mortifying. She dressed well, and the baby now had a nurse to attend to all the unpleasant details.

This being a typical Hellinger column, I don't have to tell you where the money was coming from. After Bill had borrowed in every conceivable direction, he began to steal from the bank that employed him.

The man wasn't really a crook. Given the right woman, as I said before, this bird would have trod the straight and narrow all his life. But he was madly in love with a dizzy dame, and she was making him do things that were entirely foreign to his nature. His grandpa had tilled the soil, but he was soiling the till. (Copyright, 1890, by Joe Miller.)

For some eighteen months, Mrs. Bill Martin had a glorious time. Her husband wasn't sleeping well at nights, but that didn't worry the lady to any extent.

On a lovely May morning the blow fell. The examiners swooped down and Bill Martin was swept out. He was immediately arrested and sent to the Tombs to smoke cigarets, play tick-tack-toe with himself and repent his sins.

If that was the end of Bill for a long time, it was also the end of his matrimonial venture. He wasn't in prison a day when his wife sent him a very curt note, telling him that she was taking immediate steps to secure a divorce. She had seen an attorney, she went on, and she would soon leave for another state in order to end their marriage.

Poor Bill Martin was heartbroken. He wrote to his wife again and again, but his letters were never answered. Pretty soon, they placed him on trial—and after the verdict, he was given a 10-year stretch.

Or maybe I shouldn't speak of 10 years as a stretch. It's by way of being a complete exercise.

Several months later, in a western courtroom, a kindly judge gazed down at a woman who held a little child by the hand. He cleared his throat.

"My Dear Mrs. Martin," he asserted. "Before informing you of the result of your divorce suit, I want you to know that I have received a number of letters from your convict husband. He wanted me to know that he does not wish this divorce, and that he is still devoted to his wife and child."

Dolly began to sob hysterically. She did it well, too. The judge nodded sympathetically.

"I don't blame you, Mrs. Martin," he went on. "My heart goes out to you. Your husband should have thought of his devotion before he brought disgrace upon the heads of his dear wife and little child. This divorce is granted."

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MARY STROBEL,
Verona.

MAPLE NUT CAKE

Two-thirds cup shortening.
Two cups brown sugar.
Four eggs.
One cup sweet milk.
Three cups flour.
One cup English walnuts (chopped).
One-half teaspoon salt.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon maple flavoring.

Cream shortening, add sugar, egg yolks, uneaten, flavoring and milk and beat well. Add dry ingredients which have been sifted together, add nuts. Fold in beaten eggs whites. Bake in two layers, on large deep pan in moderate oven 35 minutes. This cake will keep moist for several days.

Ten $1 Prize Winners

MRS. H. E. BOND,
7155 Idlewild street.

CRANBERRY MOLASSES PIE

One quart, whole, ripe cranberries.
One cup brown sugar.
One cup white sugar.
One cup molasses.

Cook over a slow fire for 10 minutes. Line a 10-inch pie dish with pie crust. Fill with the cranberry filling. Cover with strips of crust, criss-cross. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until cranberries are thoroughly cooked (45 minutes to one hour). This makes a sweet, juicy pie. The combination of flavors is delicious.

MISS ALICE SMITH,
Frankford lane, New Kensington.

ONION SOUP

Slice four large onions lengthwise, then slice them crosswise into shavings. Cook slowly for 15 minutes in three tablespoonfuls of butter. When the onions are a golden brown, slowly stir in six cupfuls of good meat broth. Season with good pepper (preferably peppercorns ground) and salt. Next beat the yolks of two eggs with one teaspoonful of grated parmesan cheese. Then slowly add the onion stock. Have ready thick slices of toast, sprinkled with parmeson cheese, which should be placed in hot oven long enough to brown cheese. Place on top of each individual soup plate. Makes four servings.

MRS. WILLIAM J. LEWIS,
No. 155, Largo.

MOTHER'S DOUBLE-DECKERS

Three-fourths cup shortening.
Three-fourths cup sugar.
One egg.
One-half teaspoon soda.
One cup molasses.
Four cups flour.
One teaspoon salt.
Two teaspoons ginger.

Put shortening, sugar, egg, molasses in a mixing bowl; beat until light. Add sifted dry ingredients a little at a time. When mixed roll thin on lightly floured board. Cut half the dough with a round cookie cutter. Use doughnut cutter on remainder. Bake on cookie sheets in moderate oven 10 to 12 minutes. Put cookies together with cream filling:

One-half cup powdered sugar.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon ginger.
One tablespoon boiling water.

Add one and one-half cups powdered sugar and more water if needed.

MRS. MABEL BURSON,
508 St. Clair street, McKeesport.

TURKEY SCALLOP

Pick meat from bones of cold turkey and chop fine. Put a layer of bread crumbs on the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Moisten with a little milk, then put in a layer of turkey with some of the filling, and cut small pieces of butter over the top; sprinkle with pepper and salt, then another layer of bread crumbs, and so on until the dish is nearly full. Add a little hot water to the gravy left from the turkey and pour over it. Take two eggs, two tablespoons milk, one tablespoon melted butter, a little salt and cracker crumbs, as much as will make it thick enough to spread on with a knife, put bits of butter over it and cover with a plate or lid. Bake three-fourths hour. Ten minutes before serving, remove lid and let brown.

ROSE SETTINO,

M'GINTY BALLS

Three eggs.
One cup sugar.
One cup milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Three cups flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.

Beat eggs well, add sugar, then add milk and vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Sift baking powder and flour together, then add to mixture and beat well. Drop by teaspoonful into hot fat and let fry until brown. Drain on brown paper and sprinkle powdered sugar over all balls. This recipe makes from 50 to 60 balls.

MRS. DWIGHT KINTIGH,
300 First street, Jeannette.

YULE-TIME SALAD

Place a good-sized leaf of crisp lettuce on a salad plate. In the center of this lay one slice of pineapple. Form a ball of Philadelphia cream or cottage cheese to fit the hole in the slice of pineapple. Over top of the cheese place a half of an apricot (canned), rounded side up. Now for the finishing touches. A candied cherry plopped on the center of the apricot forms a nose, two cloves the eyes, and a dash of whipped cream a beard. A red cone-shaped gumdrop with a dip of cream at the tip makes a cap—and the result is Santa Claus. An added effect may be had by cutting one of the red gumdrops in half and placing a half on either side of the beard to form part of Santa's crimson coat. If cranberry sauce is to the family's liking, a spoonful of this substitute for the gumdrops would make a tasty and attractive cap and coat for Santa. Also a spoonful of mayonnaise may be put over the cheese and around Santa if desired.

O. E. ROBERTS,
309 Elysian street.

LIVER A LA KING

One-half pound veal.
Two green peppers.
One red pepper.
Twelve large mushrooms.
Four cups water.
Stuffed olives.
Four tablespoons butter.
One and one-half cups milk.
One and one-half tablespoons flour.
Salt, pepper, celery salt.

Boil the four cups of water. Add seared veal. Boil one and one-half hours. Add the liver and salt and boil until tender. Cut in one-half-inch cubes. Butter and salt and pepper the mushrooms that are cut in quarters and braize 12 minutes. Cut peppers into one-half-inch pieces and boil 10 minutes. Melt one and one-half tablespoons of butter. Add the flour, and cream together. Add a little cold milk, then one and one-fourth cups of warm milk, stirring over fire. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt. When this white sauce has thickened, add the diced meats, vegetables and mushrooms, and keep hot. Cut bread in triangles or circles. Toast and butter pieces. Place on hot plates and pour a la king preparation over slices. Garnish with slices of stuffed olives. Serve hot. Serves eight.

MRS. E. B. DAWKINS,
Mayview.

FILLED COOKIES

One cup sugar.
One half cup shortening.
One egg.
One-half cup milk.
Three and one-half cups flour.
One teaspoon soda.
Two teaspoons cream of tartar.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
Filling.
Four prunes, dried.
Four peaches, dried.
One-half cup raisins.

Blend sugar and shortening, add well-beaten egg, then milk and flour which has been sifted with soda, salt and cream of tartar alternately. Add vanilla. Cut cookies round and when top cookie is put in pinch around edges so they look like small baskets. Soak fruit overnight. Cook in same water until tender enough to mash with a fork. Add three-quarter cup sugar, one half lemon, juice and rind, or one-half cup tart jelly (red currant is very good), one-half cup nut meats, and thicken with a little cornstarch. Drop one teaspoonful on cookie, place another cookie on top and press with fingers. Bake slowly until brown. Cook fruit, sugar, and lemon juice about five minutes before adding nut meats and cornstarch.

MRS. JOHN POUILLON,
General Delivery, Weirton, W. Va.

SLICED TONGUE IN TOMATO SAUCE

Select a medium sized fresh tongue. Put in large pot, cover with water, and a small handful of pickling spices. When tongue is tender, place on large platter and peel off tough skin which peels readily. Then slice tongue and put in sauce pan. Take one can of tomato sauce and pour over tongue, adding just enough water to make a nice broth. Let simmer 15 minutes. Serve.

MRS. A. WEIL,
77 S. Fourteenth street, South Side.

MEAT PATTIES

One-half pound ground beef.
One egg.
One teaspoon salt.
One pound sliced bacon.
Two tablespoons ketchup.

Mix meats, egg and salt. Form into sausages. Wrap each one in strip of sliced bacon, putting in toothpicks to hold shape. Fry in hot skillet until brown. Pour a sauce made of the ketchup and one-half cup of water over cakes and bake, covered, in a hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes. Remove lid for two or three minutes to crisp bacon. Serve with sauce left in pan after baking.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion.

MARY PICKFORD'S LIFE STORY — By MARJORIE DRISCOLL

HOPE TO KEEP PRESENT COUNTY TAX MILLAGE

POLITICS

Rich Fees on Mellon Estate May Be County Political Issue

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—The next campaign for register of wills in Allegheny County may be fought out on the issue of who is to obtain the inheritance tax fees from the estate of the late R. B. Mellon.

Mr. Shields

Joseph N. Mackrell, the present register of wills, under ordinary circumstances, might be expected to receive the fat fees from this estate. But he may not. Inheritance tax fees are paid to a register of wills at the time the inheritance tax is paid, and not because of a death occurring in his term.

The fees from the Mellon estate may run into the thousands or hundreds of thousands of dollars. They present a rich plum worth the campaigning in the most forceful manner of any individual or the representative of any political group.

Friends of Mr. Mackrell figured that when the R. B. Mellon will was filed the present register would be a participant in a fee-splitting without precedent in Allegheny County and perhaps in the United States.

It now develops that in Mr. Mackrell's term the fees normally and legitimately accrued to a register of wills may not be awarded. The estate, in view of the Department of Revenue and the auditor general's office, may be so integrated with trusts and inter-related with the holdings of A. W. Mellon that years may be required to determine the taxable value.

* * *

Economy in Selection Of Regular Appraiser

It appears that the auditor general in appointing C. J. McBride, treasurer of the Republican County Committee, as appraiser of the Mellon estate, actually has proceeded in a manner which will save the commonwealth thousands of dollars in revenue.

Mr. McBride is a regularly employed appraiser, whose salary is $3,600 a year. Should the Register of Wills, through the Department of Revenue, name other appraisers or investigators to supervise the adjudication of this estate, their fees would be merely a super-tax, or an additional drain, upon the sums which should go into the general fund of the state treasury.

Mr. Mackrell, or the Department of Revenue, in appointing investigtors or appraisers outside of the regularly employed personnel of the inheritance tax division of the Register of Wills office, would simply be setting up fat jobs for political favors.

* * *

Federal Figures Will Determine State Tax

From the Attorney General, William A. Schnader, and the Department of Revenue, it is learned that the amount of inheritance tax received by Pennsylvania is dependent wholly upon the tax which will be fixed and collected by the federal government.

Federal authorities will set the taxable value of this estate, and that figure, according to all precedent, will be accepted by the commonwealth.

Eighty per cent of the tax collected by the federal government will be rebated to Pennsylvania because this state has put itself in line for that percentage of participation in federal collections.

What Mr. McBride or any other state official might establish as the taxable value of the Mellon estate is simply applesauce if it disagrees with the federal valuation.

Valuation May Be Task Requiring Years

The ultimate determination of this taxable value may require one, two or three years. Should the adjudication run beyond two years, then the fees would fall due in the term of the next register and not that of Mr. Mackrell, unless he is able to re-elect himself as a Republican candidate or through a fusion movement enlisting the assistance of the Democrats to whom he was an aid, through bolting his party, in the recent mayoralty election.

From any standpoint, this situation offers a picture in which the next Register of Wills campaign may be fought out with an advance consideration at stake of a fee of approximately $100,000.

The nearest index to the Mellon estate is the Dorrance "Campbell soup" bequests which the Dorrance attorneys fixed at a hundred five million dollars.

On this amount the state has collected an inheritance tax of $14,500,000, in round figures, and the Register of Wills of Delaware County collected fees of approximately $40,000.

This estate still is in the process of adjudication. The Dorrance heirs have filed a bond of $4,000,000 to cover possible additional revenue to the state because the federal government has not accepted the valuations set by attorneys for the decedent.

If additional money comes to the state, then the Register of Wills will receive extra fees.

* * *

Harvest Will Exceed That On Dorrance Estate

The Mellon estate undoubtedly will be far beyond in total valuation that of the Dorrance estate. It should be understood that the federal government holds that any trusts set up two years prior to death are open to taxation, and that the state law provides that any trusts set up in a will are liable to taxation.

MISS ISABELLE MESSMER, 18...ORDERED TO LEAVE STATE

Miss Messmer, the Elwood (Ind.) two-gun girl, freed in court when Judge Snee paroled her one one year—on condition that she evacuate Pennsylvania pronto. She's been in jail since the October day that she was arrested—after battling with two detectives arresting her after she had been seen getting a pistol from a check-room.

MARY PICKFORD IN CITY, SHUNS PUBLICITY

Retires Early on Train Bound for New York; Here 20 Minutes

Mary Pickford stopped over in Pittsburgh for 20 minutes last night, but the screen star, whose divorce suit is the talk of the nation's movie fans, was in her Pullman drawing room "not to be disturbed."

In other words, "America's Sweetheart" had retired at 8 o'clock—some two hours before the New York bound train rolled into Pennsylvania Station. Pressed, her porter insisted:

"I know she shouldn't go to bed so early, but she doesn't feel so good. No, I positively can't let anyone knock on her door."

However, on the next train was Cecil B. DeMille, the producer, who—although he left here for Washington—is en route to Gotham on a talent search for his new picture, "Cleopatra."

He dropped out on the platform for a smoke—and a talk. Yes, he had seen much of Mary Pickford. If they had discussed her divorce action, Mr. DeMille would repeat none of it. He knew her too well, he said.

Moreover, Mr. DeMille agrees that the salaries of Hollywood stars are too big:

"Of course they are. The receipts don't warrant them."

Is there still a place for Miss Pickford in the movies? DeMille thinks so:

"The movies wouldn't be the movies without Mary Pickford."

Mary Reaches New York; Silent On Divorce Suit

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Mary Pickford arrived from Hollywood today to spend the Christmas Holidays hunting for a play and having a lot of fun.

She stepped from a train and told reporters that she knew what was uppermost in their minds, but she wasn't going to talk about it. She explained:

"Good taste prevents."

So, the shattering of the idyllic movie romance in her recently filed suit for divorce from Douglas Fairbanks went unmentioned.

She brought her skates along. She said she was going to have lots of fun walking up and down Fifth avenue and in the park, and seeing plays.

If she finds a play suitable to her own talents, she said she would prefer to open it in Chicago and bring it to New York.

Her neice, Gwen Pickford, 17, a California high school girl, is to join her here for Christmas.

Wears Curls When She Wins Job With Belasco

(With the filing of Mary Pickford's divorce suit setting at rest the last rumors of reconciliation between herself and Douglas Fairbanks, the Sun-Telegraph is publishing the dramatic story of the famous film star's life. Yesterday's installment told how Mary Pickford first learned of the hopelessness of healing the breach between herself and Douglas Fairbanks when she discovered in a newspaper an advertisement offering "Pickfair" for sale.)

Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER 2.

By MARJORIE DRISCOLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.—Because a certain red-upholstered chair had rocked on her small toes, hurting both toes and dignity, Gladys Mary Smith cast it in the role of villain when she played highly dramatic scenes in the parlor of a Toronto home.

Not so many years later Gladys Mary Smith, become Mary Pickford, was to play with more convincing villains and heroes much handsomer than the chairs which served her baby purpose.

The stage was in the blood of the golden-haired little girl. Her mother, Charlotte Hennessey Smith, had been a character actress. Baby Mary heard talk of the theater from the time that she could understand anything at all.

There was never any doubt in her mind that some day she, too, would be an actress.

PARLOR HER STAGE

And so the parlor of the little house in Toronto became a stage, and the chairs were Mary's "supporting case." Together, the little girl and the unresponsive furniture played dramas which Mary invented and in which she was the heroine.

From the walls looked down pictures of actors and actresses, friends of her mother. Mary knew the names of all of them and what they had done.

Tragedy began to follow Mary Pickford when she was a very little girl. She was only 4 years old when her father died, leaving her mother to support Mary, 3-year-old Lottie and Baby Jack.

Now, no mother could possibly have been prouder of her family than Charlotte Smith, nor more determined to keep her little brood together. But it was hard going. There was very little money. Not for all the money in Toronto would Charlotte Smith have surrendered one of her babies, but they did make it harder for her to get work.

Mary herself has told how, as a very small girl, she used to watch her mother sewing and tell herself that some day she would be big enough to help.

And so, in those early days, she set her baby mind to the problem of helping. Naturally, only one way occurred to her. She would be an actress—of course.

STARTE AT FIVE

She was 5 years old when she was graduated from the parlor dramatic school and her mother's instruction to the actual stage.

MILLION DEFICIT MAY CAUSE SNAG

$5,000,000 in Bonds Will Be Issued On Back Tax

Hope against increase—but a very slim hope at that—of the 8¼ county tax millage today centered in the probability that county assessments will not show the sharp drop which has been experienced in the city.

County assessments have in some cases been increased in a program of equalization for those unreasonably low. The general county assessment rate has been lower than the city's, and therefore less susceptible to a drop in values. A drive to enforce the personal property tax has also met with fair success.

Beyond this hope that the basis of county income will not shrink, few loopholes appear for tax relief.

Budgetary requests of department heads, made public yesterday, amount to $20,678,499. This figure is $220,867 more than the current year's appropriation, in which a deficit of more than a million dollars has been incurred. The deficit was caused by a five per cent drop in the estimated collection of taxes.

County Commissioners will meet Thursday to wrestle with the problem. Their first move is already planned—to issue $5,000,000 in bonds against delinquent taxes in the past three years. Collecting six per cent interest on the delinquent taxes, and paying four per cent on the bonds, this should mean a slight gain for the county.

On a large part of the budget the Commissioners' hands will be tied. Almost half, or $9,012,286 will be needed for redemption and interest on bonds. More than $6,000,000 comes under the head of mandatory costs.

Among other problems will be the newly-created Juvenile Court. Judge-elect Gustav L. Schramm is to present a skeleton plan for its operation, the cost of which will undoubtedly exceed the $623,708 asked on the basis of the

RUSH MEDICAL RELIEF PLAN

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Dr. Harold A. Miller, state director of medical relief, was to start a series of meetings today aimed at getting Pennsylvania's medical relief program under way as speedily as possible.

Plans for extending such service among the unemployed will be discussed with physicians, nurses, dentists, pharmacists and relief workers. Similar meetings are to be held tomorrow at Allentown and Reading and in other parts of the state at a later date.

Man's Leg Broken In Auto Collision

Crushed between two automobiles, one of which his machine was towing, Warren A. Hammon, 50, of 2023 Mt. Troy road, was in Allegheny General Hospital today with both legs fractured.

Hammon was caught between the cars as an auto driven by William Oehling, 24, of 524 Industry street, collided with the parked machines. Oehling was arrested, police said. George W. Warwick, 39, Mt. Lebanon, passenger in the machine in tow was slightly injured.

Fire Wrecks Boiler Plant at Dayton

DAYTON, O., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—The main plant of the Brownell Boiler Works, covering eight acres, and its contents were destroyed by fire last night with loss estimated at $150,000 by A. E Hartnett, treasurer.

OPEN 'COLLEGE' DAY CLASSES

Whitaker "College" in Homestead High School was to begin free afternoon classes for unemployed persons today in addition to its regular night classes.

The "college" headed by the Rev. H. W. Eagleson, was started two years ago, when several young men asked the Rev. Mr. Eagleson to tutor them in college subjects. Since then the school has expanded until it now has more than 525 students studying 35 courses under 20 teachers.

Among new subjects to be taught in the day session of the school are chemistry, biology, physics, economics, civic, commercial art, sketching, painting, college algebra, trigonometry, civil engineering and journalism.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 12.

From the prices they are charging for drinks all over the country, I guess there never was as much temperance as now. Unless the government makes the drinkers some kind of a loan, they just can't carry on.

Will Rogers.

Let the government do like they do in other federal projects, match you dollar for dollar, or in this case drink for drink. You buy one, the government buys the next.

(Better let the government buy the first one.)

Yours,

WILL.

CASE OF 'WRONG NUMBER' HEARD

Sue K. Salio, a telephone operator, of 3616 Mexico street, told Judge Ralph H. Smith a story of abuse, in asking a divorce from Edward C. Salio, of Buena Vista street. The court remarked:

"I expect this was a case of 'wrong number; excuse it please.'"

This brought a smile in the courtroom.

Mrs. Salio charged her husband pawned her diamond ring, took $40 she had hidden under a rug and gambled the money away. She also said he drank to excess.

On one occasion, she said, he beat her so severely she was in bed a week.

They were married October 3, 1931. She charges cruel and barbarous treatment.

RARE PAINTINGS AT LEAGUE EXHIBIT

By PENELOPE REDD

The Junior League presented an exhibition of 35 drawings in its rooms by masters extending in time from the German school of the fifteenth century to the nineteenth century Frenchman, Toulouse - Lautrec, at a private view yesterday. The exhibition will be open to the public from Wednesday, December 13, to January 6.

Miss Redd

Equal in importance with the celebrated names of the artists represented is the fact that the examples shown are chosen with fastidious discrimination.

There is a pen drawing of ineffable quality, "Madonna and Child," by Fra Bartolommeo, done about 1500, similar to one in the British Museum. Another exceptional item is "A Cripple in a Cart," by Peter Brueghel, the Elder,, believed to be the only Brueghel drawing in America.

The six studies of heads in black and red crayon, heightened with white chalk, by Watteau, and the sanguine study of a nude by Greuze, are among the choicest French drawings owned in this country.

A beguiling portrait of a child, Marie Marcotte, by Ingres, is exceedingly rare. But one might make this remark about almost every drawing included in the exhibition.

Not only knowledge is evidenced by the selection of exhibits, but a command of resources which one only expects to discover in exhibitions assembled by the major museums, will surprise the observer.

Those who have made this exhibition possible for Pittsburgh through their generous co-operation with the Junior League are: Miss Helen C. Frick, of Pittsburgh; Philip Hofer, Edward Warburg, Richard Owen, Jacques Seligmann Company, and M. Knoedler and Company, all of New York City; the Fogg Art Museum, of Harvard University, and Henry McIlhenny, also of Cambridge, Mass.

The exhibition is held for the benefit of the Public Health Nursing Milk and Emergency Fund.

School Lessons Are Piled High for Johnny Congress

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Congress gets back to school in three weeks. They've got more lessons piled up than a boy with the mumps.

There's some simple sums in budgetation. Short division in patronage. They will have to spell stabilization without bruising a syllable.

They will have to translate the money question from its present Greek form. Then there's some beautiful subtraction in stock market control. And no home work is to be permitted in red ink.

First lessons in geography will be a public works map. Don't get the new postoffice too close to the old one. A little question in social economics is how to make a man happy working when he is happier when he ain't.

Don't forget revision of the securities act, farm relief, ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty and liquor control. Before school lets out the high chair in the corner will be crowded.

Police Instructors To Get Final Orders

A meeting of the 13 instructors in the new Pittsburgh police school was to be held today in the office of Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide. Final orders on instruction methods were expected.

OPERATOR 13 — By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Gailliard Followed Back to City By Girl Spy

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

As soon as Gail had dressed, her impulse was to pull the bell rope and stop the train. But if the train stopped in some uninhabited section of the track, what would be the use? As well as she could she effaced from her person and clothing all traces of conflict and of tears; and went off to find the porter, who was snoring in one of the remoter seats forward.

Together they consulted a timetable which he produced. It was plain enough that Fishkill, opposite Newburgh, would be the next stop. She told him she would get off there; and returned to her section—or, rather, to the seat behind it.

One Must Eat

Combat and emotion—or maybe it was only youth and health—had made her hungry.

The porter fetched her a tumbler and some ice and uncorked the bottle of champagne she pulled out of her valise. And there in the semi-darkness of the rattling, lurching car, she ate chicken sandwiches and drank champagne, her mind busy with the peril of the situation and instant needs of the moment.

Lesser and petty emotions, hurt pride, chagrin, bruised modesty, sentimental grief—all these selfish personal reactions died out in the deeper anxiety for the city in danger. Because she was convinced that John Gailliard would now return to New York and carry out the terrible orders which had sent him thither at the risk of his neck.

Once Colonel Sharpe, speaking of John Gailliard, had said to her, "I want him dead or alive." But also he had ordered her either to destroy the man or to drive him across the Canadian border. Therefore, it would appear, that the girl might take her choice. She was no executioner, anyway.

But how could she suppose that Gailliard was desperate enough to leap from a moving train while handcuffed to his captor? She never had supposed anything like that could happen except on the stage.

Unwilling Admiration

And he had done that spectacular thing at risk of killing himself and her, too. After all, it was rather magnificent. What a climax to a third act! What a brute of a man! . . . After all, she had been in love with him. Perhaps still was. What a beast he had been to undress her! But how devilishly clever of him! What a scoundrel! Oh, no, he wasn't exactly that either. But it was a shameless, unprincipled thing to do. Yet, after all, he had to do what he could for himself. Only she had supposed that he loved and respected her.

Yes, perhaps. But after all, she had just informed him that she loved the United States better than she loved him. And now there seemed to be little doubt that he cared more for the South than he did for her.

"What a brute!" There were fresh tears in her eyes, and she sniffed as she lifted her glass of iced champagne to her lips. "Nevertheless," she sniveled, "God keep him from the provost's gallows . . . I drink to his escape—but I'm going after him."

When the locomotive whistled for Fishkill and the brakemen were grinding down brakes on every car, the porter trundled her two valises out to the platform and carried them down the car steps to the station. An Albany train bound for New York steamed in a few minutes later. There was no sleeper. Operator 13 and her baggage were stowed aboard a day coach full of marines and sailors asleep, on their way to the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The girl slept all the way to New York and arrived at the St. Dennis Hotel, where she had left her trunk, so sleepy that she merely scribbled a brief telegram and then went to bed and slept till the April sun in her face awakened her.

The telegram she had sent read:

"Papers secured but man escaped. Will telegraph later using departmental cipher."

When she had bathed and

Serious Trouble Brews Under a Calm Surface

COUNCIL TOLD LEVY CUT HITS HOME OWNER

A protest that the hundred million reduction in real estate valuations by the city assessors was restricted largely to business and commercial property was made to Council in budget session today.

C. C. Hamilton, real estate broker, declared the slash in assessments was unfair to home owners in that they had not benefited commensurately.

PROTEST REDUCTIONS

Three social agencies, the Civic Club of Allegheny County, Federation of Social Agencies and the Pittsburgh Community Council asked that no further reduction be made in the Bureau of Recreation.

Mayor John S. Herron had cut $20,000 from the bureau estimates, bringing the total to $189,180. Temporary employes at playgrounds and swimming pools were chiefly affected.

An effort to ease payroll reductions in the police bureau is indicated in two ordinances presented to Council at the suggestion of a police committee.

The ordinances would restore to police the 16⅔ per cent salary cut imposed along with all other city employes at budget time last year, and the pass days and vacations taken away at the same time. They also add 500 police, 15 detectives and three sergeants.

RENEW BUDGET CUTS

The ordinance was introduced by Councilman Frank L. Duggan, who said he was asked to present it by a committee headed by Sergeant William McCullough. Duggan was not optimistic concerning the possibility of its passage. He said:

"There will not be a chance, unless they can show us where to get more money."

According to reliable sources, the miscellaneous revenue for next year is placed at $6,275,000, substantially less than last years' estimate despite an increase of nearly $600,000 brought about by beverage licenses.

WOULD DROP CONTRACT

Among the recommendations of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board heard yesterday was one to terminate the contract with the South Pittsburgh Water Company which costs the city approximately $500,000 a year.

The city at present pays the company the difference between the city water rate and the company's rate for the benefit of consumers in the South Hills wards.

JOBS PERILED IN CLEVELAND

International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 12.—Furloughing of several hundred city employes and a 31 per cent slash for those who keep their jobs appeared inevitable today after county officials ruled that financially-stricken Cleveland could issue only $928,500 in scrip.

The city, which, according to Mayor Harry L. Davis, is facing bankruptcy, had planned to issue $1,200,008 of the tax anticipation warrants to raise funds for operation of the city government until the first of the year.

According to the Mayor, the city is having difficulty in obtaining credit for gasoline for police cruiser and fire trucks and also for purchases of supplies for city-maintained hospitals and welfare institutions.

house servants and employes of his bank, the federal and state governments and the Register of Wills of Allegheny County probably will participate under existing law.

There is something of a close question as to whether the bequest to Mellon Institute is liable to taxation.

Because of the fact that the inventory may not be filed prior to March 1, and that the appraisal of this intricate estate then must be undertaken, it is doubtful whether a basis for taxation will be established prior to the expiration of the term of Mr. Mackrell.

It will require some time to fix a fair valuation of such enterprises as the Aluminum Company of America, one of the chief of the Mellon industrial adventures.

This is merely an instance of the complexity of this estate and of the perplexity which confronts appraisers, federal or state, in determining its value for taxable purposes.

All of which well may throw the whole issue into the next county election.

HOPE TO KEEP COUNTY TAX

present system. More workers and a new juvenile home will probably also be requested.

LARGEST INCREASE

Largest increase on the budget is an item of $41,598 in the Department of Revision and Assessment of Taxes. In addition, extra cost will be caused by a census of registered voters, expected to save money as a standing check against registration fraud. It would also serve as the basis for permanent registration should such a law be passed.

The department will also temporarily employ 150 assessors to aid in personal property assessment.

South Park, where the CWA was inaugurated, showed the largest decrease—$164,187. North Park increased $9,907. For parks, Commissioners were contemplating a $600,000 bond issue, and for improvements a sale of $1,200,000 people's bonds, approved in 1928.

From the elections department, where $80,000 was lopped off, Director W. T. Rees said he understood a number of workers were to be transferred.

NO MONEY FOR AUDIT

No appropriation appeared for the audit. A similar situation prevailed last year, but $79,500 was later appropriated. Commissioners said the work was nearing completion.

Another blank in the appropriations list appeared after the name of Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr. Questioned, Pfarr stated he had continuously petitioned the Commissioners for a reasonable salary and expenses, and that if he didn't get it by January 1, he would demand his rights in court.

Standing well up in the increase column was Memorial Hall, for which $10,355 more was asked than this year. Of this, over $2,000 was to go far salaries.

RABBI BRICKNER PREDICTS NEW WORLD ERA

Casting off the bonds of an antiquated social system, the world today is facing a new era, Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner, of Cleveland, said in an address before the Pittsburgh Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations last night.

Picturing the part the United States is playing in the new historical period now in transition, Rabbi Brickner said:

"I believe President Roosevelt with his new deal is trying to find something between Socialism and Capitalism as a basis for the national structure.

"But I believe, too, that in order to succeed, a new deal within will have to be realized—a spiritual revolution."

Jews in Germany, and liberals as well, will never regain their former status, Rabbi Brickner said, pointing to America and Palestine as the greatest hope of Nazi refugees.

Rabbi Brickner's address marked the Pittsburgh conference's annual Hanukkah celebration, held in the Y. M. & W. H. A. auditorium, Bellefield avenue.

Mrs. Saul Lavine, president of the organization, presided. The program included a song group by Caroline Hilmer, contralto, and a tableau symbolic of the Feast of Chanukah, which opens tonight and continues for eight days.

132,625 VISIT ART EXHIBIT

The thirty-first Carnegie Institute International, which closed Sunday, had a total attendance of 132,625 visitors.

A total of 216 clubs and special groups visited the exhibition. Approximately 9,000 attended.

Shipment of American paintings back to owners has already started. European paintings are being prepared for the tour exhibition to Cleveland and Toledo.

FRANK FUNERAL RITES AT HOME, SYNAGOGUE

Funeral services for Jacob H. Frank, 67, who died at his home, 4219 Saline street, Saturday, were held at the Jewish Home for the Aged this afternoon. Services also were held later at Tree of Life Synagogue.

The second service was arranged as a tribute to Mr. Frank, for many years a member of the synagogue, and a past president and member of the board. Mr. Frank, one of the founders of Frank & Seder, had been active in various Jewish philanthropies.

The body reposed in state at the Home for the Aged from 10 a. m. until the hour of the services. Rabbi Herman Hailperin, of the Tree of Life Synagogue, officiated at both services.

At the synagogue officers and members of the board served as ushers. They included Louis Gordon, Jr., president; I. C. Cohen, vice president; Samuel Frankel, secretary; Benjamin Appelstein, treasurer; Harry Doberin, chairman of the board, and honorary members, George Adler, Harry A. Applestein, M. D. Bachrach, Jacob Becker, John Fisher, Israel Greenberger, Theodore Lencher, Ralph D. Levine, Philip Loevner, Frank Magidson, Tilden Mendelson, A. I. Ostrow, A. Pervin, Israel Raphael, S. H. Reichman, Charles J. Rosenbloom, Ralph Schugar and Alexander Sharove, members of the board, and Abe Lewis and Emanuel Ryn.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Big Saving! No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This simple mixture soothes and heals the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

OHIO WATERWAY URGED ON ARMY ENGINEERS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—An imposing force of nearly 100 business and civic leaders from the Youngstown canal region of Ohio and Pennsylvania swooped down on the Army engineers' board today to demand reconsideration of the division engineer's unfavorable report on the proposed project for improvement of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers.

The public hearing on the demand for reconsideration of the unfavorable report started under the chairmanship of Col. W. J. Barden. Five other members of the Army board of engineers were present as well as Maj. Plyer, district engineer for Pittsburgh.

Col. Barden opened the hearings by announcing receipt of a score of indorsements for the project from prominent Ohio civic and industrial leaders who could not be present, including one from Gov. White. The Governor said he heartily indorsed the project.

BACKED BY SENATOR

A similar message was received from Senator Bulkley (Dem.), of Ohio.

Petitions signed by 15,000 citizens of Mahoning and Trumbull counties, Ohio, and Lawrence County, Pa., urging reconsideration of the division engineer's unfavorable report, were presented to the board by Representative Cooper (Rep.), of Ohio. The petitions included names of 3,000 citizens from New Castle, Pa.

The division engineer's unfavorable report was based on the grounds that use of the waterway after the proposed improvement would not return savings sufficient to justify the large costs involved.

RUIN PREDICTED

Proponents of the project, led by Cooper, however, contend that unless the improvement work is undertaken virtual industrial ruination will result in the districts. They estimate that approximately 50,000 people will be forced to leave the area over a period of time unless the project is put under way.

The proponents also were prepared to tell the board that the opposition of the railroads to the project is based on erroneous grounds. They were prepared to present evidence showing the railroads would lose more tonnage by not having the waterway improved than if the project is undertaken.

FACES RETURN TO CHAIN GANG

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—James A. La Rue, Florida chain gang fugitive, was without the aid of his greatest benefactor today in his fight to evade being returned to the South to complete a five-year prison sentence.

The break came yesterday and it was La Rue's past life that caused Judge Alfred O. Erickson to say he was washing his hands of the whole affair after once promising to give the man "every break" possible to win him his freedom.

The judge said:

"La Rue lied to me. He abused my confidence and now I wash my hands of the whole affair. While I think that the punishment in his case is too severe, I believe that all law violators should be punished and be made to pay a just penalty for their crimes."

The authorities said that La Rue's criminal record, brought to light yesterday, disclosed that he had been arrested on charges of automobile theft and for carrying concealed weapons, and he admitted he had once served a term in the Federal Reformatory at Chillicothe, O. Gov. Henry Horner, of Illinois, has offered his extradition to Florida.

COUNTY SEEKS FEDERAL LOAN

Plans to enlarge the County Home at Woodville and to improve the City-County Airport were revealed today when announcement was made that application for a loan of more than five and one-half million dollars had been made to the advisory board of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works at Harrisburg.

Of this money the county poor directors are seeking $3,672,500 for an addition to the insane hospital, providing 400 additional beds and a new nurses' dormitory.

Director of Parks A. M. Marion and Maj. Hal Bazley, manager of the airport, have asked for $2,100,000 for filling a large ravine in the northern boundary of the present field, the erection of two new hangars and the installing of lighting equipment, bringing the airport up to the AIA standard of the Department of Commerce.

The projects, if approved, would furnish employment for 650 men for at least 10 months, it was stated.

Edgewood, Keystone Tied in Bridge Play

The Edgewood Country Club winning from the Duquesne Club and the Keystone Athletic Club beating the Engineers' Society were tied for the lead in the inter-club duplicate bridge championship, results of last night's play revealed today.

Other results were: Pittsburgh Athletic Association over University Club; Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club over the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

LITTLE MARY OBTAINS ROLE

Argues Her Way Into Interview With Belasco

Furthermore, she appeared at the first rehearsal letter perfect in her part. When grown-up actors and actresses were still reading their lines, Mary knew every word of her role.

It consisted of one line—but she knew it.

She had learned it on the way home from the visit to the theater when she won the role. Under a street light Mary and her mother stood, repeating cue and line until the enthusiastic young actress was satisfied.

Three years later 8-year-old Mary was a full-fledged trouper, starting out with a road company in "The Little Red Schoolhouse."

She knew little red schoolhouses only as stage sets, which were built with only three sides and held upright with braces. Nevertheless, she was getting an education. Her mother had started her on books, and wherever she traveled, her school books went with her.

On trains, in her dressing room, anywhere and any time she had a chance, Mary studied. She has always studied, even after she became famous. A few years ago, when the Crown Prince of Japan visited Hollywood and was entertained at the Pickford-Fairbanks studio, it was Mary who proudly acted as interpreter, speaking fluent French.

AIMS HIGHER

Mary was about 12 years old when she made up her mind that stock and road companies were all very well, but what she needed was a real chance with a really big producer.

The biggest producer in sight was David Belasco, and naturally Mary decided that a job with Belasco was what she wanted.

Seeing David Belasco without an appointment was, especially for an unknown youngster, about like dropping in for a casual visit to Mussolini or running in to the White House for tea. That did not stop Mary.

She was, luckily, staying with her aunts in New York, in one of those periods of being "at liberty" that every actor knows, and she settled down to the business of seeing Belasco.

She went to his office. A secretary, probably secretly amused at the determined little girl, told her to come back Monday.

To Mary, naive in spite of her seven years on the stage, that meant that an engagement would be waiting for her. The days until Monday dragged endlessly. At last the day came, and she went back.

And she was told to come again the next Monday.

After a few experiences like that, Mary began to get just plain mad. She had no idea of giving up. If she couldn't see the elusive Belasco one way, she would another.

BLANCHE BATES HELPS

It happened that Blanche Bates was playing in "The Girl of the Golden West" at a theater where Mary had appeared and where she knew the doorman.

And so, one matinee day, a little girl with golden curls and a determined expression marched past the doorman and straight to Miss Bates' dressing room.

The star was tired and thought it was just another youthful admirer. She told her maid:

"Tell her I can't see her."

But the maid, a kindly Negro girl, had seen the look in Mary's eyes. She pleaded:

"Please see her just a minute."

It took Mary just three minutes to complete her request. And Miss Bates instructed her:

'Tell Mr. Belasco I told him to see you."

MARY WINS HEARING

When next Monday rolled around, Mary Pickford had a new line in her argument with Belasco's secretary. She insisted:

"Miss Blanche Bates told me to come."

Belasco heard the voices and came out. Mary seized the opportunity. Five minutes later she was in his private office, explaining that she would much prefer not to recite anything, but that she wanted to give a scene from one of the plays in which she had been appearing. Oh, yes, she told him she had lots and lots of experience.

Amused and interested, Belasco watched and listened while Mary calmly rearranged the office furniture to set the scene and plunged into the role of a gamin that she had played in one of her road shows.

The shrewed and experienced showman knew, long before Mary had finished the scene, that he had found something—or, rather, that something had found him.

A BELASCO ACTRESS

Her first Broadway role was Betty Warren in "The Warrens of Virginia," and she created the part.

Also she acquired a new name. Gladys Mary Smith would never do for an actress. Belasco chose the name that in later years was to become known wherever movies go.

He named her Mary Pickford, taking the Pickford part from her mother's family.

Mary was on Broadway, but she was not to stay there.

(Tomorrow's installment will tell how Mary Pickford broke into the movies and got her first job.)

Barricaded Man Scalds Policeman

Barricading himself in his home, Matthew McMillen, 67, of 1309 Federal street, hurled boiling water upon Capt. John Flavin and Patrolman Hugh Haggerty when the officers forced their way into his home to subdue him, according to police. Flavin was treated at Allegheny General Hospital for burns.

McMillen, who police said, had been confined to Mayview until a short time ago, was locked up in North Side Police Station.

WELFARE DRIVE ENDS, SHORT $740,000

Total subscriptions to the Welfare Fund's 1934 budget drive stood $740,000 short of the goal today following closing of the public campaign yesterday.

Pledges totaling $75,895, including those obtained in response to the Emergency Sharing Plan presented in all churches Sunday, were reported at the final meeting of workers yesterday, bringing total contributions to date to $2,096,638.

In view of the drastic curtailment of services of affiliated social agencies necessitated by shortage of the budget, set at $2,837,000, Chairman John W. Lawrence announced that quiet efforts to win additional contributions in larger amounts would continue.

Divisions now "over the top" include North Boroughs, with $10,800; city employes, more than $10,000; Area 10, city neighborhoods, $761; county neighborhoods, $210; Area 20, covering Castle Shannon, Brentwood, Baldwin Township, Bethel Township and Snowden Township, $2,100, and a Negro group working through the Center avenue Y. M. C. A. and the Urban League, $1,502, more than double its quota.

Duquesne promised a report of $19,000, on an $18,000 quota, tomorrow.

Oppenheim - Collins Company, $211.15; Western Union Telegraph Company, $90.25; George S. Daugherty Company, $194; Fort Pitt Hotel, $40.75; General Electric Company, $558.75; H. H. Robertson Company, $114.50; Pennsylvania Indemnity Corporation, $161; Somers-Fitler & Todd Co., $371.25; Watson Standard Company, $168.75; Howards Cleaners, Inc., $30; Glenshaw Glass Company, $269; Machinists Supply Company, $22.25, and Vitro Manufacturing Company, $75.

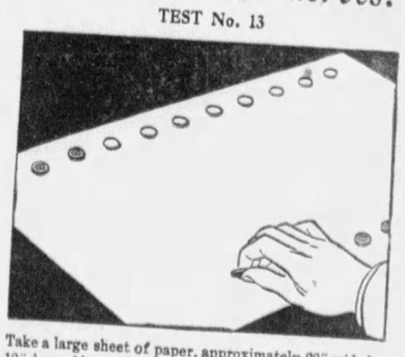
'How are YOUR nerves?

TEST No. 13



Take a large sheet of paper, approximately 20" wide by 12" deep. Along the top of it draw ten circles, each the size of a penny. Along the bottom of the paper put ten real pennies... Now pick up the pennies one by one with your right hand and place them in the circles at the top of the page beginning at the left. Have someone time you. Average time is 12 seconds.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

Some of the fashionables drank a toast to the Junior League's art exhibit in fragile glasses of sherry, some in cups of tea at the preview of an exhibit of drawings of old masters, held yesterday afternoon in the Junior League rooms, Clark Building.

And the clubrooms were crowded at the preview. What's more, there were ever so many men, some husbands of league members, who dropped in after locking up their offices.

The arts and interests committee of the Junior League, responsible for the exhibit, the first of a series, is thrilled with the success of the preview, both because of the unusual exhibit and the interest it's arousing.

Toast Junior League Exhibit

Many of the drawings, done by Tintoretto, Corot and the like, from famous private exhibits, have never been shown to the public before.

Today's Junior League day, and tomorrow and continuing until January 6, the exhibit's open to the public.

Members of the arts and interests committee there to serve as aides and to see the success of their efforts were Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland, chairman; Mrs. McCook Reed, Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., Mrs. Alexander L. Robinson, Mrs. Roberdeau Green Annan.

And Mrs. Maitland Alexander, an honorary member of the Junior League—there are only two, Mrs. William Frew and Mrs. Alexander—poured at the tea table. Mrs. Alexander wore a green and gold lame blouse with a black crepe skirt, and had a corsage of orchids.

It was a most festive affair with the clubrooms decorated with vases of calla lilies, roses, and trailing ivy. And the pictures, I might add, are helpfully well-lighted.

Men Attracted By Preview

Among the men there were Dr. Robert Milligan, who came with Mrs. Milligan, Raymond Ford Moreland, Harvey Childs III, Blair Childs, W. McCook Reed, B. F. Jones III, and ever so many more whose names I don't know.

It was a smart gathering. Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland chose an interesting gown of cranberry red suede cloth with a black belt tied in a bow in front and laced in and out of the red material in the back.

Mrs. McCook Reed's gown of black crepe had a high-necked inset yoke of ribbed silvery material; Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., appeared in a black crepe gown having a silver nail-head decorated belt and small black crepe tabs running from shoulder to shoulder across the high neckline.

Mrs. Alexander L. Robinson chose an all-black crepe ensemble, and so did Mrs. Roberdeau Green Annan. Mrs. Annan's small black hat had a nose veil of black.

Sports, Afternoon Costumes Worn

Mrs. T. Howe Nimick chose an interesting grey-brown suit having a matching ascot scarf of bagheera and Mrs. George H. Love, a brown and beige diagonal plaid skirt with which she wore a brown wool jacket and a small hat to match.

With her mother, Mrs. T. Raymond Evans, was Mrs. John Berdan in a corduroy-ribbed bright red wool dress. With it she wore a brown suede hat.

Typifying the modified shirtwaist style was Mrs. Clarence A. Stanley's costume. With her black skirt she wore a grey shirtwaist and a beaded black belt. Mrs. Rhodes Quaile, Genevieve Bell, Mrs. John W. Lawrence, Mrs. A. P. Woolfolk, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., Louise Reed, Elizabeth Arbuthnot, and Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson I recall seeing.

Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III, was there, Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly, Mrs. Henry Scott, Jr., Mrs. B. F. Jones III, Mrs. George Singer Ebbert, Mrs. F. C. Irish, Virginia Drake, Mrs. Leslie M. Johnston, Laura Oliver, Mrs. William S. Moorhead, Mrs. Carroll P. Davis, Mrs. F. F. Brooks, Mrs. Harvey Childs, and scores more of the social registerite set attended the auspicious preview.

New Year's Dance At Fox Chapel

The Fox Chapel Golf Club will avoid the difficulty of having dancing at its New Year's party until after midnight New Year's eve—a Sunday—by having its New Year's dinner-dance on Saturday, December 30.

On the committee arranging the party are Mrs. Clarence Stanley, chairman, Mrs. John C. Hays, Mrs. H. R. Hilliard, Mrs. Grant McCargo, Mrs. Graham McCargo, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., Mrs. J. Henry O'Neill, Mrs. William B. Salsbury, Mrs. Howard Heinz and Mrs. Albert G. Wells.

Events Arranged By Seton Hill Alumnae

The Seton Hill Alumnae Association has planned a series of social events for the winter and spring season, beginning Saturday with a tea in the home of Miss Mary Giles and ending with a meeting in June.

The second meeting will be held in January, when Mrs. E. C. McHugh will be hostess at a bridge party. In February there will be a lecture in the residence of Miss Kate Murphy. On March 17 a musicale will be given with Mrs. J. T. Wurtz as hostess.

The April event will be the annual play of the senior class of Seton Hill Academy in Central High School, which the alumnae will attend.

In May there will be a dance, and the annual meeting at Seton Hill will be held in June and will be attended by the members of the Alumnae Association.

Here's more proof that Pittsburghers are getting away from gloomy interiors—the John J. Kennedys have the walls of their charming living room of their home, Shady avenue, done in a lovely soft shade of blue-green.

Social Hygiene Film Preview Date Advanced

The private preview of the film, "Damaged Lives," to be shown by the American Social Hygiene Association, has been changed from Friday to Thursday at 4 o'clock in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club.

East End Girl's Wedding Announced

Mrs. Frieda Kline, of Stanton avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Ada Kline, to Sol Simon, son of Philip Simon, of Pittsburgh, which took place Saturday, December 2.

Bridal Party Selected by Miss James

A bride to be of December 27 is announcing the members of her bridal party. She is Miss Katherine Duvall James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Duvall James, of Locust street, Edgewood, and she will wed Gordon Ritchie, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ritchie, of West Harwich, Mass.

Her matron of honor will be Mrs. Paul Autenreith; bridesmaids, Miss Virginia Sartwell James, sister of the bride-elect; Miss Margaretta Orr Fife and Miss Mary Elizabeth Fife. Serving as best man will be L. Val Hood, of Washington, Pa.; and ushers will be Curtis James, Robert Scott Tully and L. Hamilton Phillips.

The wedding will take place in the James home with the Rev. Dr. William Porkess, officiating.

McKeesport Club To Mark 35th Anniversary

Its thirty-fifth anniversary will be celebrated Friday by the McKeesport Woman's Club with a luncheon and salmagundi party in Mrs. J. S. Mack's home, Union avenue. Mrs. V. A. Auld and her committee will be in charge.

The club has remained a literary, musical and social organization since it was founded, and this year has for its study theme "Main Currents in American Thought." Musical programs are planned for each meeting by Mrs. N. E. Ferguson and her music committee.

Mrs. Frederick R. Crabtree, of Pittsburgh, was one of the founders and first president of the club. Mrs. John Caughey now occupies the executive chair.

The club's junior auxiliary, like the parent organization, also is a literary and musical group, but maintains active committees for civic and philanthropic work.

Some of Smart Set Take 'Back Seats' at 'Follies'

Some of the fashionables had to sit in boxes last night at the Nixon for the "Follies"—boxes aren't popular with Pittsburgh's smart set — and still other social registerites found themselves in the back row of the first floor. Many decided to forego the usual intermission cigaret and chat, for only the best wrigglers could make the lobby last night, such a crowd there was.

Among the many I noted in the boxes were Martha Yost and the William A. Gordons, the III, and Jane Sloan and a party. Martha Yost was in a white pebble crepe evening gown having flat back bows over the shoulders.

Mrs. Gordon (Madelaine Alexander) wore a long ermine coat. Her mother, Mrs. Maitland Alexander, was there, and her aunt, Mrs. William Christopher Robinson.

Other members of the same family there were the William D. Georges (she was Mary Franklin Robinson), the Alexander Laughlin Robinsons, the junior William Christopher Robinsons and the senior Mrs. Robinson's daughter, Althea—quite the largest family representation there. Most of them were in afternoon dress, for they didn't go home to change after the Junior League preview.

Another who chose a dinner gown was Catherine Suydam in green uncut velvet. Mrs. Simon T. Patterson chose a red and gold lame dinner gown with long sleeves. Kolinsky banded the neck-line of the bodice, slit to the waistline in back. And dressmaker tucks added a note of originality.

Mrs. William Standish was in violet blue velvet, Genevieve Bell in copper green, Evelyn Evans in cranberry red velvet, and Mrs. George H. Love in black satin.

Others noted in the huge audience were Clodagh McCune, Mrs. William S. Moorhead, the Harvey Childses, the III, the Herbert A. Mays, the T. M. Joneses, the III, Mrs. Clark Miller and the William A. Duckhams.

Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys was there, Mrs. Charles L. Flaccus, Mrs. Roberdeau Green Annan, Mrs. Gordon Fisher Jr., Mrs. S. Brainard West, who sat in one of the boxes; Suzanne Trimble, Ruth Friday and Margaret Rowe in red crepe, Mrs. J. M. Scribner.

Sloan Scholarship Club Christmas Bazar Dec. 19

A bridge party and Christmas bazar will be conducted at the Hotel Schenley next Tuesday afternoon by the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club. Candy, home-baked goods and needlecraft will be on sale.

Helen E. Wassell's Betrothal Announced

Mrs. O. B. Winey gave a bridge-dinner in her home Thursday evening to announce the engagement of her sister, Miss Helen E. Wassell, to James W. Schofield, of San Francisco, Cal., formerly of Pittsburgh.

Junior League Sponsors Benefit Fresco Tableaux

Not only will the Junior League sponsor the production of Giotto frescoes in tableau form Friday evening at 8:45 o'clock in the Twentieth Century Club, but also on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the same time for students and school children for a nominal sum.

Both events, the first to attract all the fashionables, always faithful in their support of art, is for the benefit of the Frontier Nursing Service, for which Mrs. Charles S. Shoemaker, president of the Twentieth Century Club, is Pittsburgh chairman.

Program Girls In Uniforms

The program girls, Virginia and Rebecca Doyle, both Junior Leaguers, will wear the Frontier Nursing Service uniform—a gray costume with brimmed hat and rinding boots suitable for travel either on horseback or muleback!

The ushers will be Louise and Phyllis Totten, Mary Louise Succop, Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., Louise Reed, Betty McKay and others.

Wednesday Afternoon Club to Give Yule Party

With Mrs. C. C. Yingling as leader and Mrs. E. W. Brown, of Hay street, as hostess, the Wednesday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg will have its Christmas party tomorrow. The program will be a discussion of "Christmas Yesterday and Today," by Mrs. James F. Hoffman.

When a recent picture of the well-known Raquel Torres appeared showing her return from Europe, she was carrying one of the new muff bags of duvetyn . . . with great silver "moons" in the upper corners!

And now we find the self-same bag in one of our stores! Only $3 . . . of duvetyn, with the same "moons" making it the star it is, for you as well as Raquel! Black, red, green.

Hark back to Aesop Fable days . . . when you sat and spelled out the story about the Fox and the Grapes! For we have made a discovery which will bring it all up before you—books of children's handkerchiefs with the various Aesop's Fable animals printed on them. The handkerchief will be on one page . . . and the story about the animals printed opposite! A useful, interesting, and instructing gift all in one. For $1.

And if you would like to look wisely over your spectacles as you present your gifts . . . choose practical ones like these:

Flower pots . . . which are in reality clothes brushes . . . the handles forming the pot, the brush making the "flower." 50c. Or some of the new glazed chintz garment bags we've seen . . . single ones . . . with a velvet covered hanger in color. 50c the set. Or even some of the nice, and really goodlooking cellophane covers for dresses. They're bound in colored fabric and come with 3 velvet hangers to match. 50c the set.

Century Tours World With Kaltenborn

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

H. V. Kaltenborn, radio commentator, took the Twentieth Century Club "Around the World in 50 Minutes" yesterday morning, discussing in his interesting and very personal way Russia, Italy, Germany and the United States. Russia, he said, has given the world some valuable lessons, valuable if for no other reason than to show what should be avoided. The speaker says he goes back again and again to Russia and finds the country both stimulating and irritating.

In order to get an accurate idea of what Russia has done—and she has done it with reasonable success—Mr. Kaltenborn said the Russia of today must be contrasted with that of the Czarist regime. Russia is learning by tremendously costly, stupid things, but nothing else can be expected when a country changes in 10 years from an agricultural to an industrial one.

Speaking of Italy, Mr. Kaltenborn said the only countries where parliamentary government has failed are those which never had a sound parliamentary system. He predicts that some arrangement will be made by Italy and France concerning the African colonies which are more Italian than French, although held by France.

It was Mussolini's overwhelming desire to occupy the center of the limelight that sent Grandi as ambassador to Britain and Balbo to Tripoli, where neither will again be much in the public eye, the speaker declared.

He said Hitler is difficult to talk to, he won't argue, he orates when you ask him questions, he is the one-track mind type; he looks like nothing, but he has the instinctive gift of a great dramatic actor and has united Germany as it has never been united before.

Mr. Kaltenborn spoke of the persecution of the Jews in Germany, saying it can be called nothing but persecution and that he would not have blamed Hitler had he restricted those Jews that came in after the World War, traders and middlemen, who added nothing to German economy and culture and were not particularly scrupulous.

The speaker holds that Hitlerism could have been avoided had France made even one friendly gesture towards Germany anent the Versailles treaty. He termed the Polish corridor "a geographical monstrosity."

Recently come from Washington, where he visited the code room and talked with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and many other persons, Mr. Kaltenborn says Johnson is doing a reasonable job and that a conference for enforcement will shortly be held. There will be no inflation of paper money, the speaker declared, as he went on to describe encouraging conditions in the South and West.

FOOT NOTES FOR SMART HOUSE GOWNS

BY PRUNELLA WOOD

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

WITH NEGLIGEES, hostess gowns and even lounging pajamas hitting new highs, all for the sake of increased elegance and leisure, it is only to be expected that shoes to go with them should be a bit more formal and ambitious.

In other years the more dressy a mule or house slipper tended to be, the fluffier it was. Models that dripped ostrich flues, or marabou, or cock feathers dyed in tints that no cock ever saw except in Easter eggs were very chichi. Pom poms and rosettes were sizable, and big kitty whisker bowknots perched on many a vamp.

They were ornate in a splashy way, and properly, for they complemented the vogue for negligees and pajamas cut on tailored lines. They were meant to be decorative, rather than sophisticated.

This season's models, however, are very worldly indeed. They have nothing on them that interferes with the glimpse of a pretty arch or ankle, and they flash with the same brilliant materials that are popular for dancing slippers.

Gold and silver kidskin; pied kidskin combined with all the reducing cunning of expert camouflage; silk fabrics trimmed with these giddy kids; and a great to-do about contrasting linings and unusual sandal cuts all go into the new house slippers.

For wear with hostess gowns, sandals are the best bet, while a negligee or a pajama looks better with a step-in mule.

Miss Richards, Chworowsky To Address P. T. A. Groups

Miss Josephine Richards, of Carnegie Tech, will address the Wilkinsburg Junior High School parent education group Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Wilkinsburg Y. W. C. A. Miss Richards, who is head of the art division at Carnegie Tech, will discuss the use of "practical art" in the home, school room and dress and the use of cosmetics.

The board of directors of Wilkinsburg Council Parent Teacher Associations will meet at 1 o'clock tomorrow in the Allison School auditorum. This meeting will precede the council meeting which will be called to order at 1:30.

Martin P. Chworowsky, principal of Falk Elementary School, will speak on "Changing Conceptions of Education," and Florence Ingram, violin, accompanied by Margaret Ingraham, will entertain during the social hour.

Swissvale Women Entertain With Tableaux

A series of tableaux appropriate to the season marked the artistic program given yesterday before the Swissvale Woman's Club. The tableaux were arranged by Mrs. Victor Friden, leader for the day, and Mrs. J. A. Esler directed the music which was furnished by the club choral between tableaux.

Each member responded to roll call with a gift for a needy child and the annual Christmas offering was taken and added to the scholarship fund.

Rosslyn Farms Women Plan Yule Play

Instead of the usual afternoon meeting in a home on Thursday, the Rosslyn Farms Woman's Club will have an evening meeting on Friday of this week in the school auditorium.

That means it's going to be something special.

The drama division, under Mrs. N. K. Parker, will present a dramatized version of Dickens' "Christmas Carol," in which all the roles will be enacted by children of members.

Period costumes and settings have been especially designed for the occasion and at the close of the play Christmas carols will be sung to piano accompaniments by Mrs. H. M. Austin.

The hostesses, Mrs. C. G. Campbell, Mrs. Elizabeth Nutt, Mrs. W. I. King and Mrs. T. L. Liversidge, will serve refreshments and will collect the gifts for the Toy Mission which the members have been asked to bring.

Junior Hadassah Hold Dance Tomorrow

At HARRIS'
Santa "Budgets the Balance" to Balance the Budget

FOR 26 Christmases we've been helping Santa over the hurdles. And with NRA and Recovery sitting in the sleigh, we're doing more than ever for that gallant gentleman . . . OUTFITTING HIM, HIS WIFE, HIS CHILDREN—besides financing the Christmas Tree gifts as well! Santa is a contortionist at Harris'—he cannily keeps his cash in bank, while he "balances his budget" by letting us "budget the balance." Nor is he taxed out of existence for the privilege, either—not a single penny beyond our normal cash prices can he pay for any article in this store.

HARRIS STORES COMPANY is affiliated, for buying purposes only, with a group of 75 stores, including some of the most energetic and efficient in America. We can buy as cheaply as any buying group in the country, and THAT is the important factor enabling us to EXTEND your payments beyond the usual 30, 60 or 90 days, without any extra charge. As a contribution to the National Recovery Program, we are OK'ing a charge account for men and women as SOON as they are employed. Yours is ready, too.

Christmas comes but once a year— BUT YOU CAN MAKE IT STAY

YOU'RE going to give this year—of course; these times have given us less to spend—but they haven't killed the spirit of giving.
So why not give something that will be a joy each day for years to come, as well as on Christmas morning . . . something that is needed as well as desired . . . something offered to you on generous terms to fit restricted budgets. Such a gift sounds hard to find—it isn't. Just consult the First-Aid list below.

FIRST AID FOR THE SHOPPER

AS LITTLE AS $3.00 DOWN DELIVERS FOR XMAS

Proper Christmas festivities call for an open fire . . . one of these splendid Radiantfires provides it. Ready, always, at a moment's notice to banish chill, make home more cozy.

AS LITTLE AS $5.00 DOWN DELIVERS FOR XMAS

Mother spends one year out of every five in the kitchen . . . think what a fine new range would mean to her. The automatic control saves worry, assures uniformly good results; the insulated oven means comfort, all through the hot months. The family benefits from the finer things that she can more easily prepare.

AS LITTLE AS $10.00 DOWN DELIVERS FOR XMAS

We don't need to tell you all that this gift would mean to the whole family. Just think of all the good things that any automatic refrigerator can offer—then add the fact that this Gas Refrigerator has no moving parts to wear out or make noise—causes no radio interference—and costs less than 2 cents a day to operate.

AS LITTLE AS $15.00 DOWN DELIVERS FOR XMAS

A never-failing supply of steaming-hot water—what a luxury, and what a blessing. If time and tempers are lost in your home because of an antiquated hot water heater, a new one will be a wonderful gift. Copper, you know, cannot rust—and tank and coils are copper throughout.

And remember . . . the generous terms let you pay in monthly installments. They also let you use the savings that the use of these appliances effect to pay part of the installments.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Grief Is a Vicious Thing If It Is Prolonged

Grief—persistent, inconsolable grief—is it loyal and beautiful?

Or is it cowardly and selfish?

Should we turn our backs on the world when we lose someone we love, and never again take any interest in living? Gerry is doing that now. And—

But we'll let her tell it,

Dear Elsie:

Why is it that people can't seem to sympathize with grief, or realize what it means?

I will tell you my story. I know that you, at least, will understand, and maybe say something that will make my family appreciate what I have gone through, and how useless it is for them to nag at me to forget it.

Five years ago I met a wonderful man. We fell deeply in love with each other, and after knowing each other a little over a year we were married. Oh, I was so happy! We went on our honeymoon, and he was marvelous. I thought that my whole life was going to be one long heaven of happiness.

And then, just a week after we got home, Jim was struck by a car and killed. I almost went mad with grief. I couldn't believe, for months, that he was really gone; that I would never see him again. I just lived in a sort of daze.

I went home to Mother. Dad and my brother and sister. They were kind to me at first, and really seemed to understand that everything was ended for me. But now they are different. They can't seem to understand that the light simply went out of my life, with the going of my darling.

FAMILY UNSYMPATHETIC

They can't understand why I don't "get over it," and go out dancing and playing as I once did—as he and I loved to do together. Together! That was it. We enjoyed life so, and he was so wonderful! Now my sister can't understand why I turn down all the invitations I get from other men who would take me out. But I am sure you will.

Jim was the most perfect man I ever knew. I know no other man could ever fill his shoes. He was superior to any man I have ever known. My heart still bleeds over losing him. I know that I could never be happy with anyone else. I can't dream even of ever meeting a man as fine as he was.

But now the whole family has taken to nagging me. They keep saying "You're only 26. The best part of your life is ahead of you. Snap out of it!" And when I try to talk of Jim, they're so unsympathetic!

Please help me. Haven't I enough sorrow, without having them all turn on me this way? They read your column, and I know you understand. Make them see, won't you? GERRY.

Do I understand? More than you can possibly guess, child. I understand. But just because I do understand so well, I'm not going to take your side!

Yes, I know; you can't forget him. Don't try. Nor will you ever again find a love just like that. Yet your people are still right. You should go on. You should put this grief away.

VICIOUS RACKET

And now I'm going to be more cruel than they have been. I am going to tell you the real truth about such chronic grieving as yours.

It's not only unhealthy—but it's selfish, and cowardly, and hideously conceited!

You're not doing it because you loved Jim. You think you are—but the real reason why you're doing it is because grief has become a vicious racket to your sick soul!

Grief gratifies your egotism; makes a sort of heroine of you. Grief alibis selfishness and cowardice; permits you to concentrate on yourself and duck your responsibility to others—and, by its very nature, prevents criticism.

You deny this indignantly! Don't! I know what I'm talking about. I know—because I've grieved like that, too. And it's all wrong, youngster.

We've no right to let love spoil life. Love that spoils life isn't love at all; it's just vicious self-indulgence. We must go on! That is the law of life. No matter what happens to us, we must go on!

So get going, little Gerry. Don't try to forget. Carry the memory of your boy in your heart, as you would a shrine. But get on the job again, as millions of other gallant souls have done.

Your courage—that will be the greatest memorial to your love! Would your Jim have wanted you to be a selfish coward?

Fay King, Offers Consolation to the 'Shy' Type of Girls

ISN'T SHE SWEET!
WISH I HAD THE NERVE TO ASK HER FOR A DANCE!
I WISH I COULD BE A "GOOD FELLOW" LIKE SHE IS!
SHYNESS IS A CHARM!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Many young persons worry because they are shy, and wish to be rid of blushes and embarrassment.

They compare themselves unfavorably with others who have a free and easy personality and seem more popular.

But such popularity is of a doubtful quality. Such personalities are so easy to approach and sometimes difficult to avoid.

Shyness is a charm. It is an expression of modesty which inspires a more cautious and respectful approach of friendship.

But those who admire them often feel the lack of those graces and charms that could make the proper impression upon a shy personality.

Do not regret if you are shy. It is more pleasing than the "fresh" and "rough stuff."

Madge Is Anxious as Doctor Enters Nursery

It would have taken a stern disciplinarian indeed to withstand the anguished pleading of Junior to be allowed to see himself that Baby Faith had suffered no ill effects from the foolish prank that he and Roderick had played to make her laugh, but which had woefully frightened her instead.

I wished them to understand the possible injury they might have done by their thoughtlessness, but I felt a lump in my throat when, after Dicky uttered a gruff "All right, you may stay until then," they gave me another bear hug and then went up to him.

"Thank you," they chorused huskily, and I saw something in Dicky's eyes, as he looked down at them, that brought a sudden mist to my own.

"O. K., youngsters," he said suddenly, and then Dr. Braithwaite said quietly:

"Do you mind if I go in and take just a glance at the baby first? Sometimes a nurse gets over-anxious over a case of fright in a baby, and I have had a good deal of experience with frightened youngsters."

I wondered if Dicky's throat was as dry as mine suddenly became. But he managed a husky "All right," when I could not have uttered a syllable.

Dr. Braithwaite did not wait for any further ceremony, but went into the nursery, closing the door quickly behind him. But there had come no sound through that closed door, and I did not know whether to feel relieved or alarmed at the silence.

ANXIOUS MINUTES

Mother Graham was the first to speak.

"What does it mean?" she asked in a whisper, clutching her daughter's arm. "Harriet, tell me, do you think that Edwin thinks—"

"What nonsense!" Harriet said briskly—a shade too briskly, I told myself torturingly——"He simply has had so much experience that he can't resist the temptation to rush headlong into any situation where a baby he knows is concerned. Then, too, he probably wants a chance to talk to Katherine professionally about the child, before the rest of us put in an appearance. You know doctors and nurses live in a world of their own, apart from ordinary mortals."

Was there bitterness in her voice, I wondered. Was she resentful because her husband had gone into the nursery with the woman of whom she once had been jealous, or was she trying to talk against time in order to relieve the fear which she knew the rest of us were feeling?

Mother Graham said no more, and Dicky and I did not speak; but his hand crept down and caught mine, and we stood thus silent, waiting, as we often had stood before in times of mental anguish.

MADGE SUSPICIOUS

Even the little boys were silent but I knew that it was because they were afraid to speak. That they understood the menace which Dr. Braithwaite's going into the nursery had brought to us I was sure.

It seemed an eternity that we waited there and, indeed, it was nearly 10 minutes before the door opened again and Dr. Braithwaite came out, smiling. But there was something in his eyes—or did I only fancy it—which belied his smile.

"I must ask you all to forgive me," he said. "Harriet knows what the rest of you probably don't—that I never can resist making a professional examination of any baby I see. I only meant to take a look at your cherub, but before I knew it I had asked Katherine to take the hampering clothing away from your babe and let me look her over. A finer specimen of a child I never saw. She is a little wonder!"

Harriet was looking at him intently, and I noticed that she did not say, as was natural, "When can we see her?" I was sure, also—or was it still my inflamed imagination—that some signal had passed between them.

It was Dicky who spoke first, and I hardly knew his voice, it was so strained.

"Did this prank hurt her, Edwin?" and again the impression came to me for an over-quick answer.

"These culprits," Dicky went on, speaking slowly, "have begged not to be sent away until they can see for themselves that Faith isn't hurt," he said.

"But, of course, that will be for you to say."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

There's a coiffure movement toward the left. With the hat down at the right, the left side of the head gets all the choice wave lines and curly cues. If a gal has a yen for lop-sided lids that hang on to the skin of the eyebrow—we mean just that since eyebrows haven't any hairs any more—she may keep that portion of her hair smooth as glass, while the other section is beautifully undulated.

Cold water robs the hands of natural oils, produces scaliness and roughness. Harsh soaps act the same way. The housekeeper who would keep her little mitts fit to display at the bridge table must be mindful of the manner in which she treats them. Hands must be protected from grime, furniture polish, extremely hot or cold water and from cold air. Once the texture becomes coarse and thick, it is almost impossible to get back the pristine loveliness of satin-smooth skin surface and delicate coloring.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

'Hives' Can Endanger the Life of the Sufferer

Most persons are familiar with an annoying skin ailment called "hives," but few are aware that this affliction may be so severe as to threaten the life of the sufferer. Fortunately most cases are of a simple nature. They run their course and eventually disappear.

Dr. Copeland

The cause of hives, medically known as "urticaria," was not known until recent years. It is believed to be due to a sensitivity of the sufferer to certain substances. As a rule these lie in certain foods, but they may also be found in clothes, home surroundings or have something to do with the occupation of the sufferer.

A story is told of a lady who suffered from hives for several years. The strange part of the story is that the hives appeared only on Sundays. One Sunday she refrained from going to church because of a severe cold and to her astonishment, the hives failed to appear. Of course, this was not due to her absence from church, but because on that day she did not wear the silk dress she usually wore on Sundays. She was sensitive to the protein in the silk and this was the cause of the hives.

The victim of hives becomes conscious of firm, whitish patches on his skin. Small red spots soon appear. These swell, becoming sometimes as large as a fifty-cent piece. There may be so many as actually to cover the whole body. The eruptions closely resemble mosquito bites and are often mistaken for them. They itch and burn and sting.

The discomfort can be relieved by the local use of a solution of hyposulphite of soda. Dissolve a tablespoon of the soda in half a glass of water and use as a lotion, mopping it on the inflamed area.

Relief can also be obtained by bathing in a tub to which large quantities of ordinary baking soda have been added. In severe and prolonged cases of urticaria it may be necessary to resort to a hypodermic injection of adrenalin. Of course, this can only be administered by the physician.

Bear in mind that the remedies I have suggested are temporary measures of relief. Permanent cure can only be hoped for when the underlying cause is discovered and removed. This can be determined by a thorough and careful study of the diet and health habits of the sufferer.

At this point may I suggest that a common and often overlooked cause of urticaria is constipation. Many sufferers from "hives" have had complete cure from this disturbing affliction when faulty elimination has been corrected. Avoid all fried and greasy foods, salts, peppers, spices and other condiments. Drink six to eight glasses of water daily. Get outdoors as much as possible, obtain a definite daily amount of exercise as well as rest and sleep.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Stuff That Slams Are Made Of

One thing that some players, even very good players, are prone to forget is that merely the possession of honor-tricks is not sufficient to guarantee a Slam. Usually some element of favorable distribution, such as a long and immediately establishable suit, is a prime requisite to the making of the Slam. Not every hand that contains two Aces and the King of a bid suit justifies the use of the Four No-trump Convention, as Bridge players who forget the fact that a contract to take 12 or 13 tricks is a pretty sizable order learn to their sorrow.

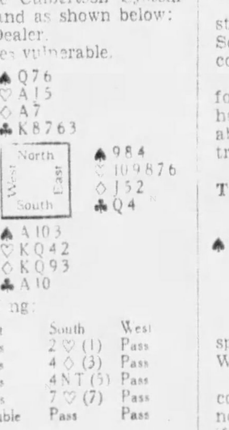
North, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	2 ♡ (1)	Pass
3 ♡ (2)	Pass	4 ◇ (3)	Pass
4 ♡ (4)	Pass	4 N T (5)	Pass
5 N T (6)	Pass	7 ♡ (7)	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—While South has 4 honor-tricks, the distribution is very bad. However, in view of the fact that the Forcing Takeout has for its first objective game, this bid, even with a somewhat shaded suit, cannot be strongly condemned.

2—While North's hand itself is a minimum, the honor strength in hearts justifies this bid.

3—South at this point should not bid four diamonds, even when assured that North has adequate support in hearts. A better bid would have been three notrump, after which North would probably have dropped the bidding.

4—At this point North cannot do otherwise. His bid here is not a show of further strength but merely a choice between hearts and diamonds as the final contract.

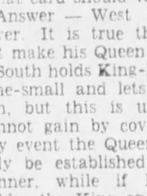
5—Again a bad bid. South should be content to let well enough alone.

6—North has no option at this point.

7—This bid is entirely too strong. As a matter of fact, South has overbid his holding consistently.

The contract was set 3 tricks for a penalty of 900 points. Four hearts can be made but probably the best contract is no-trump.

TODAY'S QUESTION



South is playing the hand at spades and leads the Knave. What card should West play?

Answer — West should not cover. It is true that he may not make his Queen in any case if South holds King-Knave-Ten-nine-small and lets the Knave run, but this is unlikely. He cannot gain by covering, as in any event the Queen can probably be established as a trick winner, while if his partner holds the King only one trick in the suit would be won should he cover.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Toasting the Newlyweds

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Is it permissible to have the groom's father as toastmaster at a wedding reception?

2—On which side of the father does the bride enter the church? N.

1—Yes, if the bride's family thinks that this is the best plan. The toastmaster may be the best man, or an uncle of the bride, or any one else who seems to have a gift for making gracious toasts.

2—Formerly it was the custom for the bride's father to walk on the right of the bride. But nowadays, principally because of convenience, almost always the bride's father walks on her left. The point is that, when they reach the head of the aisle, this is far more convenient, for then the father simply steps to the left where he waits for his part of the ceremony, the giving of his daughter in marriage. When he is on the bride's left he does not have to walk around her train. He steps to the left, as the groom steps to take his place at the right of the bride.

Notes on Notes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I went to my friend's home with him, in another state, over Labor Day week-end. I met his mother and father, and when I returned home I made a dresser scarf and sent it to his mother. About two weeks later I received a letter of thanks from her.

What I would like to know is, if I should answer her letter. She is rather old and has so many duties that I am wondering if she will not think that I am rather silly in keeping up a correspondence with her. H.

Although I am sure that this new friend would be most happy to have another letter from you, there really isn't any point in answering her note to you, especially if, as you think, the writing of letters would be adding an unnecessary task to her full days.

Fingers vs. Forks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper to eat fried chicken with the fingers? I do not think so, but a very dear friend of mine thinks it is proper. B.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME
If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.
This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises, clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

OTHER QUAKER PITCHERS MIGHT TEMPT BUCS

It seems that the only thing wrong with that baseball trade reported from the scene of the big league meetings in Chicago, whereby the Phillies were to have wished Flint Rhem on the Pirates in exchange for Steve Swetonic and Hal Finney or Tommy Padden, was that the trivial formality of consulting the Pittsburgh club about it had been overlooked. Local fans were not at all surprised when President Bill Benswanger, following his arrival in the Windy City last night, promptly squashed the rumor with the statement that such a proposal never had been offered nor considered.

Hal Finney

Rhem is not the type of pitcher that could be expected to help the Bucs. He had some ability when he could be induced to keep in condition, but his record for last season doesn't promise much for 1934. The Philly right-hander completed only three games all year, won only five while losing 14, and his earned-run average of 6.57 per nine innings was the poorest in the entire National League, with but two exceptions. Those were Frank Ragland's 8.87 and Freddie Heimach's 9.90. Waivers were asked on Rhem some time ago, but if there were any claimants Pittsburgh was not among them. No doubt there are one or two pitchers on the Quaker roster for whom the Pirate management would gladly make a deal, and will if the opportunity offers, but it's a pretty safe guess that Rhem is not on that list. Having too many others of Flint's mound caliber was the big drawback last season.

Another angle that made the rumor sound fishy was the fact that the names of the Pittsburgh players mentioned as going in the imaginary deal included that of Hal Finney. That young backstop is not on the market and is one of the main catching hopes for next year. The receiving corps of five probably will be pruned to three before another race begins, but unless a chance to get a real topliner develops in the meantime, which is very unlikely, Finney is certain to be one of the surviving trio.

MINNESOTA FOOLS ALL-AMERICA CENTER

To the post-season discussion of interesting sidelights of various games in the 1933 football campaign, Bernie Bierman, coach at Minnesota, contributes a yarn about Chuck Bernard, Michigan's all-America center. The Gophers ribbed up a play especially for Bernard. It might have failed against most centers, but Bernard is so smart that it worked to perfection on him. Minnesota called the signal for an end run to the strong side. The backs started and the linemen pulled out, but the center did not pass the ball. Without returning to the huddle, Bierman's players lined up for another start and this time pulled a reverse.

As they had expected, Bernard shifted over to the strong side just before the ball was passed, and Minnesota made some yardage on the opposite side for the first time in the game. When the Gophers did not return to the huddle, Bernard naturally thought they would pull the same play they had started to run before. He had no way of knowing they were deliberately drawing him into a trap.

TRAVEL SYSTEMS OF COAST TEAMS DIFFER

It wasn't due to any lack of smart handling by their coach that the Pitt Panthers failed to make a better showing in their three trips to the Rose Bowl. Lou Little, Columbia mentor, admitted this by seeking Jock Sutherland's counsel on the best way to handle the Lion squad's itinerary and training program in going from the cold weather of the East to the warmer climate of Southern California. Little repeats that he will follow out what Jock told him in giving an outline of his ideas for the trip on which the New Yorkers will start December 19 or 20.

Jock Sutherland

Two teams that won in Pasadena —Harvard and Notre Dame — used different systems. Harvard left Boston with the thermometer registering 5 below zero, and arrived in Southern California on a day when the mercury was at 89 in the shade. The Crimson, however, mapped the trip so that the squad had a full week to become accustomed to the marked change. The late Knute Rockne believed that the condition of his Notre Dame players was less affected when the Southern route was followed and a more gradual adjustment to the climatic change made possible. Pitt followed this system a year ago, with a stop at Tucson.

IDEAS ON DIET ALSO SHOW CONTRAST

In the matter of diet also there was a striking contrast between the Harvard and Notre Dame ideas. The Crimson squad had covered less than half the distance when a checking of the dining car slips revealed that some of the players were eating four or five meals a day. When this was brought to the attention of the late Pooch Donovan, shrewd old Harvard trainer, he gave the heavy eating his O. K. and the gridders kept it up.

Rockne, on the other hand, prescribed a light and most restricted diet for the Irish on their trip to the coast. It was not until the squad arrived at Tucson that meat was allowed on the menu. As both Harvard and Notre Dame were victorious in the Bowl, no advantage can be claimed for either system. It seems that both were right.

BOXING PROSPERS IN EUROPEAN RINGS

In Europe boxing appears to have escaped the slump from which it is now suffering in many parts of this country. From all American managers returning home during the last few months, Wilbur Wood has received reports that the fight game is looking up on the other side of the Atlantic. Eddie Walker, who came home recently with Midget Wolgast, flyweight champion, says that in London alone 15 clubs are putting on weekly shows and there is at least one fistic program every day in the week, not excepting Sunday. Wolgast pulled down $5,000 for two fights in which he defeated Jackie Brown at Albert Hall in London and drew with Valentin Anglemann in Paris. Soon after the turn of the year Wolgast will box Young Casanova in Mexico City and then return to London for a second bout with Brown in which his title will be at stake.

Midget Wolgast

Walker reports that there are many good fighters in Europe, particularly in the flyweight and middleweight divisions. The middleweights to impress him were weight prospect.

Gustav Roth, of Belgium; Kid Tunero, a Cuban; Ernest Seelig, of Germany, and Jack McAvoy, of England, Ben Foord, a South African operating in England, is rated a good heavy-

Canada, which gave Pittsburgh ice hockey some 30 years ago, will give local fans their first taste of hockey's sports twin—box lacrosse —at Motor Square Garden at 8:30 tonight, when the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets meet the Milwaukee Bruins in a professional league game.

While new to local fans, the old Indian game is not at all new to Pittsburgh's players, who, playing as Les Canadiens, of Montreal, won the world championship in the last two campaigns. The Milwaukee representatives last year were known as the New York Giants.

The only big difference between lacrosse and hockey is that in the former game the boys do not wear skates. A goalie guards a net very similar to a hockey cage; two defense men hand out the body checks much as they do in the ice sport; a center faces off a ball to open hostilities and two forwards assist the center in doing most of the attacking.

HOW IT'S PLAYED

The ball used is of solid rubber and weighs only one ounce less than a baseball, and the contestants cast it about with net-equipped sticks with surprising dexterity and reckless abandon.

Substitutes are used, even as in hockey, to keep the play at a high speed throughout the four 15-minute periods which constitute a game, and a penalty box, too, is provided for the accommodation of those receiving minor (two minutes) or major (five or more minutes) penalties.

The playing surface is of hard wood and measures 160 feet in length and 55 feet in width. It is screened off in order that the cracking of heads and the bruising of bodies may be limited to the contestants. The Garden has been renovated, and seating accommodations for 4,250 fans provided.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. — Fred Lindstrom, Pirate star who is a native of Chicago, was one of the first of the athletes to bob up at the baseball meeting. Lindy was spic and span as a result of regular action at handball.

Lindstrom laughed at the experience of Caleb (Socko) McCarey, Pirate clubhouse boy, who drove to the meetings. Socko was driving down one of the Loop's busiest thoroughfares with some Pittsburgh newspapermen when he sighted a car which he insisted belonged to Lindstrom.

Socko said he remembered Lindy's license number. After parking his own car, Socko stood in the cold wind awaiting the arrival of Lindstrom. He figured that inasmuch as Fred's car was parked in a "no-parking" zone the Pirate would be along in a minute.

It developed that Lindy was playing handball with a police sergeant in charge of the tags. Socko had to be thawed out when his hero arrived.

Joe Cronin, manager of the Washington Senators, was all smiles as he greeted his many friends. Joe also is in the trading mart; in fact, Cronin is sweet on a flock of Buccaneers, but he realizes it would be impossible to get these athletes out of the National League. Incidentally, Joe thinks Carl Hubbell is one of the greatest pitchers he has seen in baseball.

Rogers Hornsby seemed a bit lonely as he greeted his National League acquaintances. In a talk with this writer he offered a tip to be passed along to Benswanger and Gibson. Said the Rajah:

"You fellows need only one more high grade pitcher to stay up there. Why don't you grab off Pat Malone before somebody else gets him? The Cubs are willing to talk business regarding Malone and he would win regularly for the Pirates because he has the stuff. I wish I could get him for the Browns."

Altoona Pat is in the bad graces of the Chicago directors. The strong boy has just about as much power as anybody in the game, but he seems to have incurred the ill feelings of the Wrigley interests.

DICKEY UNDER KNIFE

CELTIC ELEVEN NEXT HURDLE FOR MORGAN

By TOM BIRKS

When the Celtics, of Rochester, N. Y., appear at Greenlee Field next Sunday afternoon to meet the Morgan team in the national challenge soccer cup competition, it will mark the first time in 15 years that a team from the city on the shores of Lake Ontario has appeared here in national soccer.

In 1918, McKeesport, one of the finest elevens ever banded together in the country, drew the Rochester Celtics in national cup play. The game drew a great crowd to Olympia Park, McKeesport.

The Tubers won the game and then met the Bethlehem Steel outfit in the next round. The Steelers were national champions and the ever-famous Fleming had a field day. Naturally Bethlehem won the game.

Not a single player in the Tubers' lineup that opposed Rochester is playing today, but George Lumsden and George Brannigan, two of the halfbacks who were in the game, are refereeing in the district. The halfback line was composed of Lumsden, King and Brannigan, probably the greatest middle line that ever took the field in this district. Dixon was in at goal, with Sandy Blackwood and Bobby Whiteford the fullbacks.

Pat O'Conner, local referee, handled the Celtics last year and states that the team follows the Scotch type of play, employing fast, short passes, good football for a large field like the Bedford avenue inclosure. The Scotch type, however, rarely has been successful against the robust American kind.

Rangers to Oppose Paramount Sunday

The first battle for the lightweight conference football championship of the Greater Pittsburgh district will take place Sunday afternoon when the Rox Rangers meet the Paramount Club at Ranger Field, McKees Rocks.

Toby Uansa, coach of the Rox Rangers, announced today that he had booked the Akron Pros for a game at Ranger Field on December 24.

Wonder why the local papers don't print something about Elmer Layden?

The new coach of the Dukes for next season hasn't been picked yet, but some folks say it's in the Bach for Joe.

Where will the major leagues hold their joint meetings now that all of the joints are supposed to be out of style along with prohibition, if we ever had it?

We all know now where Elmer is, but where was Sammy Pratt when Ganzy Benedict threw that forward pass to win the Dukes' game with the All-Stars in St. Louis? Time was when a Benedict pass wasn't legal unless Pratt caught it.

The 10 toughest years of Elmer Layden's life were from last Friday until Saturday, when everybody seemed to know he had been named football coach at Notre Dame, but he had to look dumb and say nothing pending official word from South Bend.

For the guidance of the folks who are competing in our All-America Football Team contest, Mose Kelsch is not eligible, having been only a freshman this year.

YAROSZ BEATS D'ALESSANDRO

HOLYOKE, Mass., Dec. 12. —(AP.)—Ted Yarosz, clever middleweight from Pittsburgh, won the decision over Tony D'Alessandro, of Holyoke, in the 10-round feature at the Arena last night.

From the moment his left eye was cut slightly in the fourth round Yarosz put on pressure and reached D'Alessandro at will. There were no knockdowns. Yarosz weighed 157½ and D'Alessandro 156.

Last Rites Held For Bill Roper

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—(INS.)—William W. (Bill) Roper, who attained national prominence as football coach at Princeton, was buried today while thousands from the widely divergent worlds of sports, business and politics mourned.

Interment was private in the cemetery of the Church of St. James, at falls of Schuylkill, near Philadelphia. Roper, who was 53, died of septic poisoning Sunday after an illness of two months.

Members of city council, where Roper had served 14 years, attended in a body.

Among those who paid tribute to Roper was Gov. Gifford Pinchot. He said:

"Roper had the admiration, esteem and friendship of everyone with whom he came in contact."

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—James Caras, sharpshooting Wilmington (Del.) youngster, last night conquered Charles Seaback, of Astoria, N. Y., 125 to 86, in 15 innings, to remain undefeated in the world pocket billiards championship tournament. The victory was Caras' third in a row, and enabled him to retain second place behind Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, who has won four straight.

In the day's other matches, Ralph Greenleaf, New York, defending titleholder, scored his second victory, defeating Pasquale Natalie, Chicago, 125 to 86, in 10 innings, and Erwin Rudolph, Cleveland, won from Benny Allen, of Kansas City, 125 to 54, in 11 innings.

PIRATE LEADER ARRIVES IN CHICAGO

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—George Gibson, manager of the Pirates, arrived at the scene of the major league baseball meeting today and immediately announced he was in the market for a deal that would bring a first-class second baseman to the Pittsburgh club.

Gibson said he was ready to dicker with any pilot who would be willing to swap a keystone tender. The Pittsburgh boss intimated he would not attempt to play Tommy Thevenow at second through the entire season. Gibson expected to talk tarde this afternoon while the National League magnates hold their annual session.

KLEIN REJECTS TERMS

Chuck Klein, the man who is supposed to wallop the Chicago Cubs into a National League pennant, fought his first battle with his new owners today, it was reported.

Klein, purchased by the Cubs from Philadelphia, and Cub officials held a long conference today about Chuck signing a contract, but when it was all over no contract had been signed. Klein, it was said, demanded $25,000 annually and didn't get it.

Both Klein and Cub officials, including William Walker, vice president, denied a contract was discussed, but admitted they would confer again tomorrow.

It was generally understood that Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, veteran catcher of the club, had been sold to the Detroit Tigers for cash and that Cochrane would become manager of the club. Catcher Johnny Pasak was said to be involved in the transaction for Cochrane. The deal has been admitted by Cochrane, who has held several conferences with Owner Frank Nevin, of the Tigers.

DEALS BELIEVED CLOSED

The majority of the baseball leaders at the meeting were certain that most of the deals have been closed by Mack in an effort to raise some cash.

One report said that Pitcher Bob Grove and Rube Walberg and Max Bishop, infielder, would go to the Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Bob Kline, Rabbit Warstler and a

CARLSON MAY SHIFT PANTHER FLOOR LINEUP

DUKES SILENT ON NAMING OF COACH

By JESS CARVER

Though they've played only one game so far, the inaugural with Georgetown last Saturday night, indications point to a lineup shift for Pitt's basketball Panthers.

The Pitts are due to take to the road for their first western trip Thursday night, moving from here to Lafayette for a clash with Purdue, from there to Chicago to take on Northwestern and then to Indianapolis, where they'll meet Butler U. Coach H. C. Carlson hasn't made up his mind as yet, and has made no definite move in the direction, but he's figuring on keeping young Slim Wainio in the starting lineup and either benching Don McCamant or moving him back to a guard position. In the event McCamant stays in the lineup, Chuck Hughes may spend some time roosting on the bench.

WAINIO PROMISING

Wainio played some good basketball a year ago, and during the time he was in action against Georgetown Saturday night evidenced no little class and real promise. He's a fine shot, possibly the most accurate from a distance, on the entire squad. He's fast and clever and can take it, even though he's a fragile appearing youngster.

Skippy Hughes, paired at forward with McCamant, is another who must look well to his laurels, for Whitey Wilson is proving himself a tough lad to keep on the bench. Wilson and Hughes both are fine ball hawks, a very necessary cog in the Pitt machine.

While the Panthers are concerning themselves with basketball, they still are very much interested in football at Duquesne, especially now that a new coach is to be named and the team made ready for the game New Year's Day in Florida.

BACH IN FRONT

There appears to be little doubt but that Joe Bach will be selected to succeed Elmer Layden, but you can't tell the lads who would like to get the position for themselves that. To date, three score and 15 applications have been received, including that of Greasy Neale, who is slated to be ousted at West Virginia before very long, and Frank McDermott, who was coach on the Bluff before Layden.

Bach was in charge of yesterday's drill and aside from remarking that he always had hoped and dreamed of being the chief of a major league football team, had nothing to say about the post.

The Duquesne authorities denied that they'd already signed Bach, pointing out that they can't sign one coach while they still have another on their hands, for Layden has not as yet submitted his resignation. He's due back from Cincinnati, where he stopped to make a speech last night, today and may hand in his slip before evening.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE "WICKED" PUBLISHER—Among the numerous editions of the Bible there are a few that are famous for a single misprint, after which the edition is named. One such edition has been named the "Wicked" because the printer omitted the word "not" in the Seventh Commandment. The printer of the Bible and the head of the Moore Publishing Company in London, who were held responsible for the error, were incarcerated for two years, although they proved that it was, of course, entirely unintended.

TIGERS NAME BELLAIRE STAR GRID CAPTAIN

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Elwood McGlenn Kalbaugh, of Bellaire, O., center on Princeton's undefeated and untied football team, last night was elected captain of the 1934 eleven. His election was announced at the annual Nassau football dinner.

Kalbaugh was rated second-string center before the 1933 season began, but was moved up to the varsity when Dan Hinman was injured. The new Tiger leader is 22 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 174 pounds.

He prepared for college at Kiski, where he played football and basketball and was a member of the track squad. He was substitute center for the 1932 Princeton varsity football team and in his freshman year occupied a similar position on the freshman eleven.

MANOS, KOUBEK SCORE WINS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Competition in the inaugural round of the Keystone Athletic Club invitation singles handball tourney continues this afternoon with six contests on the card. Outstanding session of the bill sends Al Bialas, veteran P. A. A. ace, against young Parker Smith, home club luminary and former A. M. A. junior champion, at 4:15 p. m. Other battles dot the bill from noon till 4:30 o'clock.

Only two tussles were accounted for as the tournament opened yesterday. In the first of these, City Titlehodler Theos Manos, of the Keystone, out-walloped Dr. Alpern, clever Y. M. H. A. entrant, 21-17, 21-8, in a tilt that was close till the premier's continual pounding extracted the starch from the resistance of the Bellefield star. In the second Monday engagement, Frank Koubek, K. A. C. youth, eliminated Eddie Roche, former Winged Head and Columbia University harrier, 21-12, 21-8. Roche, not quite recovered from a serious elbow infection, was unable to withstand the impressive assault of the downtowner. Quarter-final matches are scheduled for tomorrow.

12:15 p. m.—Dave Olbum, Y. M. H. A., vs. M. Hrycko, Downtown Y. M. C. A.
1 p. m.—Robert Clark, K. A. C., vs. Steve Myers, Downtown Y. M. C. A.
4:15 p. m.—J. Parker Smith, K. A. C., vs. A. A. Bialas, P. A. A.; M. P. Hinnebusch, K. A. C., vs. Lou Alman, Y. M. H. A.

Snow Forces Lions To Drill Indoors

The drill, lasting for two hours, was held in the 105th Field Artillery Armory. The entire squad was in uniform and concentrated most of its attention on a defense for Stanford plays as put on by a scrub lineup.

Waynesburg Bows To Willig Quintet

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 12.—The McKeesport Willigs handed the Waynesburg College quintet a surprise defeat last night, taking a 43-30 decision.

The invaders led, 26-16 at halftime and maintained the pace in the last period. Tim Lawry, former Pitt star, and Fred Brand, from Penn State, starred. The lineup.

The PITTSBURGH PIRATES, of the National Professional League, snowed out in Columbus last Sunday when they were scheduled to close their season with the Portsmouth Spartans, have decided to disband until the 1934 campaign. Art Rooney, president of the club, has announced that he has received no reply from Heartley (Hunk) Anderson, who was offered a job as head coach of the Pirates.

JACKIE BROWN, of Manchester, England, recognized as the world flyweight champion, retained his title last night when he defeated Ginger Foran, of Liverpool, in 15 rounds.

JACK WESTROPE, leading jockey of the year, increased his string of victories to 287 for 1933 when he won three firsts at HOUSTON yesterday.

The 107TH FIELD ARTILLERY polo team will meet 103RD CAVALRY, of Philadelphia, in an inter-city match in the Hunt Armory Saturday night.

Reports from Chicago have HAROLD (RED) GRANGE, former Illinois star, making a comeback in football next season as a college coach.

Although indicating he might have been approached informally, HARRY KIPKE, Michigan football coach, today said he had not officially been offered a simlar post at Yale.

PIET VAN KEMPEN and JULES AUDY were leading by one lap today as Cleveland's second international six-day bicycle race went into its final stages.

REGIS MONAHAN, of Lorain, O., a guard, last night was elected to captain the Ohio State football team in 1934.

California Fans See Easy Win For Stanford

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—They are making great preparations to receive Columbia out there in California. Mark Kelly wires that they have arranged to have a combined Navy band of 1,200 pieces play the Lions on. And, after all we have heard about their football spectacles, some of us will be disappointed if the sun doesn't come down between the halves and spell out Morningside.

But they don't, just between us boys and girls, give our side a look-in to win the football game. Which is not surprising from their viewpoint. We wouldn't like 'em if they didn't stand up for their own team. What surprises me is that so many folks here in the East want to toss in the sponge even before the bell rings.

How can they know that it will be such a pushover for Stanford? Where, after all, is the graveyards of the Stanfords? It's not in the Middle West, where the worst team Dick Hanley has had at Northwestern in years held them to a scoreless tie, and then couldn't carry any other major rival's waterbucket all year long.

It may be out there on the coast, but, judging from comparative scores and what I have read, I question that the Indians exactly tower over Slip Madigan's St. Mary's outfit. And though the Gaels were hot against Fordham here this fall, I sincerely believe Columbia would have given the team I saw that afternoon a busy hour. Not beat it, maybe. But do as Fordham did—make it play all the football it knew to win.

HORSEMEN REBEL

SAN BRUNO, Cal., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Threats of withdrawal of horses by a group of owners at the Tanforan race track as a protest against the "receiving barn" at the track were reported here today. Henry Putter Russell, of the Tanforan Company, Ltd., said the "receiving barn" was established in conformity with the requests of the State Commission to guard against possible drugging of horses before they enter a race.

BECKER TO BOX ANSON GREEN

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Billy Petrolle vs. Stanislaus Loayza, 10 rounds, New York.
Clyde Chastain vs. LeRoy Brown, 10 rounds, West Palm Beach, Fla.
Joe Ruz vs. Bruno Ladurina, 10 rounds, and Chico Ortega vs. Red Rose, 8 rounds, San Antonio, Tex.
Tiger Baby Flowers vs. Baby Manuel, 10 rounds, San Jose, Cal.

Al Becker, Sheraden middleweight, has been signed to oppose Anson Green, Homestead Negro, in the six-round semi-final of the Jimmy Smith-Young Terry show in the Arena on the North Side, Friday night and as soon as the club closes for an opponent for Marty Gornick, Whitaker welterweight, in the other six-rounder the bill will be complete.

Three four-round bouts will serve as appetizers. The main bout is a 10-rounder between two of the leading young middleweights in the game. Both will arrive here tomorrow to complete their training. If the weather is favorable, Smith probably will come by airplane with his manager.

Between Rounds

Mose Butch has offers of bouts in both Wheeling and Canton, O., for New Year's Day. Canton wants him to box Ross Grier and Wheeling is seeking a leading featherweight opponent.

Tootsie Basharn, who won over Lew Massey in Philadelphia last week, boxes Pete Nebo there Friday night.

The Keystone A. C. has been awarded the Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., senior and junior boxing championships and probably will stage the former the first week in February and the latter the last week in March.

Vince Yarosz, Eberle Win Amateur Bouts

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Dec. 12.—Vince Yarosz, of Monaca, brother of Teddy Yarosz, crack middleweight boxer, and Ray Eberle, of South Heights scored knockout victories in the five-bout amateur show staged at Croatian Hall last night.

Yarosz won by a technical knockout over Carmen DiTato in the third round, and Eberle knocked out Ray Icenour in the first round. In the other bouts, Ted Lindsey defeated Pete Boy; Johnny Nazzan defeated Johnny Leonard, and Jackie Walls knocked out Femil Capig in the third round.

Sothoron to Pilot Milwaukee Club

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Louis B. von Weise, executive of the Phil Ball Estate, today announced that Chauncey Yockey would become president, and Allan Sothoron, manager of the Milwaukee team of the American Association for 1934. They will replace President Louis Nahin and Manager Frank O'Rourke.

contests to be staged here, will be the first of the season for both the Milwaukee and Pittsburgh teams. Mayor John S. Herron is scheduled to throw out the first ball, and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company band is to entertain between periods.

FASTEST PLAYER HERE

In Harry La France, center, the Yellow Jackets will present the fastest player known to the sport, and one of the best dash men in the Dominion. He will be flanked on the starting front line by Leo Boulaine, known as the "Howie Morenz of lacrosse," and Albert Vincent, one of the league's most expert passers, a man who uses his head for purposes other than stopping the descent of a stick.

Percy and Norm Langevin, brothers, are to start at defense. Percy, believe it or not, is 196 pounds of human dynamite, and Brother Norm weighs only four pounds less. They both know how to mete out punishment, and both can "take it."

Bruce Cordick, goalie, is one of four newcomers to Pittsburgh's inherited world champions, but Coach Suds Southerland has given him the stamp of approval, and Sutherland's opinion of a goalie carries some weight. For many years Suds was regarded as the best goalie in lacrosse, and he established a record by deflecting shots for no less than five championship teams. He succeeds Newsy LaLonde as coach of the locals.

NO TIE GAMES

Kelly DeGray, Milwaukee coach, played with Les Canadiens last season. Chuck Davidson, forward, is the Bruins' ace. He is tricky, fast, and one of the circuit's most prolific scorers.

As in hockey, two points are awarded for a victory, but there are no tie games, "sudden death" periods of 10 minutes being played until a decision is reached.

The National Hockey League's plan of having two circuits play an interlocking schedule has been adopted. The winner in the American League, made up of Chicago, Indianapolis and Milwaukee, will meet the winner of the National League, made up of Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Toronto, in a five-game playoff series at the close of the season on April 15.

Fight Results

At Holyoke—Teddy Yarosz defeated Tony D'Alessandro, 10 rounds.
At Chicago—Johnny Long defeated Jack King, 6 rounds. Tommy Corbett and George Engle drew, 6 rounds. Adolph Walter defeated Frank Ketter, 4 rounds. Lee Darcy defeated Art Donovan, 4 rounds.
At Sioux Falls—Sammy Mandell and Johnny Stanton drew, 8 rounds.
At Beaumont—Tommy DiGiovanni defeated Jack Griffin, 10 rounds.

RING SECOND SUSPENDED

WINDBER GIVEN GRID DEFI

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Unbeaten in 26 straight football games, New Castle High School wants to play Windber High for the state championship.

New Castle, winner of the W. P. I. A. L. Class AA title this year, sent a challenge yesterday to Windber, which last Saturday defeated John Harris, of Harrisburg, for the Central Pennsylvania Conference crown.

Ralph Gardner, faculty manager, said he received word New Castle will not be invited to Miami Fla., for a Christmas game.

PRO FOOTBALL RULES WORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Professional football adopted two rule changes this year it hoped would give the public what it wanted—more scoring and fewer tie games. The final league statistics show that both aims were accomplished.

The two changes were to allow forward passing from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage, instead of from five yards back, and to move the goal posts back to the goal line. The four chief results were these:

A greater percentage of passes completed, 614 of 1,630, or more than 37 per cent.

Tie games decreased from 20 per cent of those played in 1932 to only 5 or less than 5 per cent of the league contests in 1933.

Five Local Stars To Play for North

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Five Pittsburgh players will be included in the North squad for the annual charity football game with the South team on December 24.

The five local stars are Sebastian and Hogan, of Pitt; Niccolai, of Duquesne, and Burzio and Stewart, of Carnegie Tech.

VETERANS BACK AT ACADEMY

By JULIUS LEVIN

With four veterans and three capable substitutes back from last season, followers of the Shady Side Academy basketball team are anticipating one of the most successful campaigns in its history this winter.

Coach Russell Davis has at his disposal Capt. W. R. Clarkson, forward; William Duff, guard; James Lyle, forward, and Tom Wentling, forward, all first-string performers last season, and Charles Wright, center; James Arensberg, forward, and Robert Bragdon, guard, capable reserve players.

Three of Shady Side's sterling performers of last season have entered higher schools of learning. Richard Bell, captain of the 1932 quintet, has gone to Princeton; Tom Heyward is a student at Cornell, and Tom Lynch is enrolled at Virginia.

School Notes

Eddie Gutowski, former all-round athlete at Ambridge High School, has returned to Davis & Elkins College at Elkins, W. Va., after spending the week-end at home. Gutowski played center on Cam Henderson's crack eleven during the past season.

Howard Harpster, head coach at Carnegie Tech, will be the principal speaker at the annual football banquet of the Charleroi High School eleven in Charleroi Thursday.

The Derry Township High School football banquet, under the auspices of the boosters' association, will be held tomorrow evening in the dining room of the Reformed Church.

A capacity crowd of high school teachers and players are expected to attend the basketball clinic at Mt. Lebanon High School tomorrow evening. Coaches Carlson, of Pitt; Davies, of Duquesne, and Hannum, of Carnegie Tech, will be among the speakers.

Ambridge will pay tribute to its undefeated football team at the annual banquet to be held next Monday night in the Junior High School. Coach Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, will be the principal speaker.

California Drops Old Grid Rival

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Dropping of Washington State from California's football schedule after 14 years' of competition; tentative five-year agreement between Washington State and St. Mary's College for games to be played in San Francisco and a discussion of scholarships issued by Southern California were highlights of the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Conference yesterday.

PIRATES SEEK INFIELDER

wad of cash, and that Pitcher George Earnshaw would be sent to the Chicago White Sox for either Catcher Charley Berry, Second Baseman Minton Hayes or Pitcher Paul Gregory and cash.

So far a hundred rumors of trades and changes have been heard but only one effected, the naming of a new president and manager of the Milwaukee club, of the American Association, a farm of the St. Louis Browns. Chauncey Yokey, Milwaukee attorney, was named president of the club to succeed Louis Nahin and Allan Sothorn, coach of the Browns, was appointed manager to replace Frank O'Rourke.

Reports that Connie Mack planned to take over the Harrisburg Club, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, were set at rest when Emil Fuchs, owner of the Boston Braves, announced that the Braves again would operate the team.

Donie Bush, who formerly managed the Pirates and who directed the Cincinnati Reds last season, was expected to give up his job to return as manager of the Minneapolis Millers.

GRIDDERS HONORED

Pennypacker New Penn Grid Leader

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—John Stehman Pennypacker was elected captain of the University of Pennsylvania's 1934 football team at the Football Club banquet last night.

The election of the varsity end was by acclamation. It was the first time a Penn football captain was elected without a vote.

STOCK TRADING DULL, TONE STEADY

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Stocks and staples turned a little dull today under sporadic profit taking, but there was a steady to firm tone displayed by most speculative categories.

The dollar was moderately higher in foreign exchange dealings as the domestic gold rate was again unchanged and currency stabilization talk was still heard in Wall street. Sterling dropped more than 2 cents after early small gains and the French franc eased around .03 of a cent. Grains and cotton moved narrowly, but silver was under some pressure. Bonds were a trifle irregular.

United States Steel preferred got up a point and the common, together with Bethlehem, advanced fractionally. Small gains were also recorded by Chrysler, American Telephone, Deere, Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, Louisville and Nashville, Consolidated Gas, Postal Telegraph preferred, International Telephone and Public Service of New Jersey. Armour preferred sagged about 3 points and United States Smelting, McIntyre, and United States Industrial Alcohol lost about a point each. Union Pacific, Santa Fe and New York Central eased.

Notwithstanding the apparent better feeling toward equities generally, brokerage houses reported that the public had been doing little more than nibbling in the past week or so. There has been some pickup in odd-lot buying, it was said, but the volume here was quite small and not of the character that accompanies the usual bull market. It was found that most of the smaller purchases were for cash, with margin speculation at a low ebb.

The interest of the professionals, at the moment, seemed to be about evenly divided between activities at Washington and indications of growing improvement in the business and industrial situation. The unchanging gold price, in some quarters, was being explained as a bullish factor. The argument here was that the administration, satisfied with the brightness of the trade picture, may have decided to let the dollar and gold ride along on their present values.

Various Wall street commentators who not so long ago were advising the purchase of stocks on the ground that currency inflation was a certainty, now are expressing opinion that the chance of issuing greenbacks to pay bills "is considered distinctly remote." The "sound money" advocates were also encouraged by unofficial reports from the capital that the administration was preparing to answer critics of its monetary policy by presenting a balanced budget.

Trade analysts, optimistic for continued economic improvement next year, pointed out that corporation activity may be enhanced by the fact that there will be comparatively few funded debt maturities in 1934. Industrial companies, it was found, have maturities of only about $38,000,000 in the coming year compared with more than $82,000,000 in 1933.

DOLLAR HOLDS FIRM TODAY

Associated Press.

The American dollar was firm in foreign exchange markets today as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation gold price, of $34.01 an ounce, set on December 1, was again unchanged.

The British pound moved up moderately at the opening in New York, but turned down later to $5.07½ where it was off 2½ cents. In London the dollar closed ¾ of a cent lower at $5.09½ to the pound.

The dollar at Paris ended at an equivalent of 6.12 cents to the franc. In New York the French currency sagged to 6.07½ cents where it was .03½ of a cent lower. At this rate of the franc the dollar was valued at approximately 64.52 per cent of its parity. Estimated in terms of the domestic gold price, the dollar was still at about 60.77 per cent of its former par value.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—Bar gold declined 7½ pence to 126s 4½d. (U. S. equivalent $32.13 on basis of sterling opening at $5.08½.)

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—(AP.)—The United States dollar sold at 2.69 marks (37.17 cents to the mark) on the foreign exchange market today as compared with yesterday's quotation of 2.65 marks (37.73 cents).

STEEL DECLINE HURTS OTHER INDUSTRY

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Although complete figures will not be available for another week or two, we can now tell pretty definitely what November statistics indicate concerning the general level of industrial activity.

First we note that the iron and steel industry showed a marked decline. This is such a basic industry it is reasonably sure such a large decline will greatly affect the final composite averages for the month.

The average daily output of pig iron in November slumped sharply. Even after allowing for the usual seasonal decline, the figure was the lowest since May. It was only 37 per cent of what has been regarded as normal.

Much the same thing happened in steel ingot production. In this case, we find the output only 36.5 per cent of the old normal production rate.

AUTOS' DECLINE

One reason for the November slump in steel is found in the large drop in automobile production, which was much greater than usual for the month. The automobile figure is a preliminary estimate, but it indicates November production at less than a third of the average monthly rate during the years 1921-27.

As one might expect from the trend in those key industries, we also find evidence of a letdown in factory employment. In New York state employment decreased three per cent in November, the decline being marked in clothing, textile, leather, rubber goods, food and tobacco industries.

Normally these is little change in November, so the fact is that factory employment in New York was at a rate 32 per cent lower than the average for 1925-27, and 28 per cent lower than in the bad year 1921.

The total payrolls of New York factories showed a loss of 4.1 per cent from October. They were 48 per cent lower than the 1925-1927 average.

The fact that payrolls fell more than in proportion to employes suggests that more part-time work existed.

NOVEMBER DECLINE

Of course, one might expect some reduction in retail trade when factory workers get less money. The Federal Reserve Board's official report on department store sales shows a decline in November. When allowance is made for number of days and seasonal conditions, the board's index falls from 70 in October to 65 in November. That is 35 per cent below the average for 1923-1925.

This is despite increases in sales in the Atlanta and Dallas districts, where the governement's distribution of money to cotton farmers has brought much spending.

Not only that, but apparently retail prices declined slightly. At least the National Industrial Conference Board's index of living costs was 0.8 per cent lower than in October. Food and rents were lower. Clothing and coal were a little higher.

RETAIL TRADE DOWN

Thus last month must be recorded as one of rather severe reaction in industry, and as marking a halt in the rise of prices. Factory employment declined, and so did retail trade, except for buying stimulated by the distribution of government funds.

But while business in November pointed down, and had lost beween one-half and two-thirds of the summer spurt, two encouraging aspects are to be noted: All the major indexes are a good deal above a year ago; signs now point to some recovery from the July-November slump, and Christmas will probably be more cheerful for most people this year than last.

The government is now spending so much for relief and stimulation that upturns are likely to appear in the statistics of the next month or two at the least.

SCHACHT SEEKS CONCESSION

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, declared at Basle that figures compiled since the transfer moratorium show that transfers for the next six months at the present rate would be impossible without recourse to gold and foreign exchange reserves of the Reichsbank. He further declared that Germany, owing to world economic developments, probably never can pay the original rates of interest to foreign creditors unless there is a complete change in world economic and political affairs.

The transfer commitment so greatly exceeds the present export income that it is contributing to the ruin of the entire national economy, he said. Continuance of such a situation must very soon bring about complete cessation of transfer of sums owed abroad. He deduces from this fact the necessity for foreign creditors to make concessions.

Cocoa Exchange Planning Holiday

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The New York Cocoa Exchange today joined the long list of commodity markets which have arranged for a suspension of business on December 23 and December 30, the Saturdays preceding Christmas and New Year's Day. Other important markets which will close on those days include the New York Cotton Exchange and the Coffe and Sugar Exchange.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, D. 12.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list).

OPERATOR 13

dressed in fresh clothing from her trunk, she discovered the loss of her own papers. This annoyed but did not alarm her, because all the papers were in cipher and the Confederate government had not, so far, deciphered any of the codes in use. Besides, her own code book was in her trunk.

After she had breakfasted in her own room she settled down behind her locked door to hold telegraphic converse with Col. Sharpe, in departmental cipher, as follows:

Operator 13 to Col. Sharpe:

"Papers taken from John Gailliard's valise yesterday sent to provost marshal in custody of S. S. Operators 70, 30 and Double Zero with orders to transmit contents to you in Dept. Cipher No. 3.

Urgent Order

"Contents of Gailliard's papers received in Dept. Cipher at these H. Q.

"Remember you are the only S. S. operator who knows this spy by sight. I want this man arrested or destroyed, or driven across the border. Do you believe you can find him and rid the country of him?"

Operator 13 to Colonel Sharpe:

"I am most anxious to try. May I?"

Colonel Sharpe to Operator 13:

"You are detailed for the purpose mentioned in my last telegram.

Colonel Sharpe to Operator 13 using Department Cipher No. 7:

"There is likely to be great battle here. If the result is disastrous to the Union the Confederate army may move on to Washington and Philadelphia, beginning a general invasion of the North.

"There is another danger threatening us—the new draft law provides for compulsory military service. This may be resisted.

"Hundreds of thousands of Confederate sympathizers are watching us. Thousands of Confederate spies throng our northern cities organizing riot, revolt and rebellion, and awaiting only the right moment to seize or burn cities, arsenals and forts.

"This is the reason that such Confederate secret service agents as Capt. Gailliard are in New York. You will always bear in mind that all rebel officers acting as spies—and particularly Capt. Gailliard—are fearless, desperate, dangerous men.

Quiet Lair

The first thing Operator 13 attended to, following her arrival in New York, was to find a domicile for herself.

Between Third and Fourth avenues, just before Thirteenth street becomes St. George's place, she found a very small furnished house. This she rented for a month, with privilege of monthly renewals. The widow of Policeman Dick Sullivan owned it, but boarded elsewhere, and was very willing to come by the day to do housework and cooking.

Then Operator 13 prepared to hunt up John Gailliard and chase him into Canada to save his graceless neck. And some day she promised herself that she would marry this wayward young man and lead him a lively life.

Also, what fascinated her in regard to her mission was its histrionic appeal. For it would require good acting, many character roles and many disguises.

The recent raid by Col. Sharpe's agents on the local Sons of Liberty had proved premature. Not many had been arrested, and only a few lodges of that rebel secret society had been broken up.

The wearisome war months succeeded one another, plodding on doggedly day by day toward the bloody total of another battle year; troops arrived in the city and troops departed with noisy clamor of drums and blaring bands. Blatant Broadway, bull-like, roared unceasingly by day and night. And if there were thousands of rebel spies and sympathizers in the city, and if they were mischievously busy, they seemed to be extremely quiet about it.

Danger Ahead

As for the draft, nobody believed that there ever really would be any forcible recruiting for the Union armies which, so far, had been filled entirely by volunteers. So nobody even thought about the matter excepting a few clever people like Col. George Sharpe. He thought about it—in a long telegram as follows:

"Circular telegram to all Secret Service Agents, June 7, 1863:

"There is little doubt that Gen. Lee's army is preparing to invade the North. Possibly the Confederate government is timing a northward movement to coincide with the draft.

"Nobody in New York City believes this. But in the Division of Military Intelligence we know what are the chances of such a revolution.

"New York City is a smoldering volcano. A northern invasion by Confederate armies might start hidden forces boiling over. Confederate victory, particularly while the draft is being enforced, may set New York aflame. Many rebel military officers have been sent North to encourage disloyalty, revolt and resistance to the conscription law, when it comes to be enforced next month.

"Enclosed is a list of some of these Confederate spies and agents now believed to be in New York City. Do what you can to discover, observe and at the right moment arrest them—particularly Captain Gailliard."

Spies to Hunt

There followed a list of spies suspecteid to be operating inside the Union lines; and a short list of the most dangerous Confederate agents supposed to be now in New York City.

"Capt. John Gailliard, C. S. S.

"Miss Clare Quilter (courier and spy. She counts departing troops. A young and pretty blonde).

"Capt. Charles H. Cote (of Forrest's cavalry).

"Capt. John Y. Beall (Confederate navy).

"Col. Robert M. Martin (Morgan's cavalry).

"Capt. John W. Headley (C. S. A.).

"Capt. T. H. Hines (Morgan's cavalry).

"Lieut. Harrington (C. S. A.).

"Lieut. Ashbrook (C. S. A.).

"Capt. Kennedy (C. S. A.).

"GEN." COXEY'S MARCH ON WASHINGTON

Courtesy of Yale University Press. (Pageant of America) Copyright.

Memorable events of Cleveland's second administration: Coxey's march of unemployed on Washington (Coxey arrested "for walking on the grass," the marchers dispersed); Pullman strike (rioting of railroad employes); Wilson-Gorman tariff-reduction bill passed, but crippled by the Senate; repeal of the Sherman Silver Act; the Morgan bond transaction (U. S. purchasing gold through Morgan bank to increase gold fund); Venezuelan-British boundary disputes settled by U. S., upholding Monroe doctrine; restoration of native queen in Hawaii. (U. S. History)

CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE

In the Victorian Age recognition of human rights made great, peaceful progress, but expansion and protection of trade involved Great Britain into wars. Russia threatened Turkey (1854) and with it endangered trade channels to the Orient. The Crimean war followed. Turkey had Great Britain, France and Sardinia as allies against Russia, who was defeated. One decisive battle was fought at Balaklava. (World History)

STEAMHEAT—PIPING SYSTEMS

In the one-pipe system steam ascends to radiators and water from condensation returns in the same pipe. This system is convenient for small plants; pipes have to be larger to accommodate steam and water. In the two-pipe system steam reaches the radiators in one pipe and water returns in another. Above: One-pipe system (left), and two-pipe system (right). (General Science)

MYRIAPODA

"Ten thousand-leggers," a class of the twelfth phylum (arthropoda), include millipedes, centipedes; former have two pairs, later one pair of appendages on each segment. Millipedes are not poisonous; they do some damage by eating plant roots. Centipedes have conspicuous antennae and poisonous jaws; they live under cover, in rubbish, earth; destroying insects, they serve man.

SAMSON AND DELILAH

After a Painting by J. Echena.

"Thrice she assayed with flattering prayers and sighs
"And amorous reproaches to win from me
"My capital secret, on what part my strength
"Lay stored . . . Yet the fourth time . . . I yielded . . ."

ROLLING—SHAPING INGOT

Ingots, columns cast from Bessemer—or open hearth—steel, are reheated uniformly to about 2,000° F. in the soaking pits—underground furnaces (left)—preparatory to rolling. Rolling, the most important process of mechanical shaping, is effected by rolls, between which the steel is drawn by friction. The ingot is reduced to blooms (6"x6" or greater) shown above, to billets (if smaller), to slabs (if oblong); rails, angles, channels, beams, etc., are obtained by rolling through different roll stands with gradually reducing passes. (Steel)

The 'Home Rule' Fallacy

The Army of Officeholders Will Work It to the Limit To Retain Oxcart Government.

The Allegheny County Association of Township Supervisors passed a resolution calling on the Legislature to reject bills that would weaken "home rule." Their speakers praised small town government and the "Main Street" mode of living, and denounced "state bureaucracy."

We are going to hear a great deal of this sort of piffle as the vast army of superfluous officeholders in Pennsylvania fight for the preservation of oxcart government and the thousands of political jobs that go with oxcart government.

The kind of "home rule" that the political parasites want is the kind that makes the taxpayers support an army of loafers for whom there is no need.

We have, for example, in Pennsylvania more than 5,600 tax-levying units and tax collectors. All of these collectors must be paid. Under the heading, "Taxpayers Chained to the Town Pump," the Western Pennsylvania Branch of the National Economy League, speaks of our system in its current bulletin as one of Pennsylvania's "governmental antiques." It reports that in at least 21 states, including Ohio, all local taxes are now collected by one officer in each county.

In his message to the Legislature last winter Gov. Pinchot said:

"There is no excuse for the huge cost of collecting local taxes in Pennsylvania. The local taxes of other states are free from it. In Ohio in 1928, the last year for which I have figures, Ohio collected local taxes to the amount of $322,000,000, Pennsylvania to the amount of $359,000,000. It cost Ohio taxpayers $1,187,000. It cost Pennsylvania taxpayers $5,112,000. There can be no reason why local taxpayers in Pennsylvania should pay four times as much for the same service as they do in Ohio. The fee system is largely responsible."

And that is just one of the many ways in which Pennsylvania taxpayers pay—and pay through the nose—for the so-called "home rule" that the Allegheny County Township Supervisors are so anxious that we shall retain.

Sidewalks Along Roads

Secretary Dewey Submits a Good Suggestion to the Civil Works Administrator.

Philip H. Dewey, Secretary of Internal Affairs, has made the excellent suggestion, in a letter to Eric H. Biddle, Federal Civil Works Administrator for Pennsylvania, that part of the federal relief money to be expended in public works in this state be used in the construction of paths or sidewalks alongside highways in thickly populated districts.

A dangerous situation exists in the fact that in many places in Allegheny County pedestrians have no alternative but to walk on paved roads over which automobiles are constantly passing. The County Road Department has erected signs cautioning people on foot to face vehicular traffic as they walk; but the better plan would be to get pedestrians off the road altogether by providing sidewalks for them.

The pedestrian who walks on the highways at night without a lantern or flashlight takes his life into his hands. It is also exceedingly dangerous to walk on the roads during a blinding snowstorm such as we had on Sunday evening.

People would not walk on the highways if sidewalks or cinder paths were available.

Pay Your Taxes!

The Rate Would Not Be So High If All Who Are Able Would Meet Their Civic Obligations.

One reason why taxes are high in Pittsburgh is because many persons are not paying them, and others have to assume the delinquents' share of the burden.

Up to December 1, the City Controller reports, only 76.72 per cent of Pittsburgh's city taxes for 1932 had been collected, and only 71.55 per cent of this year's taxes.

There is reason to believe that some persons are delinquent in their taxes who could pay them if they cared to.

The National Municipal League declares tax deficits are not inherent to these times and points to cities which, although involved in the common industrial depression, have maintained nearly normal collections. Providence, R. I., collected 98.9 per cent of its 1932 taxes and expects to collect more than 95 per cent of this year's levy. Cincinnati is collecting 97 per cent. San Francisco collected 97.6 per cent of last year's taxes, and Indianapolis 95.2 per cent.

The figures suggest that Pittsburgh's collections could be improved.

Sound Reflation

The veteran Edwin R. A. Seligman, senior Columbia University economist, in a recent address on the campus, vigorously supported Mr. Roosevelt's monetary policy.

With the discerning mind of a realist with practical contacts, Prof. Seligman declared that Mr. Roosevelt's present financial policy is "perhaps the strongest weapon in his hands to fight uncontrolled inflation."

He amplified this thought with the statement that "if critics of the present administration are able to bring about a reversal of the present monetary program, we might not be able to stem the tide of uncontrolled inflation."

As to the reactionary suggestion that the country return to the old gold dollar, Dr. Seligman observed:

"Nothing would be worse for this country and would bring more grave political danger than the restoration of the gold standard on the old basis."

Dealing with the bugaboo of huge federal capital and emergency expenditures, Prof. Seligman, an outstanding authority on fiscal science, said:

"As long as the (ordinary) budget is balanced and especially since repeal has provided additional revenue, there is no more reason to fear the expenditure of billions to bring about the recovery than there was to fear the expenditure of billions to carry on the war."

Distinguishing between inflation and reflation, the economist indicated that inflation would not become a practical issue until the price level of eight or 10 years ago has been restored.

It was high time that a universally respected expert, with no ax to grind, clarified the issue.

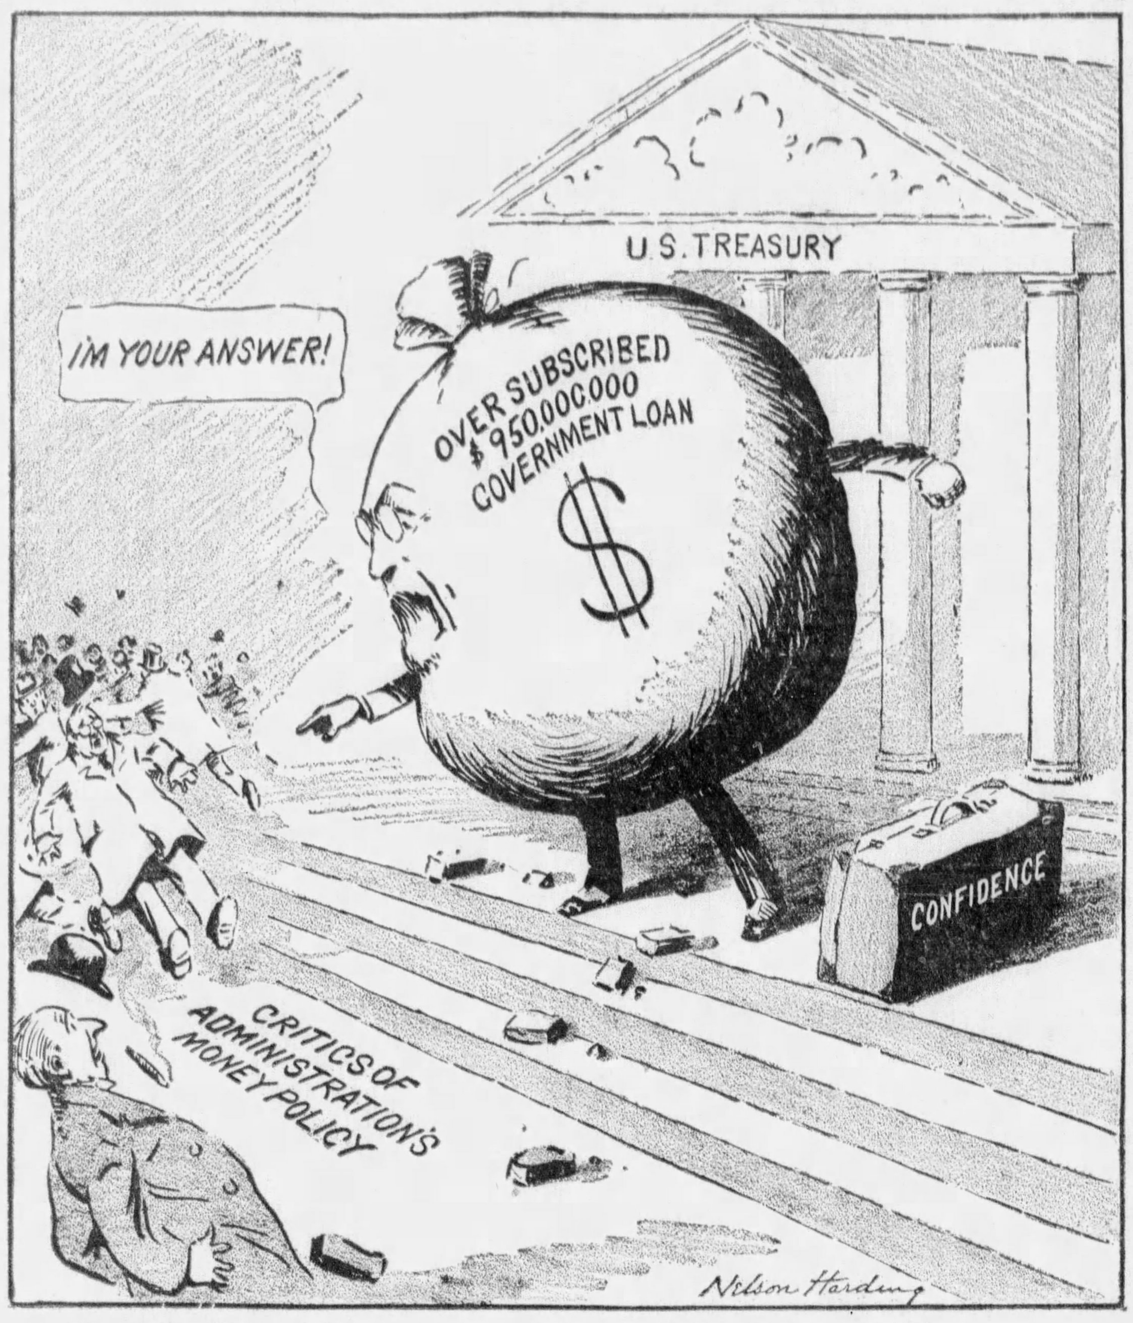
Money Talks Back!

By Nelson Harding



Money talks. Well here is money
Talking back in no uncertain
Tones, but speaking clearly, loudly,
So that all the world can hear it

Talking turkey to the critics,
Silencing the carping voices,
In its very presence giving
An unanswerable answer.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Harry Evans is one of Manhattan's most persistent party goers. A buoyant, chubbyish and dancey young bachelor, he is everywhere, usually squiring something new in lovely numbers. At dinners he's superb with one of those speeches, which, like orchestral music, is hearty rather than significant.

Evans is of an aristocratic Florida family. He starred as a collegiate ball player and began his metropolitan career as a movie critic on "Life." He also sponsors a successful magazine throw-away which circulates widely among patrons of chain groceries from coast to coast.

He is equally at home on the verandas of Southampton and theatrical gatherings that foliate in the penthouses. Sans mustache, he is a double for Ernest Truex and, as a neat teller of Southern dialect stories, ranks with Irvin Cobb and the late Bozeman Bulger.

His travesty of predicting a crisis, summoning a committee of technical experts, stimulating and cheering them on like a football coach is a masterful drawing-room hilarity. Perhaps the best since Gilbert White's burlesque of a ringmaster's antics with a tornado-struck circus.

* * *

Many mellow mansions once housing the illustrious have recently undergone the metamorphosis of the brownstones into the inevitably shabby rooming house. No matter the devitalising, the charm of double-bayed windows, lacquered woodwork and blocked parquet flooring clings. On West 54th the old residence of Chauncey Depew flaunts, "Rooms For Rent." Also the former residence of J. P. Morgan on West 55th.

* * *

One of the most indifferent of New York's sidewalk guilds is the chestnut vendor. His season is from the first frost until robins tug at worms in the park. He has no go-gettism. If you wish to buy, his wares in the glowing charcoal braziers are before you. Never does he solicit. He merely stands, statue-like, sucking at sadness like a lollipop, in cast-off coat, cap and mittens, and waits.

* * *

Among the costermongers recently—the depression has brought back the penny hucksters from German bands to sidewalk card writers—was a live fish-swallower. He performs a trick I've never seen before. From a bowl he selects a fish which he swallows with a gulp. Not a carrot imitation but the real thing. Then he performs several third-rate card tricks and brings up the wiggling fish again. The squeamish turn away in quick pallor. Now and then some one screams.

It used to be that Ziegfeld's Follies brought out the swankiest list of first nighters. Now it is the "Gershwin show." This is the designation for a production whose music is by the lantern-jawed George Gershwin. More than the producer, stars or play itself, Gershwin tunes are the attraction. And Gershwin seldom attends.

* * *

In our guest book is Gershwin's signature followed by a colophon in shape of a bar or so of his reigning composition, "Nobody But You." That was 12 years ago when his name was little known compared to his world eminence today. A tall, pale fellow with a jutting jaw, he liked a small group around him while he improvised at the piano. He seemed an incurable dreamer and it is incomprehensible that those who sat spellbound did not realize his potentialities. Yet I do not think anyone did.

Roscoe Peacock tells a story to do with J. T. Harahan, emir of the Illinois Central. He was sitting in his office when a burly fellow entered without knocking. "Me name's Casey," he bellowed. "I want a pass to St. Louis. I wur-rk in the yards." Harahan objected: "That's no way to ask for a pass. You should introduce yourself politely. Come in an hour and try again."

At the end of an hour, back came the caller. Doffing his hat, he inquired: "Are yez Mr. Harahan?"

"I am."

"Glad to know you Mr. Casey. What can I do for you?"

"Yez can go to hell, I've got a job on the Wabash."

Among telephone callers within the hour were Lucius Beebe and Herschel Kiche. And ever since, I've been wandering around mumbling: "Lucius Bebe and Herschel Kiche, slipperty slapperty, Stuyvesant Fish."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Should Ladies Still Be Treated as Clinging Vines?

Here's a kid letter. Just a Girl Friend talking about her Boy Friend. Should—or shouldn't—he "see her home after they've been stepping out?"

A silly question? That depends on how you look at it. Time was when All Nice People would have gasped with horror at the very notion of such a query. Let a Nice Young Girl Go Home Alone? Unthinkable! And the young man who attempted it, or the girl who permitted it, would have promptly received the Official Dog Eye.

But now that women have become People and ceased (or have they?) being Clinging Vines, have, or haven't, such little courtesies gone into the ash can?

Plainly, Dolly's Boy Friends think they have. Send Dolly home alone? "Why not," says they, in a carefree chorus! So here comes Dolly, wanting to know—HAS SHE BEEN INSULTED, OR HASN'T SHE?

Dear Miss Robinson:

I've got a problem I'd like you to give me an opinion about. Maybe it sounds strange, but it means a lot to the girls I know. So here it is.

AREN'T BOYS SUPPOSED TO TAKE A GIRL HOME IF THEY TAKE HER OUT, NOWADAYS?"

I live a little far out, and when I go out with boys they don't seem to think it's necessary for them to see that I get home safely. They just put me on a street car, and that's that! I don't like it. I'm not exactly afraid to go home on the car alone. It stops about a half block from my door but—well, it makes me feel queer to have the boys act like that.

There is one boy in particular that I like a lot. He does the same thing. We got into an argument over it, and he says that THESE MODERN "INDEPENDENT" GIRLS DON'T HAVE TO PRETEND TO BE AFRAID, OR NEED "A MAN'S STRONG ARM" TO PROTECT THEM.

Then he went on to say that it's just a sort of racket for girls to demand all this freedom and then, when it suits them, to pretend to be so helpless.

I don't believe that, and I got pretty mad when he said it. I admit that my boy friends would get home pretty late if they took me home, and it would be hard for them to get down to the office on time next day. But I think if a boy respects a girl, he ought to do it. Or am I wrong?

DOLLY.

A kid problem? No—much more than that! Here's a query that touches the whole world of modern men and women, with their new rights and their new relationships. And perhaps you'll reveal your own status in that new world by your answer.

If you're an older man or woman, brought up in "the days of chivalry," you'll see only one answer to that question: "ANY MAN WHO CALLS HIMSELF A GENTLEMAN WILL CERTAINLY ESCORT A GIRL HOME, THE WAY THEY DID WHEN WE WERE BOYS AND GIRLS."

But is the rest of the world being run as it was when "we were boys and girls?" Are women, in other departments of their lives, willing to live as Mother and Grandma lived?

When Mother and Grandma were Sweet Young Things, girls didn't go off unchaperoned to public dances or "blind date" parties 50 miles away—didn't pay their own way, and probably their escort's, into those parties—didn't stay up until 3 and 4.

IF THERE WERE DEFINITE DEMANDS MADE THEN ON YOUNG MEN, THERE WERE ALSO DEFINITE LIMITS SET ON YOUNG WOMEN.

So what? Should, or shouldn't, she get them? Does she, or doesn't she, need 'em? If a girl can compete all day with a young man in swimming, hiking, running, high-jumping, riding, driving, does she really require "the protection of his manly arm after nightfall?"

Do Not Weaken, Mr. President

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL
Financial Authority

THE PRESIDENT is being pressed for some modification of the new securities law, particularly elimination of the director's liability for misleading statements, or for failure to tell all the truth, and more particularly to disclose just WHO GETS THE MONEY.

THAT'S THE PROVISION that REALLY HURTS our BANKETEERS and STOCKETEERS.

It is stated that heavy industries have some eight hundred million dollars early maturities which cannot be refinanced without relaxing these measures—measures designed to protect the public from paying $52 per share for 20 cent stock.

This necessary "heavy industry" financing sounds like PROPAGANDA to me, Mr. President.

ASK FOR THE RECORD, MR. PRESIDENT.

WHO CONTROLS THEM?

Who are the DIRECTORS who are afraid to indorse the literature by which the public is to be invited to buy this new financing?

If it is utilities or important manufacturing enterprises which have been "FINANCED" by WALL STREET in the last 10 or 12 years, you will almost certainly find that the DIRECTORS are "dummies," or clerks of the Wall Street "BANKERS" who framed up the deal and hood winked thousands of responsible and conscientious small investment bankers all over the country into selling the bonds or "PREFERRED STOCK" or "PREFERENCE STOCK" to their confiding friends and acquaintances.

THE WALL STREET "BANKERS" KEPT CONTROL.

You know, Mr. President, that's the kind of financing Wall Street has been doing for the last few years, and the only kind.

DON'T LET these racketeers put anything over, Mr. President.

They are very clever, and they have a lot of skillful financial sharpshooters on their staff.

You have a big job ahead of you in Wall Street, Mr. President.

A little later on, not now, you will have to look into our great utilities structures, to examine the complicated "financing" deals and "consolidations" from which these gentlemen emerged, not only with vast fortunes, but with CONTROL of nearly all our great essential public service corporations.

You will then learn, Mr. President, why we are paying 10 to 20 times the cost of production for electric current—to support these complicated pyramided and inflated structures.

All that can come later on, Mr. President, but do not retreat an inch.

Let's clean up the whole rotten core in our economic apple—make this four years of BANKRUPTCY and heartbreak and suffering worth while.

THE NATION is with you, Mr. President, and you may count on an alert and sympathetic press to nail this insidious propaganda to the floor, as fast as it comes into sight.

Unified Banking System Need of U. S.

By James T. Williams, Jr.

IF THE "new deal" in government, to which the Roosevelt administration is pledged, is to give to the American people a square deal in the fruits of government it must include a unification of the American banking system.

Instead of a strong, simple and well administered system of banking in the United States today, the American people are handicapped by the combined weaknesses, intricacies and poor administration of 49 different banking systems—one for each state of the Union in addition to the federal banking system.

Senator Glass, of Virginia, knows all about banks and bankers. He is the legislative father of the Federal Reserve Act. He is working hard for a reform of our whole banking system. He is a strong advocate of a unified banking system. He says there are three state banks for every national bank "with their consequent numerical influence upon the congressmen who do the voting."

"I think the curse of the banking system of this country is the dual system."

The question is, how can the people get rid of it? When the answer to that question comes the people can be relied upon to compel the Congress to unify the existing dual system.

In recent testimony before the Senate Banking Committee, Winthrop W. Aldrich, the new president of the Chase National Bank, agreed with Senator Glass that this country ought to have a unified banking system, but expressed doubt whether the dual system could be abolished without a constitutional amendment.

There is, however, expert opinion that no constitutional amendment is necessary to make the change.

* * *

Says Congress Has the Power

A YEAR ago this month Walter Wyatt, general counsel to the Federal Reserve Board, rendered an opinion that Congress has the power under the Constitution to provide for a complete unification of commercial banking.

These are the three main grounds for this opinion:

1—The general power of the United States to create and maintain a banking system.

Eugene Meyer, who was governor of the Federal Reserve Board when this opinion was rendered, also agreed with Senator Glass that our banking systems should be unified.

If President Roosevelt decides to throw the weight of his administration on the side of a unified banking system he will probably proceed upon the theory that Congress has the power under the Constitution to potect our national currency system and our national banking system by the establishment of a unified banking system under national supervision.

* * *

Owen D. Young's Recommendation

SO DID Owen D. Young, who has urged before the Senate Banking Committee that all banks of deposit, as distinguished from savings banks, should be national banks, and that all commercial banking in this country should be carried on under one law.

Under the 49 different systems now in operation banks chartered by the federal government under strict regulations are in cut-throat competition with banks chartered by many states under loose regulations. The vast majority of bank failures in this country in the last decade have been in banks under state supervision and charter, and not banks protected by federal charters and federal supervision.

A unified banking system under federal supervision during the last 10 or 15 years would have saved to the American people the hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars that have been lost to them, through the protection which only a unified system of banking under federal supervision will ever be able to give.

Of course, the horde of county and local politicians who are controlled by those bankers opposed to a unified banking system will try to defeat any legislation at the next session of Congress to give this country a unified banking system. These politicians make up "the army of occupation" of that obsolete system of government which, as President Roosevelt has said, was "built up in the days of the oxcart," and is utterly unsuited to protect the people in the days of the automobile.
